INTRODUCTION

The documents in the Kharoṣṭhi alphabet, recovered by Sir Aurel Stein from Central Asia, are written in a variety of Indian Prakrit that was used as the administrative language of Shan-Shan or Kroraina in the third century A.D. The texts range over a period of at least eighty-eight years, as is seen from Prof. Rapson's Table of Kings and Regnal Years, Kharoṣṭhi Inscriptions, pp. 326-8. The date is approximately fixed by a Chinese document, found in the same heap with a number of Kharoṣṭhi tablets, which is dated A.D. 269. Further than this it is not possible to go yet, because none of the kings has been found referred to in Chinese annals. The language of the documents is uniform throughout and there is no trace of evolution from the earliest to the latest.

The bulk of the texts comes from Niya, the ancient Caḍota which lay on the extreme edge of the kingdom bordering on Khotan. For the rest there are a few from Endere (= Sāca) and about forty from the Lou-Lan area where the ancient capital of the kingdom Kroraina was situated. A single document from Endere (661) is written in a different dialect from the rest, and since it refers to a king of Khotan, it may be taken to represent the Prakrit used similarly for administrative purposes in Khotan at that time. (B.S.O.S. VIII, 430-34.)

For a variety of reasons the language has presented considerable difficulties of interpretation. In the first place it represents a variety of Prakrit not otherwise known; and secondly it contains a large number of non-Indian words from various sources. The general position of the language has already been dealt with in a series of articles ('Iranian Loan-words in the Kharoṣṭhi Documents', I, B.S.O.S. VII (1934), 511 ff.; II, B.S.O.S. VII (1935), 779 ff.; 'Tocharian Elements in Kharoṣṭhi Documents', J.R.A.S. (1935), pp. 667 ff.; and 'The Dialectical Position of the Niya Prakrit', B.S.O.S. VIII (1936), 419 ff.). Referring to the full discussions in these papers, it will be sufficient here to indicate the main conclusions arrived at.

The language was used for official purposes in the Shan-Shan kingdom. Its original home was N.W. India, probably in the region of Peshawar. It agrees closely with the (post-Aśokan) Kharoṣṭhi Inscriptions from N.W. India and (slightly less closely) with the Prakrit version of the Dhammapada. Further, it exhibits sufficient characteristics in common with the modern Dardic languages to be assigned definitely to that group (B.S.O.S. VIII (1936), 434 and Konow, ib. 605 ff.). Among the Dardic languages it would seem to be most closely allied to Torwali.

At the same time it differs from all other varieties of Prakrit preserved, in the degree to which its inflectional system has decayed and altered. There is no reason to impute this to the users of the language in Central Asia, because with them it was a stereotyped official language, whereas the phenomena observed are those of normal linguistic change. Moreover, the changes are actually found to occur over the rest of the Indo-Aryan field at a later date. For instance, they have ceased to distinguish between Nominative and Accusative. This became general in Indo-Aryan in the Apabhraṃśa stage. Other phenomena which occur (though less thoroughly) in Apabhraṃśa are the tendency to transfer all nouns to the a-declension (§§ 67, 70), extension of -ī as the general termination of feminine nouns (§ 74, cf. forms in Ap. (Bhavisatta-kaha) like sampunnī, avainnī, khittī, etc.), use of the Locative instead of the Accusative with verbs of going, sending, etc. (§ 123, cf. L. Alsdorff, Kumārāpālāprati-bodha, Introd. § 43 (1) b).

Especially interesting is the formation of a new active past tense from the past participle passive (§ 105). This has not developed even in Apabhraṃśa, but is common in the modern Indo-Aryan languages (cf. J. Bloch, L'Indo-Aryen, p. 276). There is a precisely similar development in Modern Persian.

The question arises whether these tendencies to evolution developed unusually early in the home of this Prakrit (due to foreign invasion, influence), or whether they may not have been more general in India only obscured by the conservative tendencies of the literary Prakrits. We might ask, for instance, that since the Prakrit used by Kālidāsa remained the same for centuries after his time, to what extent may it not have been artificial and archaic even then? Anyway it is curious that our language, while usually the most conservative in phonetic preservation (B.S.O.S. VIII (1936), 422), is at the same time the most advanced of all in inflectional decay.

The dialect that had thus evolved in India is subjected to two kinds of foreign influence: (1) Iranian, (2) the native language of Kroraina.

The Iranian loan-words have been dealt with in my two papers (B.S.O.S. VII, 509 ff., 779 ff.). Further examples (discussed in Index) are anada 'carefully', cojhbo (name of an official), namamniya, parāṣa, veḡa sujinakirta. They total together some forty or forty-three words, which is quite considerable.

As regards the origin of these Iranian words, there is no reason to assume that they entered the language at the same time and from the same place. In the case of the word meaning 'treasury', for instance, we have two dialect forms gaija- (cf. gaṃṇa and kaiṇi) and ganza- (cf. kaṃjhaṇaliyana). A very few words are specifically Saka, namely anada, prahoni, lastana. The title cojhbo appears in the Maralbashi dialect of Saka as cazba. jheniḡa is peculiar to Saka and Sogdian, although the same base appears in N.Pers. xīn-hār 'protection, security' and xindān 'prison'. If draṃga is connected with Avestan θrasta-, etc., it shows the typically Saka treatment of θr-. avāna 'village' occurs in both of the Saka dialects (having lost its initial a-), but also in Western Iranian, Arm. avan.

On the other hand, the mass of the words might equally well appear in a typically Western Iranian language, e.g. kākhorda, guṣura, divira, načira, tavastaga, ṣpura, veḡa, ṣada, stora. Many of them have not, so far at any rate, turned up in Khotanese. ṣada 'pleased' definitely cannot be Kh. (tsāta), and guṣura shows a treatment that is not Khotanese but typical of the eastern part of Iranian. There is some reason to believe that a large number of the words at any rate had been taken into the Prakrit in N.W. India before it came to be used in Central Asia.

(1) Quite a number of the Iranian loan-words here appear also in India in Sanskrit, etc., namely, sthora, gaija, (aśva)vāra, divira, draṅga, kākhorda. saste 'day' occurs in Kharoṣṭhi inscriptions from N.W. India; namataka 'felt' is used in Pali. In the case of these words we may be pretty sure that they had become part of the language in India itself.

(2) There are traces of the phonetic developments that occur in the languages of specifically those Iranians who occupied N.W. India in the centuries round about the Christian era. Gusura shows the same treatment of initial vi- as occurs in the proper name Gudaḥhara (Gondophernes). The change of d > l in laṣṇi 'gift' is paralleled by royal names in India beginning with spala- (= spāda 'army'). The same change is observable in Pushto, and may have been characteristic of the Iranian-speaking population bordering on N.W. India at quite an early date.

(3) Iranian proper names in the Kharoṣṭhi documents (B.S.O.S. VII, 789) are exceedingly rare, so that certainly there was no Iranian population in this kingdom. The solitary Khotan document (661) indicates a different state of affairs for Khotan, but there is no means of ascertaining its relative date. The differences between the two varieties of Prakrit are such that each must have its origin separately in India and not one depend on the other (cf. B.S.O.S. VIII (1936), 430 ff.).

We may conclude that the Prakrit already in India had a fair sprinkling of Iranian words, and that in Central Asia a smaller number (cojhbo, etc. above) were further introduced.

The second foreign element to which the Prakrit was subjected is the native language of the kingdom. It is represented by a wealth of proper names (over 1000) and about 100 words. Working on the phonetic structure and suffix formation of this material it is possible to demonstrate a strong affinity of this language with 'Tocharian' (Agnean and Kuchean, cf. H. W. Bailey, B.S.O.S. VIII (1936), 883-917). This point I have dealt with in detail in J.R.A.S. (1935), pp. 667 ff. We may term the language 'Krorainic' after the capital of the kingdom.

The pronunciation of the Prakrit was strongly affected by the phonetic structure of 'Krorainic'. It was devoid of voiced stops, consequently we find writings like kilane = glāna 'sick', taṇḍa = daṇḍa, poḡa = bhoḡa, etc. (§ 14). Similarly it was devoid of aspirates with like effects (§ 24). The solitary document from Khotan does not show these tendencies, whence we may infer that the language there was of a different type.

Actual word-correspondences in the documents with Agnean and Kuchean are unfortunately few. Among the most certain are:

kilme 'district' = Agnean kālyme 'direction, district'.

kitsaitsa, a title (elder?) = Kuchean ktsaitsaŋe 'age'.

ṣoṭhaṃga 'tax-collector': Agnean ṣoṣṭāṅk-, meaning the same.

amklatsa, epithet of uṭa 'camel': Kuchean aknātse, Agnean āknats 'ignorant', 'inexperienced'.

ṣilpōga (i.e. ṣilyōga) 'document': Agnean ṣlyok which translates Skt. śloka.

Considering the strong evidence (J.R.A.S. (1935), pp. 667 ff.) that Krorainic was a language closely akin to Agnean and Kuchean, it is surprising that there are so few obvious etymologies, but it may be due to difference of subject-matter: the texts in those languages are chiefly religious, whereas the Krorainic words in the Prakrit are mostly of a technical nature (official titles, crops and objects of local use, etc.).

Such briefly are the relationships and history of the language of the Niya documents. The present work is divided into two parts: first, a Grammar of the language; and secondly, a combined Index and Vocabulary, where the forms are referred to the paragraphs of the Grammar so far as they are treated there, while an attempt is made as far as possible to explain the meaning of individual words, with references to the existing literature.

Part I

GRAMMAR

VOWELS

§ 1. There is a slight tendency in the documents for e to become i: ajiṣaṃnae 419 (usually ajeṣaṃnae = adhyeṣanayā 'at the request of'), ichiyati 425 (usually -eyati), čhitra = kṣetra 160, 255, etc.; viṭaṃna 177 = vetamṇā, but the reading is uncertain. Finally: niči = niče 'decision', vaṃti 'in the presence of' = upāṃte, kiṃna = kena 609, tina 532 (tiṣu 511). The change was regular in the dialect of Khotan: 661 saḡaḡi = sakāṣe, niravaṣiṣo, kali, cudiyadi = codeyāti, etc. But in the dialect of Niya the e is preserved in the vast majority of cases. In the Kharoṣṭhi Dh.p. instances are common, e.g. viraneṣu averana C^{vo} 28, sarvi, wito, etina, etc. Likewise loan-words in Saka: aḡiṣ 'to seek', practiya-sambuddha-, cīya = caitya. It seems to have been a specifically Khotanese change, which had already taken place at the date of no. 661; but it cannot have been very much earlier, because the Saka loan-word jheniḡa always appears with e in the texts although i in Saka ysinīya.

§ 2. The treatment of o is parallel to that of i. It is preserved in the documents with the sole exception of kuṣava 345 for usual koṣava. rucate 585 is probably to be compared with Pali, Pkt. ruccati rather than with Skt. rocate. paribhuchamṇae 579, 581 is probably for bhuñjanae*, rather than bhojanāya*, because the infinitive is usually formed from the present base. cudiyadi in 661 shows that the change was established in Khotan, as is later borne out in the Saka texts (Konow, Saka Studies, p. 20).

§ 3. e occasionally appears for short i: garbheni 593, Jeṭugha 591 (usually ḡiṭugha), pačemakalammi 332 (pačima 165, etc.); levistarena 160 (usually livistara = līpi-vistāra) has probably been influenced by lekha.

§ 4. o is written for u frequently after h and pr: baho, amaho, prahoḍa, laho, ahono, gohomi side by side with bahu, amahu, etc., prochidavo and pruchidavo. In all these cases the difference between the signs for o and u is very small, and it is more likely that u should everywhere be read than that there was really a change from u to o.

§ 5. The regular treatment of the vowel r is ri, which is written ri, r and rr: atripta 390, etrisa, krita, kriṣati, ghrida, grihasta, driṭha, triti, prichati. It is written r in rna, kṛta, grha, gr̥heyati, dṛṭhati, rr in dṛṛthaḡa, tadṛṣa. The rr is also used to represent ri, rī asṛṛta 511, Priyaṣṛṛ, Kutaṣṛṛae. After p we get ru in pruch- (proch-), though also pricha, pariprichati. Usually after labials the vowel r is written (probably=ru): pṛchati, pṛthesu, mṛga, mṛda 'dead', mṛduka (mṛyati=mriyate), vivṛdhi, vṛṇha, vṛdha, saṃṛdhae, pravṛti. It appears as i in kica=kṛtya, kiḍa=kṛta, kiṣaṃnae 'to plough', gimnaṃti 'they take', ṣinga-vera 'ginger'. As a in praḡaṭa=prakṛta, anahetu=ṛnahetu (unless ana=a-, an- 'not'), kataṃti. As u in huḍi 703=bhṛti prahūḍa=prābhṛta. A following dental is usually cerebralised when the r disappears: praḡaṭa, kiḍa, huḍi. The rule seems to be that r is preserved, but a number of forms have crept in from other dialects without r. In the Dh.p. examples are found where the r becomes r and vowel: vriḍha C^{vo} 34, driḍha C^{vo} 17, savṛuto=saṃvṛta; but (as a result of its Prakrit original?) forms without r are more common: diṭhi, kita, kica, alagito=alamkṛta, akitaṇa, amutu, mucuno, etc.

§ 6. aya=(1) aya: svaya 'self' 709, vayaṃ 663, 666, ṣayati 'gets hold of' (ṣrayate), jayaṃta 'victorious'.

(2) eya: bheya (bheyidavya), veyaṃ, ubheya, treya, niṇeya, praceya (seyita), jeyaṃtasa, sampreṣeyati 288.

(3) e: anemti, niṇe, prace, tre, sve=svayam. Almost always in causative verbs: taḍeti, dhareti, etc.

The forms in -aya are certainly due to the influence of Sanskrit. It is more difficult to judge of the relation of the -eya and -e forms. We find praceya by the side of prace, niṇeya and niṇe, treya and tre. It would seem that -aya everywhere regularly became -e, but that final -e=-aya was readapted to the declen-sional system by the adding of -a. The process was applied also to native words and names ending in -e: loteya for lote, Lpipeya beside Lpipe, etc. Further, when the second -a formed part of a heavy syllable (e.g. Jayamta, Jeyamta) the disyllabic form was regularly preserved (never Jenta*).

§ 7. ava becomes o in vyochinida, vyoṣeti, no = '9', omaḡa = avama(ka) 'falling short', ohara.

ava is preserved in avāsīṭha 'remaining', avakaṣa, avaṣa 'certainly'.

va alternates with o in the non-Indian ṣoṭhaṃga (an official), also ṣvaṭhaṃga, and in the name of the king, Aṃgoka and Aṃkvaga (Aṃgvaka, Aṃguvaka, Aṃgomka).

§ 8. Final -āya > -ae in infinitives: deyaṃnae 'to give', etc. Also written -aya, -aye; karaṃnaya, karaṃnaye; the suffix -aḡa = -aka is treated in the same way: ditae 'given', thavaṃnae (-aḡa) 'cloth'; also -aḡa: ditaga, dharaṃnaḡa.

The change is much more common in past participles than in ordinary nouns and adjectives. (Here perhaps the original Nom. Sing. -ake (cf. § 53) might be responsible, cf. § 74.)

§ 9. Final -ya and -iya become -i: muli 'price', eṣvari 'ownership', arogi 'health'.

-ya is always preserved in karya. Dhamapri n.pr. = Dharma-priya. Then -ya comes to be written for -i: ahumapya 399 = aham api, palpiya 42 = palpi 'tax'. The treatment of gerundival forms is peculiar. Either the -vya is preserved or it becomes -vo: dadavya and dadavo. Both forms are found in about equal numbers, cf. §§ 53, 116.

§ 10. Svarabhakti occurs regularly between r and h: garahati 'complains', arahamta 'saint'. Also in gilanaḡa 'sick'.

An i is evolved before stri only in 231 istriae, but the regular form in the dialect is stri as in Sanskrit.

§ 11. A certain amount of vowel elision occurs in Sandhi: e.g. ajuvadae 'starting from to-day', ceṣa = ca eṣa, emaceva = evam ca eva, ciṣa = ca iṣa. That is to say in formulae that are regarded as one expression. For the rest hiatus is the rule: 324 parihara oḡita aṃñeṣa, etc.

§ 12. Final -as seems to have become -e as in the Mansehra version of Aśoka's edicts. It is preserved regularly in the ablative singular: tade, Caḍodade, goṭhade, śavathade, etc. = °ātas. The nominative and accusative have been confused and the -a which serves for both is the accusative -am. Only se = saḥ preserves the old nominative ending. In addition we often find u (o) or a in adverbial forms in -tas: itu, ito = itaḥ, agratu, agrata = °taḥ, punu, puno, puna = punar, pratu = prātar, yatu 52 = yataḥ.

J. Bloch (B.S.O.S. vi, 292) points out a similar occurrence of the adverbial tato in the Kalsi (and Mansehra) version of Aśoka's edicts.

Both e and o seem to have been current in the North-West. In Aśoka Shahbazgarhi has o, Mansehra e. In the later Kharoṣṭhi inscriptions the e seems to predominate in the districts west of the Indus. The Kharoṣṭhi Dh.p. has o or u (or a) in the nominative, which may be due to its Prakrit original.

§ 13. The elision of vowels is not infrequent: Butsena = Buddhaṣena, Yoksena = Yogaṣena, Ṣamnera = Śrāmanera, Ṣam-seṇṇa = Ṣamaṣena, vastarna = (u)pastarana, muṣka = mūṣika 565. Often in non-Indian names: Yilika and Yilga, Ṣapika and Ṣapga, Mañḡeya and Mañḡeya, etc. Finally: cotaṃ = codaṃna 425, rotaṃ 252, 272 = rotaṃna, gamaṃ 646 = gamana, śramaṃ 250 = śramana. It is worth while noticing that all these examples of the elision of final a come after n. Probably there was a general tendency to elide the final a, but except in the case of -na there was no temptation to express it in writing, since the a-vowel is not written and the virāma was not used in writing Prakrit. Only in the case of -ana was it convenient to write the shorter form by using the anusvāra under the preceding akṣara. No doubt -aṃ stands for -an as in Tocharian.

Final -deva in proper names seems to have been shortened to -dew*, and then this has further developed into -deyu. Examples: Upateyu, Jivadeyu, Baladeyu, Budhadeyu.

CONSONANTS

§ 14. Unvoicing. The native language of Shan-Shan lacked the voiced stops g, j, d, b, as is evident from a survey of the proper names. As a result of this they tended to unvoice the Prakrit g, d, etc., and the fact is sometimes reflected in the spelling, e.g. kilane 'ill', yokačhema, civaračhi 460, chaṃlpita = jalpita 113, caṃṃma = janma 180, saracidati 648 = sarajitaṃti (usually), canati 590 = janati, taṃṭa, taḍima, taṣavida, tita, tivajhi, tivira, tivya, tui '2', tura, toṣa, trakhma, traṃgha, triṭha, tharidavo, utaḡa, satriṣa, mutra, prateja, coteyati, veteyati, Naṃtaṣena, poḡa = bhoga.

Usually the forms are sporadic, the voiced forms being the usual ones, but in palpi (i.e. pal'yi), = bali, the p invariably occurs because that word had been adopted into the popular speech and was felt as a native word.

As will be seen the confusion is commonest with dentals. That is probably because the state of things in the Prakrit itself gave rise to confusion. The traditional writing of dida 'given' was dita, and so it was easy to write t in other positions, e.g. tida. In other cases a spirant, ḡ, y, (s), w, was produced and there was less tendency to confusion. Further, the t and d are often difficult to distinguish in writing.

§ 15. Another result of pronouncing d, etc. as t, etc. was to write d, etc. instead of t: dusya, daha, dahi, dumahu, dena, danu, danuvaka, daḍita, dačhaṃṃa 'carpenter', jinida = ch° 580, jhorida = chor°.

In native proper names: Giraka beside Kiraka, Jimoya beside Cimoya, Jinaṣa beside Cinaṣa, Pideya and Piteya, Dhameca and Tameca, Boṣarsa and Poṣarsa, Buṃni and Puṃniyade, Parabulade and Parampulanmi.

It is worth while noticing that most of the Prakrit examples are pronominal forms, and possibly the voicing has some foundation in the Prakrit itself. As unaccented forms their initial would be liable to be treated as intervocalic t, i.e. become voiced; although here again it should perhaps be attributed to confusion of writing.

§ 16. Intervocalic consonants k, c, t, ṭ, p, ś, s, probably ṣ, become voiced, and k, c, t, p, also g, j, ḍ, b (?), further become spirants ḡ, ṣ, (j), ḍ, v.

k, g: avaḡaḡa=avakāśa, praḡasita=prakāśita, aḡasita 'carried off' from ā and kas; pratigāra, sigāta, yathaḡamaḡaraniya 661 = yathakāmakaranīya, aneḡa, bhaḡa, etc.

The k is usually preserved in eka, which points to a double k as in Prakrit ekka. The pronunciation of this ḡ was very close to y, because they are occasionally confused.

ḡ is written for y: aprameḡo, frequently for aprameyo(a); kośalḡa, for kośalya; vyāḡa=vyaya—.

y is written for ḡ in aṃṇa yala 431 = aṃṇa kala. The phrase has been treated as a compound. Also viraya=virāḡa 546, 622, jheniya 278 (usually jheniḡa) 'under the care of', saṃvatsaraye (= -ake) 186, 422.

The suffix -aḡa tends to become -ae, especially in past participles, ditae and ditāga, etc. Similarly -uka becomes -uēa in agamduēa 33. The guttural was weaker in the suffix than in other places. -ika=-i, cf. § 75.

k and g are often preserved in writing: akasida, agata, nagara, etc.

Noteworthy is the title ogu, which never appears with the spirant, although that is otherwise the rule not only in Indian but in native words: Caḡu, Moḡata, etc. It is perhaps oggu with double g.

The state of things in the Dh.p. is exactly the same, although the writing is less clear. Intervocalic k and g both appear as k: urako, etc.; but that k is confused with y just as g in the documents udaka B 13, C^{vo} 18 = udaya, dhoreka C^{vo} 37 = dhoreya, so that it is plain we are dealing with a spirant.

§ 17. c and j. In the Dh.p. intervocalic c and j invariably become y: śoyati=śocati, goyari=gocare, vianato=vijanato, parvaitasa=pravrajitasya. In the documents the treatment is not so regular. We find y for j in maharaya (always), vaniye 'merchants' 35. ni contracted out of nīya=nīja 'own', and in the literary pieces oya=ojas 501, bhoyamṇa=bhojana 501.

In addition both c and j are represented by ś, ḡ (i.e. ṣ): praśura=pracura, yajitaga=yācitaka, vajidesi 'you read' 376

(so read instead of vaṭ-); j=ś, j in bhija 'seed', vibhaṣita 'decided'. There is some difficulty in deciding between y and ś, and, in the last instance, vibhayaṭa could possibly be read. Since both treatments are well attested it is impossible to decide on linguistic grounds. Perhaps vibhayi- is more likely because the alternative spelling j never appears. In that case y may be taken as the regular treatment of j because the j of bhija may be explained by the doubling of the consonant after a long vowel (common in Prakrit, Pischel, § 91), i.e. bīja > bīya* > bīyya* > b(h)ījja* > bhija (on j=jj, cf. raja, aṣa beside raja, aṣa). The same development appears in iṣa 'here', Skt. iha, Aś. (Shah) ia, i.e. iya > iyya (by a natural emphasising which particles like this are exposed to) > iṣa, iṣa (= iṣa*).

In Saka loan-words j and c usually appear as ś (= ṣ): ttiṣa = tejas, daśa = dhvaja, āśirya = ācārya, aviśā = avici.

§ 18. ṭ and ḍ become = ḍ: kukuḍa 'cock', koḍi 'crore', kiḍa 'done', vaḍavi 'mare', taḍita, daḍima 'pomegranate'.

Intervocalic ṭ is sometimes preserved: aloṭa vilōṭa 'plundering and ravaging', saṃghaṭi-davo 106, 584, paṭa 'cloth'. Here we probably have ṭṭ. Not however in viheṭa 621 (usually viheḍ-) 'worries', coṭaḡa 317 = coḍaḡa, guṭa 17, which obviously stands for gūḍha. With reference to these spellings it must be borne in mind that the difference between the akṣaras for ṭa and ḍa is often very small.

At present in the North-West intervocalic ḍ is represented by r, and that may have been the pronunciation at this time. There seems to be one instance of confusion between ḍ and r. In 574 śaḍa taṇmi appears for śarataṇmi 'in the autumn'. Moreover in the Dh.p. B 43 visara = viṣaṭa, C^{vo} 39 karu = kāṭuṃ, ajinaśaria (Pet. Fragm.) = ajinaśāṭyā. Likewise in Tocharian loan-words we find r for ṭ, ḍ: Cakravar = vāḍa*, kapār = kapāṭa, kor = koṭi.

On the other hand loan-words in Saka usually appear with l: alavi 'forest', kūla 'crore', gula 'molasses', nālai = Skt. nāṭaka, vīrūlināa 'made of beryl', palā 'banner', which would seem to point to ṭ.

§ 19. t, d. There is no doubt that intervocalic t was voiced in the Prakrit, but matters are obscured by the fact that the natives of Shan-Shan pronounced everywhere t for both d and t. Further, the traditional system of writing was probably archaic, so that e.g. dita was written for what was pronounced dida by proper speakers of Prakrit and tita by the natives of Shan-Shan. As a result we find t and d used indiscriminately for intervocalic (and even initial, §§ 14, 15) t and d.

t is omitted in caura '4', side by side with catu- and caturtha. Similarly in the Dh.p. we find cauri '4', although intervocalic t is usually preserved. Further possible examples are samao (samaho) 'with' < samatah and mahuli 'aunt' < mātulī.

§ 20. p=v: avi, darśaveti, etc.; uṭavala, parivalitavya, vavaṇṇae, mavida, etc.

The p is often preserved in writing: paripalitavo, upagata, apanaya, etc.

Intervocalic b (bh) is usually preserved as such: paribujiṣatu 'you shall understand', vibhaṣita, etc. They may have pronounced v, which does turn up occasionally: Silapraya n.pr. 519, 592, and possibly parivanae 214 = paribhāṇḍa(ka), pivaṇṇamṇae 586 = pi-bandhanāya*. In 519 read bahuve not vahuve.

In the Dh.p. examples of b (bh) = v occur: avalāsa = abalāśva, abhivūyu = abhibhūya and vice versa makabha is written for maghavā.

In supraudha, praujhati the v (i.e. ṽ) is not written. Similarly in Saka aviṣīya = abhiṣeka.

§ 21. ś becomes ṣ, written j: avaṣaṣa = avakāṣa, koṣalya, dajavita, pradeṣade. This ś is often preserved in writing.

§ 22. s becomes z, written ṣ or jh: aḥia = āśya, aḥajhidati 'they seized', tivajha 'day', dajha 'slave'.

ś in maśa 'month', daśa, divaśa, śpaśa, Budhaśena, and always in names in -sena, aśi 'was', viśajideśi 'you sent'.

The -aśya (-assa) of the genitive singular also appears as -aśa (cf. R. L. Turner, J.R.A.S. (1927), 227-39).

As in the case of the other consonants intervocalic s may be preserved in writing: asi (3 times) side by side with aśi (3 times), asita 'sat' 339, etc., ukasita, nikasiṣyati, prahitesi 358, denasi 358, etc.

ś never appears when followed by u or the anusvāra, e.g. śvasu

'sister', masu 'wine', vasanta 'spring'. Probably this was a question of convenience of writing.

s appears initially in certain particles and pronominal forms which were unaccented, and consequently the s could be treated as intervocalic: šamao and šadha 'with', šaca (particle introducing a quotation), še 'he', šarva 'all'.

The two ways of expressing z probably arose independently. Perhaps jh was modified from the existing jh specially to represent the Iranian z, which there was no room for expressing in Kharoṣṭhi, because in the Iranian word jheniḡa we invariably find jh and not s. Similarly ajhade 'free-born', Hinajha = σπαρτηγός, whereas s arose as a modification of the s in the same way as ś, j, etc. were invented, to meet the developments of the Prakrit itself which had occurred by this time. On the whole question see the Account of the Alphabet, p. 310 of the edition.

§ 23. ṣ probably followed the analogy of the other sibilants, but trouble was not taken to express it: darṣida, which is no doubt = Av. darəz 'bind', must contain a voiced ṣ, i.e. darṣida*.

§ 24. There is a tendency to drop the aspiration in the aspirated consonants kh, gh, etc. That was because the native language of Shan-Shan had no aspirates and consequently in pronouncing the Prakrit they neglected them: nikaliṣyati 188 (usually nikhal-) 'to remove', gaṣa 'fodder', grida 'ghee', ṣigra, vyagra, saṅga, agacati 122, ciṇṇita 598 'cut', jinida = chiṇṇita, pratama, śavatade, ṣitilya, adicite, gaṇdarvena, goduma, daridavo, paṇḍa = pamthā, sada 'with', madya 'middle', tanana = dhanā-nām 583, vṛtaḡa 399 'old', uṭa 'camel', kum̐ba 'jar', baḡena, bara, buma.

§ 25. It was always correct to write the aspirated forms, and these more usually occur, e.g. ghrida (21 times), grida (3 times), bhuma (39 times), buma (7 times), adhimatra, ghaṣa, ghrita, lekha (never leka*), goṭha (never goṭa), jeṭha (never jeṭa), śavatha, bhaḡa, etc., etc. uṭa 'camel' is invariably written without aspiration except in 422 (one of the earliest of the documents), where it appears with the modified ṭh: uṭha.

§ 26. This state of affairs further results in the writing of aspirated forms where they do not belong: aṅgha 252, draṅgha

430, sihavera 'ginger', Sacāṇmi 159 n.pr. (usually Saca-), paribhuchanae=paribhuṭṭjanāya or paribhoj-, sarachidati 591 'agreed' (usually saraj-), uthiṣa=uddiṣya, vivatha 'quarrel', gaṃdhavo, dhaṃḍa, dhaṃja 225, dhaḍima 617, dhana=dāna, dhaṣaṇmi 401, dhida 'given', dhivaṣa, dhura, durbhale 392, bhiti 'second'.

§ 27. Those aspirated consonants which had remained down to the time of the importation of the Prakrit into Central Asia are treated as stated above. But before this time the majority of intervocalic aspirates had become h (for those that remain, e.g. śavata, cf. § 24): -ehi, -ahi of the instrumental plural: lihati (also written likhati), saṇmuha, pramuha, suha, nihan (= nikhan or nihan?), taha 'so', amahu, tumahu=asmabhyam, etc., lahu, lahanti=labhante, parihaṣa 'claim'=paribhāṣā, prahuḍa=prābhṛta, gohomi 'wheat' (also goma and godūma), hudi=bhyti- 399, hoti, etc. 'is'. The change is regular in the case of terminational elements, the unaccented hoti, huda, and in the case of intervocalic kh.

In the examples of h in the Dh.p. we cannot be sure whether we are dealing with northern forms or forms from the original version, e.g. oha=ogha, ohaseti=avabhāsayati, suhu, lahati, aśuha, uhu=ubho B 2.

§ 28. There is considerable irregularity in the treatment of h, owing to its absence in the native language.

(1) It is omitted: mahanuava for mahanuhava (once, 593)=bhāva*, mayi 661=mahi (Gen. not Loc.), ara=hāra 113, svarna ara (?), danagrana 577, 588 for usual danagrahana 'giving and taking', goma 'wheat', giḍa=grhita, Syabala n.pr.=Sihabala, aḥhati besides haḥhati (only here akṣ- is the original form), astama besides hastama 'dispute', astalekha 414, astaṇmi 662, paḍuṣaga 'security'=paḍihū-aḡa*=pratibhū, paropimṣamānā 510=paropahiṃsamāno* (as required by the metre).

(2) It is transposed in uhati for huati 'is'.

(3) It is put in where it does not belong: prihito smi 140=prīto smi, hadehi 476 (usually adehi), sahasrahani 646 'thousands', ṣamaho besides ṣamao 'with', Pugohasa 511 (Gen. of Puḡo). Possibly heḍi 663=eḍā 'sheep'.

§ 29. Besides v there is a letter transliterated ṣ which was probably a w. It was characteristic of the native language which had no v. It occurs commonly in native names: Ṣapika, Ṣarpa, Ṣugaca, Ṣua, and in the title ṣasu.

In Prakrit words it is evolved between u and a following vowel: hetuṣṇa, Instr. of hetu 'cause'; tanuṣāga 'own'; similarly in vasuṣṇa Lpimsuṣasya.

They are not however consistently used. We find v side by side with ṣ in native proper names: Varpeya beside Ṣarpeya, vasu besides ṣasu. Further Vukto, Vuḡaca (also Ṣuḡaca), Vuḡeya, Vuru, vuryaga.

Also ṣ instead of v in the Prakrit: uṣadae, kāmaveti, vimṇaveti, maṇesi, ṣamti.

The explanation of this confused state of affairs is probably that they tended everywhere to say ṣ, which was the nearest sound in their own language to the Prakrit v.

§ 30. It was probably a characteristic of the local pronunciation that they tended to pronounce initial u- as wu-. We find uryaga side by side with vuryaga (some kind of profession or class) and in 399 vulasi seems to be for ullāsa 'wonder'. Also native names are common beginning with wu-, ṣu-, practically non-existent with u- (see Kharoṣṭhi Inscr. Index Verb.).

§ 32. yi- probably developed in other positions too. Certainly at the beginning of words, just like wu- developed out of u-. There are no native names beginning with i-, plenty with yi-: Yitaka, Yiliḡa, Yipḡe, Yiṣata, Yirumḡhina. It affects Prakrit words only in yiyo = iyam 348, 410, yima = ime 237.

Possibly native ni, ti had also become ñi, ci. ti does not seem to occur in native names, ni only in Kenika, Cinika (which is probably derived from Cina 'Chinese' and so would keep its n); whereas ñi is common: Ñimeya, Acuñiya, Apñiya, Kuñita, Kriñila, Mañigeya, Señima. In the case of the last two changes, no influence on the Prakrit can be traced.

§ 33. One of the chief characteristics of the North-Western Prakrit, and which is found in the Dardic languages to this day, is the preservation of the three sibilants as in Sanskrit:

ś. śata, daśa, darśaveti, avakāśa, etc.

ṣ. teṣu, doṣa, eṣa, varṣa, etc.

There are no instances of confusion.

śāsana becomes śāśana 310 in the same way as original śasa* became śaśa in Sanskrit. It was the regular form in the North-West, as it occurs also in the Dh.p. and as a loan-word in Saka śśāsana. The Dh.p. also has viśpaśa, which is the same kind of assimilation.

§ 34. The cerebral ṇ has ceased to be distinguished from n in the dialect. It is occasionally written, but irregularly. (See Account of the Alphabet, p. 305 of the edition.)

CONJUNCT CONSONANTS

§ 35. Stop + stop. Assimilated in the same way as in other Prakrits: anata=āññapta, śata=śapta, satati '70', sataṃma '7th', bhata=bhakta, balakarena=balātkārena, rataḡa=raktaka, satu=saktu, vuta=ukta and upta, saṃcchitena=saṃkṣiptena, upaṃna=utpanna, ukasta=utkasta*, uḡhivana from ut+kṣip, ladha=labdha.

The conjunct consonants are preserved in writing sometimes: viḡbhaktaḡa, vukta, prañapta, viññapti.

In 511, uktama=uttama, a mistaken attempt at restoration is made.

§ 36. Compounds with r. As a rule r is not assimilated.

(a) r comes first: antargata, Arjunaṣa, varjavidavo, viṣarjida, artha, ardha, kartavo, kirti, vardhati, purva, sarva, garbha, karya, niryoga, durlāpa = durlabha, parvata, varṣa, darśida 'packed', darśana.

There do not seem to be any examples of Prakrit rk. In native names there seems to be a tendency for it to become rg, though voiced stops are otherwise absent from the language, e.g. Argiceya, Argiya, Kargate, Cargayodae, Tsurgeya, Bargada. k also appears: Carka, Tsurkeya, Patirke, etc. g never appears as a spirant in this position. The same change appears in Saka (birgga < vrka, etc.) (Konow, Saka Studies, p. 23).

rm is written m̄: dhāma, kāma, cāma, nīmala, jīvaśāma. rm is occasionally written; dharmiyaśa 579, 581, title of king Aṃgoka. Occasionally also the superscript line is omitted: jīvaśamma 611, dhama 228, Dhamasīrae 21, etc.

(b) Consonants + r: agra, vyagra 'tiger' 665, citra, atra, tre, matra, kāmakaritra, kṛṣivatra, apramana, pra-, prati- (also paṭi-), prathama (also paḍama), bhrata.

gr is represented by kr in ajakra 'up till to-day' and possibly in akri (bhuma) = agrya.

The ṭ which sometimes appears for tra, e.g. Paṭaya and Patraya, Brahmacariṭa 399 for Brahmacaritra, kamakariṭa 166 v.l. for tra, is merely due to the fact that the two akṣaras are difficult to distinguish.

§ 37. Cases where r is assimilated.

(a) When placed first: śakara 702 'sugar', vadhi 264 n. 3 might be vardhri 'rope', viśajidavo side by side with viśarj-, parivaṭidemi 'I exchanged' = parivart-, kaṭavo beside kartavo, bhaṭaraḡa 'master', adha 169 (usually ardha). At 589 also aḍha occurs. śadha 'with' (also sardha), payati = paryāpti, aya (409) = ārya, sava 565 (elsewhere always sarva), tumbhichā 589 (trubhichā 581) = durbhikṣa, umna 149 = ūrṇā.

The cases of assimilation are definitely in a minority; where both forms occur those with r are much more common (e.g. sava and sarva, adha, aḍha and ardha; the forms without r occur only once). Some forms may be borrowed from an Eastern dialect. That is certainly so in the case of bhaṭaraḡa 'master'.

Aṭhovaḡa 'serviceable' according to Prof. Thomas = arthopaka. The value of the ṭh is not certain (see the Account of the Alphabet, p. 304 of the edition). No other example is found which contains an r.

(b) r comes last: vakuṭṭha = apakruṣṭa (doubtful), otherwise kr is always preserved, kṛita, parikṛaya, etc. The r is always assimilated in uṭa = uṣṭra 'camel'; also Rāṭhapala n.pr. 660 = Rāṣṭrapāla.

§ 38. Apart from these it is only assimilated in the case of śr, which regularly becomes ṣ: śayati 'seizes' = śrayate, maṣu = śmaśrū, śamaṇna, śamaṇnera = śramaṇa, śrāmaṇera, śunami 695 'I hear'. vyoṣeti 'pays, hands over' probably = vyavaśrayati* and perhaps Prakrit vosirai, which the grammarians explain as vy-ava-srj. miṣi (bhuma) may be miśrya 'mixed'.

The change is often neglected in writing, almost always in śru- 'to hear', also śramaṇa.

This development was universal in the North-West. It does not occur in Aśoka, but is common in the later Kharoṣṭhi inscriptions, and in the Dh.p., e.g. śavaka, śadhu 'faithful', śamano, śebha = śreyas, śutvana. Also in loan-words in Saka: śsamana, śśāvaa, śśadda. Note also Toch. śamaṇ, Sogd. śmn = śramaṇa.

In the Dh.p. sr also seems to share this treatment in anavaṣu-tacitasa; viśravatena = viśravantena* represents an intermediate process or else śr is just written for ṣ. Compare also śrotas = srotas, etc. in the Divyāvadāna. The Vinaya of the Sarvāstivādins, from which this text is abstracted, is said to belong to the North-West.

§ 39. A characteristic of the North-West was the transposition of r in forms like dhrama for dharma. It occurs in both the Kharoṣṭhi versions of Aśoka, e.g. grabhagara, dhrama, krama, pruva, drašana, side by side with forms that are not transposed, e.g. savva (written for sarva), kiṭṭra, athra, etc. Outside Aśoka it is common in the MS. Dutreuil du Rhins, e.g. drugati, dru-medhino, drugha, pravata.

On the other hand there is practically no trace of it in the dialect of these documents. The only examples are trubhichā = durbhikṣa 581 and śirmitra n.pr. 117, etc. compared with śṛmitra 94.

Similarly, in most of the later Kharoṣṭhi inscriptions from N.W. India this change is absent, e.g. (Konow, C.I.I. II, p. cvi) dirgha, dharma, °karmi, °śarma, °varma, etc.

§ 40. l is usually not assimilated: jalpita, jalma, śilpiḡa, alpa.

In this respect the dialect is more archaic than the Northern versions of Aśoka, where l is assimilated, e.g. apa, kaṡa, as also in the Dh.p. apa.

§ 41. y is usually assimilated to a preceding consonant.

ky=k or g in osuka, °ga=autsukya.

jy=j: raja, jeṡha.

dy=ḍ: paḍeka, paḍuwaḡa.

ty=c: kica. But always nitya.

dy=j: aḡa, upaḡeṡadi, khaja.

dhy=j: aḡeṡaṡṡnae=adhyeṡanaḡā, jāna 511=dhyāna, viḡaṡṡti=vidhyanti.

ny=ñ: aṡṡa, pumṡṡa.

bhy=b in abomata=abhyavamata in the phrase abomata kṡ 'to disregard, disobey'.

vy=v in gerundives: dadavo beside dadavya (cf. § 9).

śy=ś: avaśa, udiśa, naśati.

sy=ś: kaṡiśadi, maṡṡuśa, etc. The change had already taken place in Aśoka's time and was general in the North-West, e.g. (in Aśoka) arabhiśaṡṡti, maṡuśa, anapeśaṡṡti, etc. Similarly in the Dh.p. devamanuśana B 4. In the latter text the future seems usually to be in ś: eṡiti, payeṡiti. Presumably the ya of the future had become i before the change took place.

ēhy=ēḡ in śaḡḡami 188.

sy becomes ś in the termination of the genitive singular (§ 22): goṡhaśa, etc.; s initially in sali 'brother in law'=syāla.

Sometimes y is written in connection with ś, c, ch, ḡ where it is not justified, e.g. priyadarśyanaśa 152, paṡipruḡyaṡṡti 690, Sacyami 436, giḡya=giḡa 215 'took'.

§ 42. Sometimes y is not assimilated. In many cases this is merely the archaic or Sanskritising way of writing, which we are continually meeting with. Certainly in the case of genitive singulars in aśya and futures in iśyati. (The assimilation had already taken place in Aśoka 500 years earlier.) Also in osukya, madya, madhya (curiously enough j is never written in this word, though it usually occurs in such forms as aja, etc.), amnyatha, manyu, udiśya. It is perhaps regularly preserved in the futures stasyati, dasyati; syāt(i) always becomes siyati.

The combinations ry and ly were probably regularly preserved: kalyana, niryoga, viryaṇḍa, karya. payati in the phrase bhijapayati 'capacity for seed', which seems to be = paryāpti, is an exception, also aya in 419 = ārya. Final -ya (i.e. -iya) usually becomes -i (§ 9). It is always preserved in karya.

Initial vy- and sy- stand for viya-, siya-, with which they alternate, e.g. vyochimnita, vyoṣeti, vyartha. Also vīyoṣ-, etc., siyati and syati 'may be'. Note also Syabala n.pr. = Śī(h)abala.

§ 43. tv and dv tend to become p and b, e.g. badaśa '12', capariśa '40', biti 'second'.

We also find dvadaśa and always dvi, dui '2', which was disyllabic. Also daditva, saṃpreṣitva 204, bhudva 49. Always dvara.

The v is omitted in diguna 'double'. Presumably also in indeclinable participles in ti = Vedic tvī, vajiti 'having read', etc.

Similar forms are found in the Kharoṣṭhi inscriptions of N.W. India, see Konow, C.I.I. II, p. cviii, e.g. sapana = sattvanam, ekacapariśai '41'.

The rule is that original tuva-, duva- as found in the Veda were not assimilated: dui, Vedic duvā, Lat. duo, etc., but di-guna, biti, assimilated in different ways. Compare Vedic dvi- always monosyllabic, dvara, Vedic duvārā, e.g. R.V. 4. 51. 2.

§ 44. A nasal following another consonant is usually preserved. n is represented by the superscript line in naḡa, viḡa = vighna, gr̥heyati (usually gimn-), tr̥ṣa, tuṣi, laṣi 'gift', śatra.

nm is preserved in jaṇnma.

khm in trakhma 'drachma'.

tm becomes tv in mahatva (an official title), if that is not = mahattva, and in atvana 510. The tv passes further into p in apane 139, which seems to = atmanah.

Compare atva in the M. version of Aśoka (ed. 11), also ata.

Sh. has always ata. The Dh.p. has anatma and atuma with svarabhakti.

jñ is assimilated to ñ in vimñati, saññaveti, yañña.

In anati = ājnapati we have to do with a borrowing. In Aśoka too we find aṇap- instead of the regular añap-. Similarly in Pali.

§ 45. The voiced stops j, ḍ, d, b tend to be assimilated to a preceding nasal. The process is most regular in the Dh.p.: kuñiaru A² 4, nivinati A³ 1, tunati B 28, kana B 34, china B 37; ñ, ḍ: kunala C^{vo} 31, dana B 39, panita C^{vo} 26; mb: avaramu A⁴ 2, udumareṣu B 40.

In the documents we find gaññavara = gañjavara, chiñnati, bhiñnati, bañnanae 'to bind', amila 655 (of uncertain meaning) besides ambila 33 (= āmla?), hastama 'dispute', an Iranian word = ha- + stamba-, parivanae 214 probably = paribhāṇḍaka 'the load of a horse, baggage', bhana 149 = bhāṇḍa- (?).

The change never appears in daṇḍa, piṇḍa, and we find for instance baṇḍhitaga 660 side by side with baṇḍnidaga 346.

On this change and its occurrence in the modern languages, cf. J. Bloch, J. As. (1912), pp. 331-7.

§ 46. In the Dh.p. unvoiced k, c, t, etc. are voiced when preceded by a nasal, e.g. paga = paṅka, paja = paṅca, sabaṣu = sapaṣyan.

The documents do not present any consistent picture. We find upaśaṅghidavo = upaśaṅk-, saṅghalidavo = saṅkal-, gaṇḍavo 14 times against gaṇṭavo twice, ciṇḍ- and ciṇṭ- in about equal proportions; c never appears as voiced: kiṇci, paṅca. Probably the change was regular as in the Dh.p., but since the natives of Shan-Shan tended to unvoice all voiced stops, it has been considerably obliterated.

The loan-words in Saka show the same change: arahanda, cambaa, saṃduṣṭi.

§ 47. The anusvāra is often omitted in writing, e.g. abhyadara, kaḍa, gadavo, Tajaka, traghade = draṃghade, śrigha 585 'horn', śighavera 'ginger', ṣoṭhaga 422 (usually ṣoṭhaṅga), etc.

It is written where it does not belong, e.g. mumtra = mudrā, ṣiṭumṣha (name of a king, usually ṣiṭugha), chaṃlpitaṃti 113 = jalpitamti, kāmlaṇṇi 98, nagaṇṇaṇṇi 25, jiṇṇavamitra 290, manasiṅgara, Samṇrpina, tumbhiṇṇa = durbhikṣā.

In viṣati, triṣa, capariṣa, siha, the -ṇ- is omitted as in all the Prakrits, Pali tisa, sīha, etc. siṅgha in 511 is due to a re-introduction of Sanskrit siṃha, as elsewhere in India, 'Singhalese', etc. It is also regularly omitted in sarajitamti 'they agreed' (saṇṇajjati) and viṣalavita 295 = visaṇṇlap-.

An anusvāra is usually inserted before n, m after short vowels, e.g. gacchaṇṇae, deyaṇṇae, and all the infinitives: asaṇṇa = āsana, khaṇṇitamti 'they dug', Khotanṇa, gaṇṇana, jaṇṇa, jaṇṇma, śraṇṇa, sumiṇṇa 'dream', biṇṇita, chiṇṇita, karuṇṇiya, pumṇa; locatives in aṇṇi: agaṇṇisiyatu, navanṇa, sataṇṇa '7th', naṇṇakurvatī.

Forms without the inserted anusvāra occur, but they are very much rarer, gachanae, etc., not more than one in seven.

The anusvāra is only rarely inserted in the case of long vowels. Never in the case of genitive plurals in -ana, instrumentals in -ena.

Examples: aṇṇitamti 'they brought', jaṇṇaṣi, pariṇṇaṇṇa, pramaṇṇa, siṇṇaṣa, Bhimaṇṇa.

Nasals followed by the corresponding stop are always written with anusvāra, not ñ, ṇ, n, etc. The ñ which appears printed is probably never correct. The combination ṇḡ should be read, as given alternately in the notes, iḡ. It occurs only in native names: Katḡeya, Kutḡe, Kuritḡe, Caḡu, Cipitḡu, etc. ṇḡ, where it is certain, is always represented by ṇḡ(h): draṇḡa, aṇḡha, saṇḡhalidavo. Also g never became a spirant after the nasal. ṇk should be read as ts in Raṇṇaṇṇa, etc. Similarly in the MS. Dutreuil du Rhins the akṣara transliterated ṇs by Senart should be read ts: satsara A² 6, ahitsai A⁴ 8, bhetsiti C^{vo} 3, for saṇṇsara, etc. There was no ñ in Kharoṣṭhi.

§ 48. Groups with final sibilant.

kṣ is preserved in the form ṣḥ: ṣḥetra, yogaṣḥema, bhiṣḥu, trubhiṣḥa, coṣḥa 'clean', ṣḥuna, ṣḥira, diliṣḥa = titikṣā, daṣḥina, naṣḥatrami, pracaṣḥa, etc.

haṣḥati 'may be, will be' = Prakrit acchai shows that that form must go back to an original kṣ. The kṣ is also preserved in the Kharoṣṭhi versions of Aśoka and in the later Kharoṣṭhi inscriptions of the North-West.

In Saka we find kṣ in loan-words: kṣāndū = kṣānti, etc. The writing of the Kharoṣṭhi Dh.p. does not preserve the distinction between čh and ch, e.g. chaya, bhichavi, etc.

In the modern languages of the North-West original kṣ is distinguished from ch, e.g. Shīṇā çeç = kṣetra aci = akṣi.

It is of course not certain whether čh stands for kṣ or some modification of it in the direction of the modern languages, but it is worth noticing that in Saka we find kṣattrā written for chattra.

kṣ is simplified to ṣ before m in suṣmela = sūkṣmelā 'small cardamoms', which occurs frequently in the Bower Manuscript.

kṣ becomes kh only in khoriṭāga 'shaven', which must be borrowed. In 322 we find bhiglu instead of the usual bhičhu. Khema is a place-name and not = kṣema.

ts is preserved in saṃvatsara, vatsa. It is assimilated in osuka = autsukya.

A t is developed between m and s or ś: maṃtsa, paropiṃtsāmanā 510 = paropahiṃsamāna. Similarly in the Dh.p. (printed ns by Senart): satsara, ahitsai A⁴ 8, bhametsu B 34. In loan-words in Saka: saṃtsāra.

mś becomes mc (i.e. ntś) in saṃcaya 31 = saṃśaya 'doubt'. The same form occurs in the Tocharian loan-word sañce.

Konow (B.S.O.S. VI, 465 ff.) wants to read ts as tś, both original ts in saṃvatsara and when it has developed as in saṃtsara. But it is difficult to see how this would differ from c, and in fact when saṃśaya develops into saṃtsaya it is written saṃcaya in 31. In 283, however, we find saṃśaya.

§ 49. Groups with initial sibilant.

śc is preserved in the form č: pača, niče, kači.

šk becomes ṣḡ in muṣḡeṣu (Skt. muṣka-), Puṣḡariyade. In muṣka 565 = mūṣikā, where the šk has arisen more recently by the dropping of the vowel, it is preserved. The etymology and meaning of haṣḡa are uncertain. truṣḡa 581 seems to be made up of the prefix dur- and Iranian huṣka 'dry' (or read vuṣḡa).

More remarkable, initial sk seems to become śg in śgabhanāe 'to prop' 586. The śg might have originated in forms of the verb compounded with a preposition. The treatment is confined to the language of the documents. In Kharoṣṭhi inscriptions from N.W. India we find forms like pukarimi = puṣkarinī, and in the Dh.p. we find puṣkara (see Konow, C.I.I. II, p. cix). Exceptions are nikhal 'remove' = niṣkal and suka (śukha) if that = śuṣka 'dry'; nikasta 'went away' is probably = niṣ-kas. In the two last words the aspiration is almost always dropped.

st is preserved as a rule except sometimes in forms of $\sqrt{sthā}$: asti, hasta, astarana, vistara, viśvasta, grihasta.

ṣṭ is always assimilated to ṭh (ṭ): aṭa, aṭha, avaṣiṭha, kaṇiṭhaḡa, goṭha, jeṭha, uṭa, praṭha. kāṣṭha becomes kaṭha in 511, and in 422 uṭha is written for usual uṭa. The value of ṭha is doubtful, but it is usually consistently separated from ṭh. It would seem to stand for ṣṭh also in kuṭhaṭhira.

In prasamṭhita 511 and vaṭṭhayaḡa if that = upasthāyaka it represents sth; cf. Saka vaṭhāyaa.

In aṭhivae it seems to stand for rth (cf. § 37).

ṣp is preserved in puṣpa 'flower'.

śm becomes m in maṣu 'beard'.

sm becomes m in locatives in aṃmi, amahu 'of us'. It is preserved in vismaridaḡa 'forgot'. This treatment of sm was by no means general in the North-West. It also tended to develop into sv, which might further be assimilated into ss or become sp. We find locatives in -asi in Aśoka and later Kharoṣṭhi inscriptions (Konow, C.I.I. II, p. cxi).

Locatives in -aspi are confined to Aśoka. In the Dh.p. we find sm, sv, s, e.g. anusmaro, asmi, svadi A² 5, pratisvado A² 9. s in locatives in -asa for -asi: asmi loke parasa ca, etc.

sn is preserved in the form ś in śana 647, etc.

ṣn is preserved in the form ṣ: tuṣi, kṛṣaḡa, etc.

śl becomes l in leṣiṣamti, which according to Prof. Thomas is from śli.

śv becomes śp (printed ñs) in aśpa 'horse', śpedaḡa 'white'; śv is preserved in writing in viśvasta. Similarly in native names we find Leśpaṃna written side by side with Leśvaṃna. The same change occurs in the Dh.p. viśpasa, viśpa, and in Saka loan-words viśpasta, Viśpaśarmā n.pr.

sv becomes śv in śvasu 'sister', śvastiḡemena. This śv further develops into śp in priyaśpasuae 317. Compare Kalasha iśpoṣi = svasriya, Garwi iśpo 'sister'. sv is always preserved in svayaṃ, sveya, sve 'self', and we find svasti written as well as śvasti. This development does not take place in the case of śva- or śvā-. Instead we find śp in śpeṡṡa (title) beside śuvēṡṡa, śparṇa beside śvarṇa and śvarṇa.

The śp is also developed out of sp(h) in parosṡara 'one another', śpara, śpura = Iranian (u)spurra 'complete', and śpaṡa, which may be connected with the Iranian √spas 'to keep watch', Tamasṡa n.pr. This śp appears as sv in svaṡavamṡiye 471.

§ 50. Miscellaneous.

In aṡimatra = adhimātrā we find a quite unexplained ṡ (= z) for dh. A similar change seems to have taken place in masu = madhu 'wine', cf. Lüders, 'Zur Geschichte des ostasiatischen Tierkreises', S.P.A.W. (1933), p. 5. For further examples inside India, cf. Prof. Thomas in B.S.O.S. VIII, 791.

v is represented by m regularly in gameṡ- = gaveṡ- 'to seek', ema = evam. Further āmeḡḡitā in the Dh.p. verses 510; cimara 149 may = civara. The phenomenon also appears in the Kha-roṡṡhi Dh.p. bhamanai = bhāvanāya, nāma = nāvam and in Apabhraṡsa (Pischel, § 261).

For śithila besides śitila there is a form śiśila, which seems to be due to some kind of assimilation.

In 510 dilicḡa = titikṡa. The change t (d) to l seems to be due to dissimilation. The change d to l is not uncommon in the modern North-West languages (Grierson, Torwali, p. 14, e.g. talā = tadā). In 565 triḡḡa is probably the same word, with dissimilation into r.

Timpura and drimpura = Tāmbūla quite irregularly, as is natural in a word borrowed from the vernaculars; cf. Pkt. ṡimḡoli = śāṡṡoli.

DECLENSION

§ 51. The declensional system is considerably modified, compared with the literary Prakrits. As in Apabhraṃśa there is no distinction between nominative and accusative. The instrumental tends to be confused with the nominative. The neuter is lost. Feminines, except proper names and words denoting living creatures, are transferred to the a-declension. Except for these feminines that survive there is only one declension, the a-declension, nouns in -i, -u, -r, etc. being adapted to it by the addition of -a.

§ 52. The case terminations are:

	Sing.	Pl.
Nom. Acc.	-a	-a sometimes -e
Instr.	-ena
Dat.	(-ae aya)	-ehi
Abl.	-ade (āde)
Gen.	-aṣa (asya)	-ana (-anaṃ, -ānāṃ)
Loc.	-aṃmi , occasionally -e	-eṣu

§ 53. Sing. Nom. Acc. The -a of the nominative accusative is the original accusative. Final -aṃ became -a, as in the Gen. Pl. -ana, whereas -as became -e (§ 12). The nominative must have originally been -e in the dialect, but such forms as do occur are merely irregularities of spelling, e.g. durbhale 40, paṭevare 164, parikreye 401. Compare avaṣe 345, 437 for avaṣa = avaṣyam.

A nominative accusative sign in -o occurs sometimes. Regularly in the case of gerundives: dadavo, kartavo. Forms in -avya and -avo are used side by side indiscriminately. The former is presumably due to Sanskritising. Possibly -aṃ became -o after o, instead of -a, as elsewhere. We also find jivo, and tuvāṃ 'thou' becomes tuo. Other forms in -o occur sporadically which cannot be so explained. They are probably due to the influence of Sanskrit or another Prakrit: laṃgho 'lame' 106, arogiyo 161 (usually arogi), vartamano 164 (usually vartamana), prathamadaro 165, rajadaro 579, ekaḡo 296, grahito 359, jivāṃto 646, putro, praputro, ñatiyo 437 (but see Index, s.v.). Further forms which frequently have -o are aprameyo and aprameḡo, namakero =namaskārya, manasikaro. As a variant of -o we find -u in toṣu 373 = doṣam.

The suffix -āga tends to become -ae in the nominative accusative (§§ 8, 16): kiṭae, ditae, giṭae, thavastae, namatae. -āge in culaḡe 117 = Pali cullaka is presumably just a way of writing -aye, -ae (cf. § 16). Occasionally this -ae is further modified into -e: spāṣavamne 'scout' = spāṣavamnae (āga), bhaṭare 'master' 147, aṭhove 'serviceable' 367 = aṭhovae, -āga, kuḡe 164 = kuḡāga 'boy', namate 476 = namatae 'cloth', śune 17 = śunaka 'dog', vaṭṭhaye 189 = vaṭṭhayaḡa.

§ 54. Sing. Instr. The instrumental presents no remarkable features. It probably never becomes -ina (cf. § 1) except in pronominal forms: tiṇna, kiṇna. Parihaṣina 279 can alternatively be read parihaṣena. Nor does it ever appear shortened to -em.

§ 55. Sing. Dat. Except in infinitives the dative is rare. It had obviously died out in the popular speech. We find posathakāmaya in 489 yo bhicchu posathakāmaya nanuvarteyati, 'Whichever monk shall not conform to the rite of fasting', which is obviously imitated from the language of the religious texts. Also one or two compounds with -artha: prahuḡarthaya 'for the sake of a present', maghalartaya 221 'for the sake of good luck'; °artha and °arhi are used in the same way. prahuḡartha, khadammārhi 212, pumṇārhi 345. avamicae 'on loan' is probably = apamityaka, āpamityaka (Arthaśāstra, II, 13. 1, 6) rather than apamityāya.

§ 56. Sing. Abl. is always in -ade = Pkt. -āo: goṭhade, nagarade, bhumade, Caḡodade, Calmadanade, etc. The long a is sometimes expressed: Nināde 637, Puṣḡariyāde 660. There are no forms in -ama = asmāt. The words avasama and hastama are nominative singulars (see Index, s.v.).

§ 57. Sing. Gen. The genitive is in -aṣa, perhaps = -axa, cf. § 22. But it is never found written -aḡha; -asya is often restored in writing through the influence of Sanskrit: Lḡimsuasya 163, Tamḡakasya 541, Kolḡiṣasya 159, etc.

§ 58. Sing. Loc. The usual ending is -aṇmi: avānaṇmi, kalaṇmi, ḥkunaṇmi, rayadvanaṇmi, goṭhaṇmi, thanaṇmi, hasaṇmi, divasaṇmi, hemaṇmi, etc.

-e occurs in saṃvatsare, maṣe, divaṣe used in dating formulas, elsewhere very rarely: haste 117, 140; -i: rayadvare 46. (This may be adjectival, § 75.)

The non-Indian saste 'day' forms a locative in sasteḥi 442-656. The same form occurs in Kharoṣṭhi inscriptions from N.W. India.

It is also inflected in the usual way: sasteyanaṇmi 329, etc. tivaseḥi 655 is written on the analogy of sasteḥi.

§ 59. Pl. Nom. Acc. There is no distinction between the nominative and the accusative plural. They are usually identical in form with the nominative accusative singular. Thus -a 46: mahatva vivada pruchitaṇti 'The magistrates examined the dispute', 506 ede śramaṇna, etc.; in -ae: 293 avi ca yo paraṣitae Caḍotiye 'The Caḍotans who were carried off', Koḡitasasaṇmi Supiye gadaya maṇtreti 'He says the Supis have come to K.', 506 ede śramaṇna Kuhanīyāde na aidaḥ huaṇti 'These śramaṇas have not come from the capital'; -aḡa: 180 potagaḡa dui mṛtaṇti 'two young (animals) died', 27 catu kiśoraḡa 'four colts'. Gerundives in -o: ede uṭa cavala Lpipeyaṣa hastaṇmi Calmadanaṇmi viṣajidavo 'These camels must quickly be sent to C. in the hand of Lpipeya', etc.

§ 60. There is a plural in -e which is regularly employed in the case of the suffix -i and the native suffix -eṇci, -iṇci. Examples: rajiye jaṇna 272 (Acc.), graniye 271, Caḍotiye 326, kilmeciye 'belonging to the district of', 152, 271, etc., Yave-āvanemeṇciye 401, klasemeṇciye (a kind of official) 562, Saciṇciye 160, seniye 'soldiers', 1. 397, 478, Supiye 109, 119, etc. vani* out of vaniḡ forms its plural in the same way, vaniye agamiṣyati 35. This plural is not applied indiscriminately to all bases in -i. We never find saḥiye* for instance as plural of saḥi 'witness' but saḥi according to the general rule. Similarly gavi = 'cow' and 'cows'.

Sometimes we find -i in the plural instead of -iye, following the general rule, e.g. 305 Calmataṇci amna darsitaṇti 'The people of C. packed the corn', Tsegeci 505, kilmeci 632, raji jamna 272 side by side with rajiye jamna; also 639 yatha atra ogu ajhurakaṣa kilmeci Caḍotiye imade gachamti 'That there the Caḍotans belonging to the district of the ogu Ajhuraka go from here', 32 tatra bahoṣe Caḍoti Parvatiye saṅki 'There many Caḍotans from the mountains are witnesses'. The last two examples are illustrative of the rule that of nouns and adjectives in apposition only the last is inflected. Similarly Kroraiṃci maṃnuṣana 370.

There is a plural -iya (= i, § 9) in 324 Supiya...aḡatamti 'The Supi's came'.

Other plurals in -e occur without it being possible to make any definite rules. Most commonly when preceded by r: goṭhadare 362, 371, 475, 506, 528, 735, draṃghadhare 'officials' 554, draṃghadare 107, lehare 'letter carriers' 109, 376, bhradare 195, prahare 'blows' 209, 462, etc. (also prahara 187, 204).

The plural avasitṭhe 'remaining' is always in -e. Similarly ṣitṭhe 305, 519.

Further examples are uṭavale 562 (side by side with uṭavala), thamavamṭe 468, mahaṃte 160, bahuṣe caṃṇme 180 (= j- 'young ones'), vṛdhe 326, śadavide 580, kilane 'sick' 414, nave 338, padatale (namasyati) 696, khaṃje ('lame?') 156, maṃnuṣe (Acc.) 130.

The -e is now and again written -eya: spaṣavamṇeya 522, mahatveya 580, rajadareya 582.

Instead of -e, -i is sometimes written: avaradhi 358, cori 676, avasitṭhi 63, ṣarvi 279, mahaṃti 303, bahuvi 351, yatmi (kind of official) 349, purimi 140.

§ 61. Traces of the neuter plural in -āni occur rarely, chiefly in introductory formulas of which the style tends to be influenced by Sanskrit, e.g. bahukoḍḍisatasahasrani, rajakaryani 272, śadani 133, karyani 161; vaḍaviyani 212 looks like the erroneous application of this termination to a feminine stem.

§ 62. Plurals which have nothing to correspond to them in Prakrit occur in -amca and -eyu.

(a) The plural in -amca was pointed out by Prof. Thomas in J.R.A.S. (1927), p. 544. Examples: aṣpaṃca 387, 681, śaḍaṃca 85, dajhaṃca 133, paṭaṃca 660, bhumaṃca 366, 713, uṭaṃca 681, uṭaca (with omission of anusvāra) 387, mahatvaṃca 696, paśunaṃca 683.

(b) The native word pake (= ?) forms its plural in pakeyu. These two forms are explained out of Tocharian in J.R.A.S. (1935), p. 673.

§ 63. The Pl. Instr. Abl. -ehi is rarely met with: putra-dhidarehi (śadha) 450, sarvehi śadena bhavidavya 702. There is no certain instance of its being used in an ablative sense. At 12 tagastehi varidavo it might be an ablative, only the meaning of tagasta is quite unknown.

§ 64. Pl. Gen. bhratarana, cojhoana, paśavana, manušana, etc. The sign of length is sometimes written śatāyukāna 399, cojhoāna 107. Under the influence of Sanskrit we find it written -ānām, bhratarānām 162 and -anām, bhātaraḡanām 140, 162, pramanānām 140, priyadarśananām 126, 140, sampujitanām 140, 162, cojhoanām 576.

§ 66. Their knowledge of Sanskrit has induced the writers to put in a dual occasionally: padebhyaṃ (Dat.) 288 with the e of the plural, pateyo 722, padayo 34, 97, 133, pādeyo 498 = pādayoh.

§ 67. Except for words denoting living creatures old feminines tend to be transferred to the a-declension. Examples: ratraṃmi 415 'by night', velaṃmi 637; simammi 163, 367 may be from simā- or śīman-; devataṣa, śigataṃmi 576. Similarly feminines in -i: priṭiyena, etc. (§ 70).

The feminine terminations occur sometimes as well: ratriyae 370, vela velaya 'from time to time' 358, 371, pačimadiṣaya 90 side by side with purvadiṣade.

The form is always used in dutyae = dutyayā* in the phrase dutyae gam- 'to go as an envoy', and more commonly in ajeṣamṃae = adhyeṣanayā 'at the request of' (also ajeṣamṃena). Preservation is to be expected in fixed formulas.

§ 68. The suffix -ī has become the sign of the feminine. Of old feminines in -ā only bharya 'wife' is regularly retained as a feminine; Nom. Acc. bharya, Instr. Gen. Loc. bharyae. No plural forms are found. The only feminine from which quite a number of inflected forms occur is uṭi 'a female camel'. The forms are Nom. Acc. uṭi, Gen. Instr. Loc. uṭiae, Nom. Pl. uṭi, Gen. Pl. uṭiyana, Loc. Pl. uṭiyeṣu. As will be seen the masculine forms are attached in the plural. Other nouns in -ī are stri (striae, strie, striyana), bhaṭariyae 756, vaḍavi 'mare', vaḍaviyae 600, vaḍaviyana 600, kuḍi, kuḍiyae 'girl', devi, deviyae, dajhi 'slave-girl', mahuli, prithivi. From adjectives and participles the feminine is always in -ī where Sanskrit and Prakrit have -ā. There is a similar tendency in Apabhraṃśa. Examples: uniti = unnītā, gilani 'sick', ṣpeti 'white'. The -i is perhaps partly out of -ikā, cf. § 16.

Feminine nouns in -r are adapted to this declension, e.g. Nom. Acc. madu, Gen. etc. maduae, śvasu, priyaśpasuae 316, dhitu, dhitue 416. In the dvandva putradhidarehi 450 there is a different treatment.

Instead of -ae the genitive is sometimes in -e in nouns ending in -i and -u, e.g. strie 209, madue 450, dhitue 416. This is due to analogy, strie is to stri as bharyae is to bharya. But compare also the similar treatment of the suffix -ae (§ 53), which cannot be explained in this way.

§ 69. Feminine proper names are distinguished from ordinary nouns in that the -ae of the oblique cases is transferred to the nominative, so that there is no distinction of case at all, e.g. 39 yatha edeṣa dajhi Cimikae nama 'They have a slave-girl called Cimika'.

Nominatives in -a are found rarely: 415 sa striya Tsina; Sarpina 279, Supriya 621, Konuma 46. Very rare is the nominative in -ae other than in proper names: 157 mahi bharya... jivamṭiyae asti.

As a result of this we even once or twice find genitives in -aeṣa: Suḡaeṣa 117, Cataroyaeṣa 399.

The -ae is appended to native names in -o: Kuviñṭoe, Kacoe, Kroae, Camoae, Pitoae, Yaṣoe, Laroe, etc.

Corresponding to genitives like strie, madue, we find nominatives in -oe: Koloe, Caṃtanoe, Tsordhoe, Pitoe, Suḡoe. Similarly Sarvaśrye. Conversely we find -aae on the analogy of -oe: Cakvāaae 279, Tilutamaae, Namilgaae, Puñalajhaae, Lpīpimtsaae, Saḡanāpaae, Saḡapcaae, Sarpīśaae, Saluvāae. Or we may be dealing with native bases on -ā to which the termination was added, as always in native bases like Yaśo-ae, Lpīpe-y-aśa.

§ 70. Nouns in -i are transferred to the a-declension by appending the terminations -aśa, -ena, etc. to the stem in -i. Nom. -i, Instr. -iyena, Gen. -iyaśa, Loc. -iyammi, Nom. Pl. -i, Gen. Pl. -iyana, Loc. Pl. -iyeśu. Nouns originally in -in, e.g. sačhi, are treated in the same way. The nominative accusative (singular and plural) may also be written -iya though less frequently. The genitive singular may be -iśa (as in Pali and Prakrit), but in the other cases the fuller forms are always used. Examples: palpi (= bali), palpiyaśa 725, palpiśa 162, 508, palpiyena 42, diṭhi (Nom. Pl. measure of length), khi (Nom. Sing. and Pl.; also khiyi 186), Samgaracchisya n.pr., sačhi, sačhiyena, sačhiyana. Originally feminine: priti, pritiyena, anatiyade (cf. the treatment of nouns in -ā, § 67). Occurring only in the nominative: prahuni ('garment'), salī 'brother-in-law' (but Skt. syāla-), vacari ('jar?'), mukeśi, viṃṇati, saṃṇati, pravṛti.

Nouns originally in -ya, -iya are not distinguishable from nouns in -i: mulī, muliyena, muliyammi, aśiyade, aroḡi, Dhamāpri, etc. Similarly -iya in biti '2nd', bitiyaśa and bitiśa. The proper name Samgaśri makes its genitive Samgaśrīśa in 419 (i.e. Samgaśriśa, cf. § 5).

§ 71. Nouns in -u are treated in exactly the same way as those in -i. Examples: masu 'wine', masuvēna, masuśa, masusya, masuāśa, masuammi; vasu (a title), Gen. Pl. vasuana, vasuvāna; bhičhu, bhičhusya; hetu, hetuvēna. Only in Nom. Acc.: lahu, vastu, tanu 'own', manyu, vačhu (= ?). The nominative is never extended to -uśa, as -i to -iya. The genitive in -usya is much more frequent than -uāśa. The word paśu preserves some old forms. Quite according to type are Gen. Sing. paśuśa, Loc. Pl.

paṣuveṣu 568. But we find paṣava in the Nom. Pl. (paṣu is also plural 519) = paṣavaḥ, whence further a Gen. Pl. is formed, paṣavana 315, 584. paṣuna 725 seems to be a Nom. Pl., cf. also paṣunaṃca, § 62; bahu is sometimes plural, e.g. 430, but it also makes its plural in bahuve (vi) presumably out of bahave = bahavaḥ, with the -u from the singular. But perhaps the analogy of sarve is responsible for the -e here, since we never find paṣave*.

§ 72. Other bases. On feminines in -ṛ see § 68. From pitṛ we have Nom. Acc. Sing. pita, more usually pitṛ, Gen. pitṛsya 109 (text -vya), Nom. Pl. pitara. From bhrātṛ, Nom. Acc. bhrata and bhratu, Nom. Pl. bhatara and bhratare, Gen. Pl. bhratarana, bhratuana 157, priyabhratre 159 (case?); priyajamata. There are no agent nouns in -ṛ.

From -an bases takṣan 'a carpenter' is expanded into taṭṭhaṃma. Usually the -n is simply dropped and they are inflected as -a bases. mahatva 'magistrate' = mahātmā, Gen. mahatvaṣa. Neuters: bhuma, -aṣa, -aṃmi; śiṛṣa, śiṛṣaṣa (589, cf. the proper names in -aṣa, § 73); namena; posathakamāya.

-ant bases are enlarged to -aṃta except mahā- in compounds, maharaya, mahacojhbo 259 beside mahaṃta cojhbo 161, etc. Examples: mahaṃtaṣa, jayaṃta 'victorious', jayaṃtaṣa, araḥṃta, Puṃñāvaṃta, Viryaṃta.

Śiṛaṣa in the phrase śiṛaṣa vimñāvemi is an isolated example of the consonantal declension, no doubt due to the influence of Sanskrit. We get the regular treatment in manasaṃmi; manasiyaṃmi 399 is a result of confusion between manasi and manasaṃmi.

From śarat we have Loc. śarataṃmi 'in Autumn'.

Dhanuṣ 'bow' is declined as a -u base: dhaṃnuena 190.

§ 73. Native names (and words) are treated in the same way as Prakrit words in -i, -u; e.g. in -i, -u: Caḍhi, Caḍhiya, Caḍhiyaṣa, Tami, Tamiyaṣa, Piḍi, Piḍiṣa, Samghuti, Samghutiṣa, Suḍi, Suḍiya, Suḍiyaṣa, Suḍiṣa, Suḍiyena, Yonu, Yonuṣa, Yonuṣaṣa, Lpimsu, Lpimsuṣaṣa, Larsu, Larsua, Larsuaṣa, Larsuṣa. Similarly in -o and -e: Taṃcgo, Taṃcgoṣa, cojhbo, cojhboṣa, cojhboana, Cgito, Cgitoena, Cgitoyena. In names in -e the extended form -eya of the nominative is more common than the simple -e: Lpipeya and Lpipe. That is no doubt because in the Prakrit they wrote parikreya niṣeya, etc. for what they pronounced (and sometimes wrote) parikre niṣe. No doubt Lpipe is the real native form. Examples: Maṣḍhiḡe, -eya, -eyaṣa, -eyena, Caule, Cauleya, Cauleṣa, Parsuḡe, -eya, -eyaṣa, -eṣa. As in nouns in -i, -u shorter forms occur for the genitive: -eṣa, -oṣa, -iṣa, -uṣa, beside -eyaṣa, etc., but not for the other cases. Names in -a declined -aena, -aaṣa, etc. possibly contain long a (cf. feminines in -a, -ae, § 69): Cācāaṣa, Cramaena, Tamḡaṣa, -aena, Tamaṣpaṣa, Tuṣanaṣa, Tsuḡeṣlaṣa, Motekaṣa, Śakaṣa.

SUFFIXES

§ 74. The suffix -ka is very common in the form -aḡa, -ae (§ 8): bhaṭaraḡa 'master', pravamṇaḡa 'document', saṃvat-saraḡa (100), kālaḡa 86, kiṣoraḡa 'colt', poṭaḡa 'young animal', kuḍḡa 'boy', phaliṭaḡa 214, parivanae 214 (paribhāṇḍaka?), tāvastaḡa, thavastae 'carpet', thavamṇae ('cloth'), namatae (coat or cloth), tanuvaḡa, -ae 'own'.

Adjectives: śpedaḡa (śveta), coḥḡaḡa (cokṣa 'clean'), puranaḡa, satavaraḡaḡa, trevaraḡaḡa, etc., kaniṭhaḡa, dharamṇaḡa 'owing a debt', avamicae 'on loan', jivamḍaḡa 'alive', culaḡe (cf. § 53) = cullaka. In words of obscure origin: kicamaḡa 'due, owing' (of tax, etc.), laṃcaḡa 'proper, properly'.

The feminine corresponding to -aḡa is -i (= ikā): śpedaḡa: śpeti, bhaṭaraḡa: bhaṭari, jivamḍaḡa: jivamṭi, kuḍḡa: kuḍi.

When added to past participles in -ta they have a passive meaning, while the simple -ta is used as the 3rd person of the preterite: dita 'he gave', ditaḡa, ditae 'given'.

The form -ae for -aḡa is much commoner in participles than elsewhere.

§ 75. The suffix -i. Adjectives are made from nouns by substituting -i for the -a of the nominative accusative: Caḍḍoti 'belonging to C.', Khotamṇi, Parvati, saṃvatsari palṭi 'the year's tax', masuḍi ṣoṭhaṃḡa 272 'The ṣoṭhaṃḡa (an official) connected with masu (wine)', ghriti paṣu, caḡali paṣu 613 'small cattle consisting of goats', goṭhi kāmā 298, rayadvāri mahatva 46, upaṣaṃghi śrava 139, paruvarṣi 'belonging to last year', para- rivarṣi 'belonging to the year before last', catuvarṣi and caura varṣi 'four years old', vatsiya 'possessing a calf' (gavi) 676.

The -i is derived from -ika; the guttural was weaker in suffixes than elsewhere and would disappear (§ 16): saṃvatsari palṣi = sāmvatsariko baliḥ. Such forms were originally vṛddhied, but vṛddhi has died out in the language except for one or two stereotyped or borrowed forms: vevatuḡa 'an object of (legal) dispute'.

§ 76. A suffix -tra is used three or four times to make abstracts from agent nouns: brahmacaritra (-ta) 399, kāmakaritra (-ta) 106, 130, kṛṣivatra 'cultivation' (from kṛṣīva-la or = kṛṣivaptra, cf. Index).

Formed with the same suffix is jañātra. It is used in the phrases jaññātreṇa dā-, anī- which seem to mean 'give, take in marriage', e.g. 21 taṃ kalaṃmi eṣa Cato śramana Sundaraṣa dhitu Supriya nama bharya anita caññātreṇa 'At that time this śramana Cato took as wife the daughter of Sundara called Supriya, caññātreṇa'. The sense seems to require 'with the proper marriage ceremony, in legal marriage' or something like that. There is considerable difficulty in establishing a uniform reading, but tra* seems to be the best attested. We find 474 jañātriyena v.l. jaññātriyena, 418 jañātvēna v.l. jañātreṇa, 555 jañātreṇa v.l. jañātvēna, 621 caññātreṇa.

§ 77. Native suffixes. -e(ṃ)ci, -i(ṃ)ci, -ci is used in making adjectives from place-names: avānaṃci, Kroraiṃci, Caḍodeṃci, Calmataṃci, Calmadanēṃci, Tsakēṃci, Ninaṃci, Potḡeci Bha-(tsa-)ḡaseṃci, etc. Native words: kilmēṃci 'belonging to the district of', klaṣēṃci (some kind of official). It is rarely applied to Prakrit words: paṃthaci masu 637, simici mahatva 436.

-ina appears commonly in native words: civālaina (title), cilamḍhina 'shared', paṃcaraina, acovīṇna, koyimaṃḍhina (an official connected with corn).

PRONOUNS

§ 78. First Person.

SING. NOM. ahu. The explanation of the -u is difficult; -aṃ usually becomes -a. We also find -u instead of -a in the Gen. Pls. amahu and tumahu.

aḥaṃ is also written quite commonly, which is of course Sanskritising. Also ahum (अप्या) 399.

ACC. not found.

GEN. DAT. mahi (= mahyam), mama, 161. Elsewhere mama is used as Nom. or Acc., e.g. 139 mama aroḡemi 'I am well', 524 yatha mama Śristeyaśa paride srutemi 'As I have heard from Śriste', 164 iśa mama prochaṃti 'Here they ask me'.

INSTR. maya 16, 328, 331, 661. At 329 it is used as Gen.: maya maharayaśa padamulammi.

LOC. not found. mayi 661 = mahi (cf. § 28).

PL. NOM. veyaṃ, veya, vayaṃ. ACC. not found. GEN. amahu, asmahu = asmabhyaṃ. As in the Nom. Sing. the -u is unexplained.

There also occur asmeḥi 370 and asmabhi 585; asmaḡa 713 = asmākam. In 86 we find asmaḡena: Casminena viśajideśi asmaḡena caragena 'You have sent Casmina our spy'. The Instr. is often confused with the Nom. Acc. as here, so that asmaḡena has nothing to do with the Vedic inflected asmāka 'our'. Loc. and Instr. forms do not occur; asmeḥi 370 is Gen. from the context.

§ 79. Second Person.

SING. NOM. tuo (Vedic tvōdm; for the -o cf. § 53). tu at 63 may be just careless writing.

The form tuo is used apparently as an Instr. with gerundives, e.g. 113 tatra tuo piḡḡita cita kartavo 'There by you expressly attention must be made' (cf. Index Verb.). The form tuo naturally cannot = tvayā. On the confusion of Nom. and Instr. cf. § 117.

INSTR. does not occur. taya 430 is taken as = tvayā in the Index Verb. Read probably tapataya 'immediately' for ta(thā) taya. The Loc. also does not occur. GEN. tahi on the analogy of mahi = mahyam (tehi dahi). Also tusya, tuśa with the nominal

-sya. tusya is used as a Nom. at 157 tusya...udaḡa baṇṇiḍeṣi 'you blocked up the water'. tava occurs once: 161 tava paride. tomi=tava...mi (see Index). The enclitic forms me and te are not used.

PLURAL. Only Gen. forms occur: tunahu (cf. amahu) with t- from the singular as always in Middle Indian. Other forms are tusmahu, tusmaḡa 399, tusmakam 140. The forms are of course artificial, otherwise we should have tuṣmahu*, etc. Quite isolated is yuṣme: 519 avi tusya pitu Suḡuta yuṣme agrata uṭa atha aspa pratiśruta 'And your father Suguta in front of you promised a camel and a horse'. The reading is not certain: yuṣmu and yuṣma are given as variants.

SING. NOM. Masc. se with -e regularly developed out of -as (§ 12). It is sometimes written se, which indicates that the s was voiced owing to its being unaccented; so occurs rarely, 198, 337. Fem. sa; Neut. taṃ. Since nouns do not distinguish masculine and neuter taṃ is only used when it stands by itself, e.g. 283 taṃ vismaridavva 'That must be forgotten'.

ACC. Masc. Fem. Neut. ta=tam, tām, e.g. 582 ta bhuma praceya 'concerning that land'; 415 ta striya...aḡajhidamti 'They carried off that woman'. Unlike nouns the pronoun distinguishes Nom. and Acc. but there are occasional confusions, e.g. 625 se is Acc.: se kuḍaḡa Lpimiṇṇaṣa goṭhade Khotamṇiye paraṣa kritamti 'The Khotanese carried off that boy from the farm of Lpimiṇṇa'.

ISTR. Masc. tena. Abl. tade 140. Usually the form stands by itself=tataḡ 'thereupon'; tasma- only in tasmārtha 'for that reason'.

GEN. taṣa, tasya, with suffix -emi: taṣemi 'of the very...' 491, 578. Fem. taya: tae 415, tayā 383.

LOC. The Loc. seems to be in te in the phrases te bhumaṇṇmi...eṣvari huda (222) 586, te masu ṣaṭaṇṇmi 'in that vineyard'; cf. 571, 572, 582, 587, 654, 715. In the phrase taṃ kalaṇṇmi, which occurs frequently, taṃ may either be abbreviated out of the Loc. taṇṇmi* or it may be a compound=tatkāle, which is more probable. Compare also taṃ karaṇṇa 335=tatkāraṇāt

(also tena karaṃṇa). tomi, in 123 tomi divasaṃṇi is used as the equivalent of the Loc. Sing., otherwise it seems to be = tava. tatra, tatreṃi are used instead of the Loc. Sing., e.g. tatrimi deṣaṃṇi 55, tatreṃi rājaṃṇi 40.

PL. NOM. ACC. te.

GEN. teṣa, teṣaṃ, with suffix -eṃi: teṣeṃi. Also tana 579, 655. taṣa 514 is a mixture of teṣāṃ and tāsāṃ; in tana 655 the ordinary nominal termination is used.

LOC. teṣu.

§ 81. eṣa-, eta-.

SING. NOM. eṣa for all genders.

ACC. eda. eda is rarely used as a Nom.: 140 eda vikridavo, 309 eda aṃṇa na anidāe 'this corn has not been brought'. In the phrases yahi eda kilamudra atra eṣati 'When this wedge-seal comes there' (yahi eda anati lekha . . . 272) and eda vivada . . . pruchi-davo 'This dispute is to be examined' eda always occurs and never eṣa. On the other hand in the common phrase heading legal documents, eṣa lekha (lihitāga, pravaṃṇaḡa) . . . anada dharidavo 'This document is to be carefully preserved', eda does not occur. So perhaps in eda kilamudra and eda vivada we have a kind of Tatpuruṣa compound, 'A wedge-seal about this (matter), the dispute about this'.

eṣa is used as an Acc. in 714 eṣa Tsuḡeta atra viṣajidemi 'I have sent this Tsuḡeta there', 721 eṣa Danutreyā atra viṣajidama.

The pronoun is not inflected in the oblique cases when used attributively, e.g. 52 eda parikrayade, 140 eda karyami, 255 eta bhumaṣa, 431 eda masuaṣa, etc.

GEN. Masc. etaṣa, edaṣa (-syā); Fem. etayā 331.

PL. NOM. ACC. ede for all genders (ede vaḍavi 212). eda is plural at 195 eda bhradare. As in the singular ede is not inflected when used attributively, e.g. 55 ede khula uṭana, 310 ede maṃṇuṣana, 187 ede bhradarana, etc.

GEN. edeṣa, eteṣa; edana occasionally, 113 (?), 187. In 478 edeṣana has a double termination.

§ 82. i-, ima-.

SING. VOC. iyo, yiyo (printed śiśo, see Index Verb.) = iyaṃ. This is more probable than idam because intervocalic d is not omitted in the dialect. On the initial yi- see § 32. It is not common, being used only in the phrase iyo (yiyo) pravamṇaga 'this document'. itaṃ = idaṃ is likewise in these phrases itaṃca lihitiḡa 355, etc. The -ca is always added without having any meaning of its own.

ACC. ima 345. ṣe śramana ima cora maṃṃsa . . . Larsuaṣa dita 'The śramana gave this thief man to Larsu' 291, 506. The Acc. is not very common. Like eda, ima is used as a stem form in apposition with oblique cases: 162 ima varṣami, 236 ima śaradaṃmi. Also in compounds like imavarṣi 'this year's'.

PL. NOM. ACC. ime 399, yima 237.

Only found in the Nom. Masc. ko, Neut. ki, kiṃ. It is not found used as an interrogative but only as a relative = 'whoever', e.g. 209 ko . . . paṭima aṃnyatha icheyati karaṃṇae 'Whoever afterwards should wish to do otherwise', etc.; 541 kiṃ tade paḍivati siyati 'Whatever news shall be from there'.

kiṃna, which is Instr. in form, = Pkt. kiṇa (cf. Pischel, § 428), is used as a Nom. 609 kiṃna atra na esati 'Whoever shall not come there'. It has an interrogative sense in 86 na taha janami kiṃna pravamṇaḡa atra giṃnidavo 'I do not know what document is there to be taken'. This is a case of the usual confusion of Instr. and Nom. Unexplained forms are kamita, 169 kamita maṣa divaṣa ghrida prace anati lekha atra gachiṣati taṃ kala . . . 'On whatever month or day a letter of command shall come about the ghee, at that time . . .' (= kāmita 'whatever you please'?), and kema, 160 yo atra kema hasta lekha udaḡa bhiṣaṣa prace . . . haḥhati, taha margidavo 'Whatever hand-letter may be concerning seed and water, so you must seek'. kema seems to = kaṭi in the common phrase yo kaṭi 'whoever'. Initial k- is certainly not different from k. All words with initial k- are variants of forms with k (cf. Index Verb.). kema occurs in Apabhraṃṣa = katham, but that meaning does not suit here.

SING. NOM. kaṭi, i.e. kaści. Once koci 437: 161 yo tava kaṭi puna isa agamiṣyati 'Whoever shall come . . .'; 437 yo ca koci paṭima kalaṃmi maṃtra uthaveyati 'Whoever at a future time shall upset this ruling'. Neut. kiñci: 335 nevi adehi kiñci sruđama 'We have not heard anything from there'; 106 kañmakaritra na kiñci kareti 'He does not do any work'; 260 puna vivada kiñci siyati '(If) again there shall be any dispute'; 31 yeṣa samcaya kiñci tatra mañtra siyati 'Of whom there is doubt (whether) there is any ruling on that point'; 17 tade kiñci kiñci Maṣḍhiḡe Pḡeya ṣa ca giḍati 'M. and P. took from that little by little'.

iñci in the phrase na iñci 'not at all' (also ma iñci) is out of kiñci. The omission of the k is due to its being attached enclitically to na (ma). On the liability of k to be dropped in certain positions of weak stress cf. § 16.

GEN. kasya ci: 709 na kasyaci mañtra asti.

PL. NOM. keṇi with the ṭ erroneously adapted from the singular.

kiñca, 377 na kiñca triṭha 'nothing has been seen', is perhaps just miswritten for kiñci.

kopi occurs only 198 kopi varaḡa syati so . . . iṣa amidavo. The text should be read ko pīvaraḡa syati 'whichever shall be fat'. kikama 'whatever' = kiñ kāmam* in the phrase kikama karaniya syati 'whatever is to be done'.

§ 85. ya-.

SING. NOM. ACC. yo for all genders: 136 yo aṭhovaḡa palayaṃ-naḡa mañnuṣa siyati 'What serviceable fugitive man there may be'; 157 yo mahi bharya iṣa gilani 'My wife who (was) ill here'; 106 yo iṣa kañmakaritra vithidaḡa huati 'The work that has been put off here'; 126 yo adehi ṣpaṣavaṃne Paḡo iṣa viṣarjidetu 'The scout Paḡo whom you sent here'; 140 (aṃna) . . . yo iṣa paṭichi-dama 'The corn which we received here'. yo is also occasionally used for the plural: 271 yo asmahu atra Caḍodammi kilmeṭiye, tahi sarvabhavena jhemiga (siy)amti 'The people of our district who are there in Caḍota, let them be under your care by all means'; 165 yo puna tahi karyani haṇhamti 'What affairs of yours shall be again (=in the future)'.

When followed by ca we usually have yaṃ instead of yo, e.g. 140 yo aṃna . . . yaṃ ca aṃna, 370 yaṃ ca viṃñavemi; 621 yo puna eḍaṣa putra dhidara yaṃ ca daṣi 'What sons and daughters (there are) of him and what slave-girls' (daṣi may be either singular or plural).

Occasionally the ca has no meaning of its own, e.g. 517 ede jamna tade omaḡa isa aniṣyatu, yaṃ ca teṣa jamnaṣa śiṭha, tuo paḍichīṣyatu '(If) you bring these people here less (than the proper number), what penalty there is for those people, you will receive it'. Apart from this yaṃ is only used in the phrases yaṃ vela, yaṃ kala, yaṃ kalaṇmi; compare taṃ kala, taṃ kalaṇmi (§ 80).

yo is probably out of yam, rather than yaḥ or yad, because the yaṃ is preserved in the combination yaṃ ca, where it was treated as in the interior of a word. Final -am usually became -a. Exceptions have been noticed in the case of -vam (§ 53). Perhaps am tended to become o after y too. Compare īyo = iyam. Also we find writings such as arogīyo 152, etc. beside arogī. On the other hand svayam always becomes svēya or svē.

INSTR. yena as an adverb = 'so that': 272 yena raja karyani na iṃci śiṣila bhaviṣyanti.

GEN. yasya.

PL. NOM. ye (also yo above).

GEN. yeṣa.

§ 86. svayam appears svēya, svē 193, svēyam eva 22, svaya 709.

From ātman- we have apane = atmanah: 139 tuo apane acovina paśidavo 'You must yourself examine the acovina (=?)'. Transferred to the a-declension, apanasya: 201 apanasya kritaḡa 'your own deeds'. But the passage is fragmentary and the reading doubtful.

The old reflexive tanū- 'self' has taken on the meaning of 'own'. The meaning belongs properly to the derivative adjective tanuvāḡa 'belonging to the self'. The simple tanu is used in the same way, e.g. 165 tuo ṣoṭhaṃḡa Lpīpeya tanu goṭhade vyoṣiṣasi 'You, ṣoṭhaṃḡa Lpīpeya, shall pay it from your own farm'. Most usually, however, tanu is a noun meaning 'property': 326 Kaṃaya ni goṭha grhavaṣa amahu pitupitamāḡa tanu 'Kaṃaya's farm and residence are inherited property of us', etc.

Tanuvaka is also found in the inscriptions of N.W. India (Taxila scroll, Kurram). It is preserved in the Dardic languages, e.g. Torwali tanu 'own'. Grierson (Torwali, § 127) is wrong in explaining it out of ātman.

§ 87. Pronouns expressing quantity are keti=Pkt. kettiya (Pischel, § 153). It is used in relative clauses, e.g. 17 Maṣḍhiḡe Pḡeya ṣa ca ṣavatha ṣavidavya, keti edeṣa siyamti 'M. and P. must swear on oath (stating) how many they have'; 73 eda palḡi, keti vithidaḡa siyati... iṣa viṣajidavo 'This tax, however much has been held back, must be sent here'.

eti=ettiya: 439 pruchidavo bhutartha eṣa eti draṃga dharidae siyati 'It must be enquired whether he has really held so many offices'. Skt. tati occurs once in the compound tativarṣi: 570 garbhini uṭi bhaḡena kirsoṣa uṭi tativarṣi Śaraṣenaṣa vyoṣidavo 'Śaraṣena must pay back, in place of the pregnant female camel, a kirsoṣa (= ?) female camel of as many years old'. With -drṣ are formed etriṣa, ketriṣa and yadrṣa. The e- instead of Sanskrit i- is the usual thing in Middle Indian (Pischel, § 121).

• § 88. Adjectives declined pronominally are aṃṇia: Gen. Sing. aṃṇiaṣa or aṃṇisya, Pl. aṃṇie. Gen. aṃṇiesa, aṃṇieṣana 690 (cf. edeṣana, § 81), aṃṇiano va 590, aṃṇiamamṇiana 357='one another'; pareṣa 509, 713; parosṣarasya, parosṣarena 'one another'; eka, ekisya 272; eke 'some' 468; ṣarvi 'all'; -i is always used, not -e, in the Nom. Pl. Gen. Pl. ṣarvina 431-2. The same form occurs in the Wardak vase. Instr. ṣarvehi 702.

NUMERALS

§ 89. Figures are usually employed, but now and again the numerals, sometimes as well as the figures. The numerals that occur are:

1. eka, i.e. probably ekka as in Prakrit because the k is always written and not g (except 709). In the plural eke means 'some'. The ordinal is both prathama (pratama) and paḍama, just as prati- and paḍi are both used.

2. dui, dvi, due, tui, du=Skt. dve; as in the Veda it is disyllabic (cf. § 43). Ordinal: biti and dviti. diguna 'twofold' with irregular treatment of dvi- (§ 43).

3. tre, treyā=trayaḥ. Gen. Pl. trina; tre- and not tri- is used in compounds: trevārṣaga 'three years old'. Ordinal: triti

4. catu and caura. The omission of t in the latter form is unusual (§ 19). cohura seems to be '4' in 637 aṃṇa paśava 4 cohura, but the passage is difficult. Ordinal: caturtha. The t is never omitted in this form.

5. pañca, pañcama.

6. ṣo. ṣo is perhaps out of ṣva, cf. Av. xšvaš, etc., like ṣoṭhaṃga and ṣvaṭhaṃga (§ 7). Otherwise we should expect -a as in the other Prakrits. The ordinal is ṣodhama 110, 637. The dh may be just written for t (§ 15), in which case it is a new formation instead of ṣaṣṭha-, made by adding -tama to ṣo.

7. sata, satama. 8. aṭha, aṭhama. 9. no, navama.

10. daśa, daśama, daśaṃmi (ordinal locative).

11. ekadaśa 341 (ordinal).

12. badāśa, badāṣi 599 (ordinal).

13. trodāsa = trayodaśa. Otherwise in Middle Indian we have te = tre (terasa).

15. pañcadaśa 489. As an ordinal: pañcadaśaṃmi 599 (locative).

18. aṭhadaśami (ordinal locative) 354.

20. viṣati. 30. triśa. 40. capariśa.

42. du capariśa. 50. pañcaśa. 70. satati.

90. novati, with o instead of a borrowed from no '9'.

100. śata. 110. daśutara śata. 1000. sahasra.

ADVERBS

§ 90. Any adjective may be used as an adverb: śigra, cavala 'quickly', piṭṭita 'taking pains', samuha, dura, bhutartha 'really'.

As elsewhere the instrumental is used in making adverbial expressions out of nouns: adhamaṇa 'illegally', śarvabhavena 'altogether'. There is further a tendency to apply this termination to indeclinables compounded with a preposition, e.g. anupurvona 'in front', śavistrena 140. The correct Sanskrit forms are anupurvam śavistaram, etc., but later and incorrect texts reflect the state of things in the popular language, e.g. Matsya. P. 148. 65. sāvadhāṇena; regularly in Apabhraṃśa, e.g. savisesem, savinaena, saviyappem, etc. in the Bhavisatta-kaha. As a result of this sa appears practically as an independent word, e.g. tahi sa madue bharyae putra dhidarehi isa agamdavo 'You must come here with your mother, wife and children'. Similarly yatha dhamena=yathādharmam. Whence yatha also is used almost like a preposition: 40 yatha purva rayadvāri mahatvana vibhāsi-tagēna 'According to the former decision of the magistrates at the king's court'.

§ 91. Individual Adverbs. atra 'here'. avaśa=avaśyam; anada='carefully'. It is common in certain set phrases: eda vivada anada pruchidavo 'This dispute is to be carefully gone into'; avi sṣa jivida paricagēna anada račhidavya 'Watch is to be kept carefully even at the expense of your life'; eṣa pravam-naḡa anada dharidavo 'This document is to be preserved carefully'. In the last-mentioned phrase suha occurs as a synonym (569, 593) and suha=su 'well' (compare 419 suha vikrida with 587 suvikrida). For the etymology cf. the Index. ahuno=adhunā. The o might be due to an original particle u, i.e. adhunā u. adehi* 'from there'; for the suffixed -hi cf. forms in Apabhramśa like anmettahi=anyatra, ettahi=itah. aṃnyatha 'otherwise'. aṃña is used as a kind of particle introducing sentences='again, another thing'. ajakra='up till to-day'. itu and imade 'hence', isa 'here'. The word occurs also in Kharoṣṭhi inscriptions from N.W. India, instead of ia, iha in Aśoka. Aśokan ia (S. and M. 6), i.e. iya for iha, became isa as described in § 17. upari 'above'. tatra 'there'. pača 'behind'. patama='back' (i.e. pattama*, cf. Torwali pat 'back' out of patta*-). patena occurs twice in the phrase patena stavidavo: 58 teṣa jamnaṣa sa stri tatiyemi patena stavidavya Puḡo Lṣipeyaṣa ca nidavo (cf. 63). The woman had been killed, so it cannot mean simply 'restore'. We must translate then: 'By those people that woman is to be made recompense for to such an extent (i.e. to the amount of her value) and (it) is to be taken by Puḡo and Lṣipe.' puna, punu=punaḡ. praṭha 'forthwith'= praṣṭham*. prata=prātar. bahi, bahiyaḡe 'outside'. bhuya 'again', also bhui, buo 377, and bhiyo=Pali bhiyyo 579. suṭha 'well' (suṭhu), but it must be out of suṣṭham*. sudha='only', e.g. 272 sudha navara račhidavya, avasiṭhe raji jamna oḡidavya

'Only the city is to be kept, the rest of the people of the kingdom are to be abandoned'.

The suffix -mi, -emi is found commonly in adverbs (also after genitives of pronouns: tasyemi, teşemi). Examples: tatremi, atremi, işemi, tatiyemi (see above under patena), imthuanmi 'so' beside imthu.

PREPOSITIONS

§ 92. a = ā. 419, 549 ko a pačima kalaṃmi codeyati. Against the explanation ko ca (Kharoṣṭhi Inscr. Index Verb.) c is never otherwise omitted. On the analogy of acaṃta, yava (see below), ā would take a locative, not an ablative, in this dialect. agratu (ta) = agrataḥ only 519, with the same meaning as purathida (see below). Sucamaṣa agratu, yuşme agratu; yuşme only occurs here, and what case is meant is uncertain (cf. § 79).

acaṃta. 253, 367 acaṃta Khotamṇammi 'as far as Khotan'.

abhyadara. 291 abhyadara kuhaniyaṃmi anisyaṃti 'They will bring into the capital'.

karaṃna. 207 ima Aputaṣa karaṃna iṣa ichitaṃti marganae 'They wanted to search this (man) on account of Aputa'.

pača. 144 taḍitaḡade pača 'after the beating'.

patama = 'back'. 64 caṃkura Vajeṣasa imade aṃtaḡi uṭa 4 Samarsade patama nikhalidavo Samarsade uṭa 4 dadavo Śunade patama nikhalidavo Śunade uṭa 4 dadavo Piṣaliyade patama nikhalidavo 'From here the caṃkura Vajeṣa has 4 aṃtaḡi camels, they are to be sent back from Samarsa (and) 4 camels are to be given from Samarsa, (these) are to be sent back from Snuna (and) 4 camels are to be given from Snuna, (these) are to be sent back from Piṣali'. The base patta* is common in the modern Dardic languages, cf. Torwali pat 'back, behind'.

puratha, purathida 'in the presence of' (as witnesses). 322 eṣa lihitaga cojhboana Śitaka (Yi-) Vuktoṣa ca puratha 'This was written in the presence of the cojhba's Ś. and V.'; 592 eṣa lihitaga puratha mahatvana 'In the presence of the magistrates'.

paride 'from'. 11 edaṣa Apiṣae nama uneyaḡa prace Kunḡeyaṣa paride vivada 'He has a dispute about an adopted girl called Apiṣae (adopted) from Kunḡe'. paride, which is very common always, takes the genitive and not the ablative.

prace 'concerning' = pratyayam takes either the stem or the genitive, e.g. 582 Yipiya ni bhuma prace 'concerning Yipi's land' and 579 Mogata ni bhumaṣa praceya. The word is borrowed into Saka in the form prracai. bhagena 'in place of', 'on behalf of': 30 yatha Apigoaṣa bhagena Tsegeyaṇmi Tuṣana thida taṣa bhagena Khotanṇi Kanasaga thida 'That Tuṣana stayed at Tsege instead of Apigo and in place of him Kanasaga of Khotan'. It is also used without a case meaning 'as a substitute': 19 iṣa stri Tamaṣyanae bhagena Yitaṣenaṣa khulona (= 'ana) vaṇti thida 'Here the woman T. stayed with the herds of Y. as a substitute' (or 'taking her turn').

yava 'as far as'. 214 yava Khemaṇmi, 506 yāva Tatiḡa Bhatraṣa ca agamanammi 'Until the arrival of Tatiḡa and Bhatra'.

It does not take the locative in the expressions yava ajakra divaṣa, yava jivo.

vaṇti = upānte. It is borrowed into Saka in the form bendā: 5 khulana vaṇti thidavo 'Must stay with the herds, in charge of the herds'; 621 eṣa... Aśoga ni kilmeci Catoveṣa vaṇti bala simaya āsiṣyati 'He used to dwell when young next door (simāyām) to Catove who belonged to the district of Aśoka'; 39 teṣa vaṇti unida vardhida 'She was brought up with them'. It is frequently used in expressions of legal transactions: 579 tivira Raṃṣotsaṣa vaṇti bhuma vikrida 'He sold land to the scribe Raṃṣotsa', etc.; 546 ogu vasa Bhimaṣenaṣa vaṇti garahiṣyama 'We will complain in front of the ogu vasa Bhimaṣena'. vaṇti is more frequently used of the person against whom an action is taken: 212 ahuno ede vaḍavi praceya eḍaṣa vaṇti parihaṣaṇti 'Now they are making a claim against him about these mares'. Further examples of legal transactions: 551 eda kuḷi Pgiṣena Bhaṣḍhaṣa vaṇti parivaḍida 'Pgiṣa made an exchange with Bhaṣḍha of this girl (for another)'; 24 yatha eḍaṣa dajha Sarpiḡaṣa vaṇti Caule aṣpa ṛna nikhalati 'That Caule has a horse out on loan with his slave Sarpiḡa (or 'wants to take away a horse he has lent to...'). Frequently with the phrase asaṇṇa gam, which seems to mean 'take possession of': 425 eka bhitiyaṣa vaṇti nasti danagrahana asaṇṇa na [gaṃdavo] 'There shall be no giving or taking one from another and no assumption of ownership'; cf. 260, 436, etc. śamaho, śamao = 'with'; compare Apabhraṃśa samau = samatas. The omission of the t is unusual (§ 19), but might occur in a word like this which was weakly stressed. In that case the h must be regarded as simply indicating a hiatus: 326 tena śamao, 164 śada storena jaṃṇa śamaho 'With our beasts and our men'. sardha, sadha (s^o), the usual word for 'with', may be used with the instrumental, genitive, or simple stem. In the plural it is not found with the instrumental. It may be placed before or after its noun, more often after. Examples: 82 sardha valāgena and valāgena sardha 'with a guard', 425 kala Cūgapaśa sardha, 516 Khotaniyana sardha, 632 bharya sadha, 83 Namtaśrma śadha, etc.

VERB

§ 93. The personal endings are the same as in Prakrit except that side by side with the -si of the 2nd singular there is a form in -tu which is used in all the three tenses, e.g. 399 sūṭha na laṃcaḡa karetu yadi kālihari karetu 'Certainly you do not do rightly if you make a quarrel'; 439 puna ahuno rayaka gavi picavidetu 'Now again you have put the royal cattle in his charge'; 114 puna ahuno bhuya palṭi oṃaḡa viśajīsyatu avaśa tanu goṭhade puna vyōsisatu '(If) again now you send the tax less (than the proper amount) certainly you shall pay from your own farm'. The forms occurring are:

PRESENT. aroḡetu 'you are well', ichatu, karetu, choretu 134, darsavetu 761, denatu, picavetu 439, prasavetu, margetu 399, viṃṇavetu, viśajetu 247, śayatu 'you seize, take'.

PAST. achimnidetu 714, ukastetu 320 'went away', picavidetu 439, lihitetu 157, viśarjitetu 126, 399.

FUTURE. agachiṣatu 634, dāsyatu 507, aniṣyatu 517, 554, oḡiṣatu 'you will let go, allow', kariṣyatu, nivartiṣyatu 634, paḍichiṣyatu 517, paribujīṣatu, labhiṣatu 635, vikriṣaṃtu 633, vithiṣyatu 165 'you will keep back', viśajīsyatu 68, 145, 714, vyōṣiṣatu 714.

From a survey of the passages in which these forms occur it can be seen that they are always used of the actions of the person to whom the letter is addressed.

The -tu is probably taken from the 2nd person of the pronoun.

§ 94. The middle is not used except occasionally artificially: rucate 585 = S. rocatē or Pali ruccati, vam̐tade = vandate 669.

The passive is quite rare. It is used commonly in śrūyati 'it is heard' and vucati 'it is said'. The only other examples are parimiyam̐ti 399, lihyati 224, niyati 364 (possibly optative = neyati), nikhalayati 743.

§ 95. Outside asti the only remnant of athematic conjugation is śakoma 161, 646, which is used as a 1st person singular (= śaknomi). asti is used as a strong affirmative and nasti as a strong negative: 315 yava asti siyati 'As much as there is'; 272 yaśa asti st(o)ra hačhati tade nikhalidavo 'Of whom there shall be a horse from him it is to be taken'; 714 yo asti palḥi kareti, yo nasti dura nikhalidavo 'He who pays his tax (well and good), he who does not must be removed'; nasti: 124 sačhi iša nasti hutaṇti 'There were no witnesses here', cf. 161, 166, 326, 431.

§ 96. Verbs in -ati. It is not possible to tell whether verbs like janati keep the long ā or have been fully adapted to the bhū class; janati may be either jānāti or jānati*.

Of interest is denati 'give' for deti, which also occurs. The na is probably borrowed from the verb with the opposite meaning grhṇāti.

sthā makes its present thiyam̐ti 358, compare Pali patitṭhiyati 'stands against, resists'.

The old perfect āha receives the terminations of the present ahati 345 'says'.

bhavati regularly became hoti. But more common is hoati, which has been readapted to the system.

List of forms: avajasi = āpadyase, ichati, gameṣati (gaveṣate), garahati, codam̐ti, jivama, nam̐dati, namasyati, naśyati, naśati, nikasati, nikhasati 'goes away', 'is spent', paḍichati, pari-pruchati, parihaṣati 'claims' (pari-bhāṣ), prchati, bhavati, marati, m̐ryati, mam̐ṇati, margaṇti, rucati, lahati (labhate), likhami, lihati, vakoṣam̐ti, vardhati, vaham̐ti, vijam̐ti (vidhyanti), saṁ-čhivoati, saṁtiṣam̐ti (saṁ-diṣ), harami, haradi.

§ 97. Verbs in -eti. As in the rest of the Prakrits -eti is no longer a specifically causative suffix, its place having been taken by -aveti. The regular terminations are -emi, -eṣi, -eti, -ema, -emti, but fuller forms also occur, presumably in imitation of Sanskrit: Sing. 1. viṃṇāveyaṃmi 663, preṣeyami 269; Sing. 3. preṣeyati 25, etc., saṃpreṣeyati 288; Plur. 1. saṃṇāveyama 288, viṃṇāveyama 259. These forms are identical in spelling (but not in pronunciation; the e must have been ē) with optatives formed from the same verbs and can only be distinguished by the context.

kṛ, as usually in Prakrit, is conjugated in this class: karemi, kareṣi, kareṃdi. Beside janami, janaṣi, we find janemi, janeṣi, as occasionally in Prakrit (Pischel, § 510).

ārogya makes a denominative in this class: arogemi, -etu, -ema; also -ama 721, -emti; arogyosmi 399 is an attempt to Sanskritise it, like gatosmi, etc. for gademi.

Further examples: agaseṃti 'they carry off' 304, oḍemi, etc. 'let go, allow', choreṃti, taḍeti, dhareti, nikhalemi 'I remove, take out', poḍeti 'rubs', preṣemi, viṃṇaveti, viṃṇavema 164, 702, viyoṣeti 'pays', viṣajeti, viheḍeti 'oppresses, worries', saṃpreṣeti, sthavēṃti.

Cases of confusion between the two classes are rare: saṃtiṣemi 127 (saṃtiṣaṃti 703) = saṃ + diṣ, nikhalati 24, nikhalamana 189; viṃṇavatu 292. Probably the vowel-stroke has been omitted by carelessness.

§ 98. Practically no imperative forms occur. Outside hotu there is only davyatu, 3rd passive, 399 ma iṃci vṛtaḡa uṭa davyatu 'Let not an old camel be given'. hotu (hutu) is common and is used for both singular and plural, e.g. 10 [saṛvi] pruchitae hotu 'Let all be asked' and 244 avi Pēca uṭa 3 nita avaṣa jheniḡa hutu 'And P. brought 3 camels, by all means let them be under your care'.

The reason for the practical loss of the imperative is that its place has been taken by passive constructions with gerundives in -avya.

§ 99. Future. seṭ forms are practically universal. The only aniṭ forms are saḥṇyami, saḥṇe 311, stasyati and dasyati (also deyisati).

The a of iṣyati is sometimes marked long, so that possibly it had been lengthened on the analogy of the optative: asiṣyāti 621 (ās-), gachiṣyāti 223, dasyāti 677.

Beside -ami of the 1st singular there are a few forms in -a: gameṣiṣa 372, parimargiṣya 368. They are not = Śaur. -iṣṣam but mistakes; cf. bhaviṣya 109 = bhaviṣyati.

The ending -iṣyati (iṣati) is usually added to the present base, but we find gamiṣati beside gachiṣyati. There is no distinction as a rule between verbs in -eti and verbs in -ati, e.g. anaviṣyati from anaveti 'commands', oḍiṣyati from oḍeti 'lets go'. At the same time forms corresponding to -ayiṣyati are found. These are no doubt artificial: preṣeyiṣyasi 399 (preṣiṣama 288), śodheṣyati 'will pay' 635, śodheṣyaṃdi 272.

haṭhāti, = Pkt. acchāi, is generally used as an optative, more rarely as a future: 352 nīce haṭhāti 'There will be a decision'.

Further examples: ichiṣyati, kariṣyami, -atu, -ati, -ama, -aṃti; gachiṣati, garahiṣyama, giṃniṣyasi, chiṃniṣyati, choriṣyasi, janiṣyami, thaviṣyati, nikaliṣyati, -iṣati, nivartiṣyati, paḍichiṣama, patiṣyati, paribuṣiṣasi, -tu (pari-budh), pariṣamiṣati 130 (= ?), picaviṣyati, pranaṣiṣyati, pruchiṣyati, preṣiṣama, bhaviṣyati, maṣiṣyati, raṭhiṣyati, labhiṣyati, lihiṣyaṃti, leṣiṣaṃti (śleṣaya- ? cf. § 49), vaviṣati 'will sow', viṣajiṣasi, vyoṣiṣati, saṃghaliṣyati 'will collect', sarajiṣaṃti 'will agree'.

§ 100. The optative has always the primary endings: (-eyami), -eyasi, -eyati, (-eyama), (-eyatha), -eyamti. The long ā is sometimes written: grṭheyāti 320, coteyāti 582, bhaveyāti 678, deyāṃti 437. From the last example it appears that contrary to the usual Prakrits -ā- can occur before the group -nt- in this dialect.

praviṣayati 489 is a mistake for praviṣeyati. haṭhāti is to be classified as an optative. In the majority of cases it occurs in subordinate clauses with yadi, etc., where the optative is the rule. Parallel with syati: 160 yo atra hasta lekha udaḡa bhiṣaḡa prace syati athava levistarena anati lekha haṭhāti 'What hand-

Other examples: anuvarteyati, avarajeyamti (aparādh-), ichiyati (cf. § 1), uthaveyati, -yamti, kareyaṣi, -ati, coteyati, taḍeyati, deyati and deyeyamti 345 (cf. dey-iṣyati), prabhaveyati 437, prasameyaṣi 373, bhaveyati, maṃtretyati 100, viśarjeyasi 696, veteyati, sajeyati.

As in the future no difference is made between verbs in -eti and verbs in -ati.

§ 101. Present participles are rare. There is a tendency to generalise the middle forms in -māna, as in later Ardha-Magadhi. Examples are achiṃnamana 'encroaching on', gachamana, (kathamana 514), karemana, nikhalamana. varitamana is used as a kind of noun in the phrase yahi Khema Khotamnade vartamana siyati 'If there be any news (events, happenings) from Khema and Khotan', = pravṛti, paḍivati. The participle is used to make a circumscribed tense with siyati: 235 pruchidavo bhudārtha se miṣi edaṣa tanuvāga siyati anahetu Suḡika achiṃnamana siyati 'You must enquire whether this miṣi-(land) really belongs to him (and whether) Suḡika is encroaching on it, (taking if off him) on account of a debt (or without cause ana=a, an- ?)'; cf. nikhalamana siyamti 189.

The active participle is only used in certain stereotyped phrases and in words that have become adjectives, e.g. jivamaḍaḡa, Fem. jivamti, 'alive'; jayamta, jeyamta 'victorious' (a title of kings). Used participially are saṃta: 482 purva dhama vibhaktaḡa yena samula vṛṇha chiṃnamti tatra saṃta vṛṇha varidavo aṣpa avimḍama 'The former law was that when they cut down trees with the roots—the trees which are there (still)—they must be stopped, a horse is the recompense', and janaṃda, frequently in the phrase janaṃda bhavidavo 'you must know'.

apṛṣṭvā) she gave her daughter to slaves of Kapge as a foster-child' (cf. 492). vajiti: 376 eda lekha vajiti cavala kara (...) kartavo 'Having read this letter, immediately... is to be done' (cf. 152, 725). palayiti: 491 adehi palayiti agada 'Having fled from there he came' (cf. 540).

The form was characteristic of the North-West. It is found in the Kharoṣṭhi Dh.p.: upajiti C^{vo} 44, pramayiti A² 3, parivajeti A² 8. Also in the two North-Western versions of Aśoka.

It is presumably out of Vedic -tvī, although this is not the regular treatment of the group -tv- (§ 43).

Apart from literary pieces (kr̥tva 647, sampreṣitva 204, Khatva, pitva 565, which is influenced by the Literary Language) the only forms in -tva that occur are śrutva 399, bhūdva 49, where the reading and interpretation of the whole text are difficult, and daditva, which occurs twice in the same phrase: 345 and 437 yo ca koci... aṃñātha iccheyānti karaṃṇae... muha codana apramana ca bhaveyati taṃḍa praptam ca deyaṃti catuvarṣaḡa aṣṭa paṃcaśa prahara sarva eta daṃḍa daditva avaśe ca eda yatha uvāri līhitaḡa. Here an indeclinable participle hardly seems to suit the context and we have perhaps an example of the Vedic gerundives in -tva (cf. Macdonell, Vedic Grammar, § 581). 'Whoever shall want to make it otherwise, attacking (the agreement) again shall have no authority, and they shall give the ensuing penalty (namely) a 4-year-old horse and fifty blows, all this penalty is to be given, and certainly (the agreement) shall remain as written above.'

With -ya are formed uvadae = upādaya 'starting from', and utiśa, udiśa, which presumably = uddiśya, although its usage does not tally with Sanskrit and Prakrit. It is used not with an accusative (taṃ uddiśya 'with reference to him'), but by itself at the beginning of clauses, apparently meaning 'with reference to this matter', e.g. 159 adehi tusya mahahvana paride na kiṃci śrunaṃmi udiśa ahuno śadavida Kolpiśaḡa hastaṃmi vacari 2 prahidemi 'From there I hear nothing from you and the high officials, with reference to that (fact), (considering that), I have sent 2 vacari ('jars'?) in the hand of the śadavida Kolpiśa', etc. etc.

stovamṇaṣa haste uṭa iṣa prahadavya. It may be explained either as a passive vacitu=vācyatu for vācyatām (cf. davyatu below and § 98) or as an indeclinable participle like the Ardha-Māgadhi forms in -ittu (chindittu, jīnittu, etc.). 'Having read the letter, thereupon the camel is to be sent here in the hand of Stovamṇa.'

Forms in -tu=-tum are very rare: kartu, agantu 646 and probably viṣajitu, 262 dviti vara imade anati kilamudra atra gachati adehi hastagada viṣajitu na imci iṣa agachati 'A second time a wedge-seal of command goes from here (with orders) to send him here under arrest, he does not come'. Compare viṣarjanae in 4 anadi lekha gada adehi uṭa 4 Calmadanaṇmi viṣarjanae.

The infinitive is used as a verbal noun in 376 sajavanāe prace 'about getting ready'.

§ 104. Causative. The causative is in -aveti=āpayati as in the rest of the Prakrits. The long ā is written in śavāvitavya 358 'to be caused to swear'. Examples of causative verbs are aḡasavida ($\bar{a}$ + $\sqrt{\text{kas}}$ 'to carry off'), anaviṣyati, anavidavo 'command', asavidavo (from $\sqrt{\text{ās}}$, 'to settle somebody'), uthaveti, uthaveyati, thavita, darśaveti, davidagena 'with a gift' 749, nivartavidavo 'cause to turn back', baṃdhavita, varjavidavo, vimñaveti, vithaḇesi, vithavida = 'keep back', vyavasthavidagā, sajavamṇae, sthavemti.

parīchinavitamti 'They caused to perish, used up' 272 is formed from the past participle passive.

From karma a denominative is made by this suffix kāmaveti, meaning 'to cause to work'. It also means simply 'to work' in 107 (cf. Pischel, § 559).

PAST TENSE

§ 105. As in the modern Indo-Aryan languages and in Persian, a new past tense is formed by attaching the personal endings to the past participle passive. The paradigm from dā 'to give' would be:

ditemi	ditama
diteṣi	ditetha
dita	ditamti

The 3rd singular has no termination, the simple stem being used both for the masculine and the feminine 'he or she gave'. The forms in -ta are practically never used as participles, their place being taken by the extended forms in -aḡa, in the feminine by -i (cf. § 74). The development must have started from the intransitive verbs, gataḡ + asmi would give gademi in this dialect (§ 12). In the plural gataḡ + sma would give gadama. These are the forms that actually occur, and this difference of vowel in the singular and plural shows that we are actually dealing with the nominative singular and plural of the participle and the verb 'to be' and not simply the addition of personal endings borrowed from the present. This is the only place where a trace of the old nominative singular in -e is preserved. The 3rd singular dita represents the neuter singular, to judge from the form -u in the Khotan dialect (661), where -u < am. Cf. B.S.O.S. VIII, 432.

The result of this (purely phonetic) development into -emi, -eṣi was that these terminations were felt as being the same as those of the present in -emi, -eṣi, and the transition into a purely verbal form was facilitated. In the 2nd plural -etha is due entirely to analogy instead of -astha. Forms in -atha probably never occur. The only example is kiṭatha 213 which is doubtful. The 3rd plural is always in -aṃti for -āḥ suṃti. Curiously enough forms in -eṃti never occur. There seems to be a rule that the anusvāra is never written when d takes the place of t in the past participle, e.g. aitaṃti and ayidati 'they came'. This is more likely to be a habit of writing than really phonetic, especially since we know that the people did not distinguish between t and d (§ 19). Compare ida ca 573 for the usual itaṃ ca (§ 82).

§ 106. The writers seem to have been aware of the origin of these forms because in the 1st person singular we find -osmi occasionally instead of -emi. It is of course Sanskritising. It is usually found in intransitive forms: śadosmi 'I am pleased' beside śademi, prihitosmi 'I am pleased' 140, gatosmi 146. In a transitive verb only prahidasmi=prahidemi 'I sent' 316. The same thing happens to the denominative arogemi 'I am well', for which arogyosmi appears in 317.

§ 108. Other forms are: Singular. 1. agatemi, ayidemi 'I came', oḍidemi 'I let go', giṃnidemi, coridemi, jalpidemi, tidemi 'I gave', triṭhemi 'I saw', nitemi and niyidemi 'I led', parivaṭidemi 'I exchanged', picavitemi, preṣidemi, vavidemi, vikridemi, vithitemi 'I kept back', vyoṣidemi 'I payed', viṣarjitemi, śrutemi, ṣayidemi 'I got hold of', hudemi.

The bahuvrīhi ñadārtha = jñātārtha is treated like a participle and we get ñadārthemī 'I have learned'.

2. anavideṣi, kiḍeṣi, krideṣi 'you bought', gadeṣi, gameṣideṣi, giḍeṣi, giṃnideṣi, thaviteṣi, diteṣi, nikhaliteṣi, parimargideṣi, picavideṣi, prahiteṣi, bamṇideṣi (bandh-), vajideṣi 'you read', vikrideṣi, vithavideṣi, vibhaṣiteṣi, viṣajideṣi, sajavideṣi, saṃtiṭheṣi, hudeṣi. For the forms in -tu, cf. § 93.

3. ayita 'came', akasita 'carried off', anita, anavida, ichita, ukasita, uthavida, oḍita, garahita, giṭa and giṃnita, govita 225 (? corita), ciṃtita 'reckoned', ciṃnita 'cut' (chiṃnita), jalpita, jhorita (= chorita), taḍita, thavita, darṣita 'packed, loaded', dahita 666 (= dagdha), naśita 'disappeared', nikhalita, niyida 'took', nivartita 'returned', paḍichida, pratilikhida, payita 763 (from pāyayati), parakramita, parivaṭita, palayita, poṣita, praḡaśita, praṣavita 'let have, granted', praharita 'struck', preṣita, biṃnita and bhinita, maṃtrita 'said', marita 'killed', mavita, likhida, lihita, leṣita, vakośita, varita 'stopped', vardhida, vikarita 419 (passive), vikrinita, vijita 'wounded', viṃñavita, vitita 'known' (passive), vyoṣita, viṣajita and viṣarjita, śavita 'swore', ṣayita and ṣeyita 'seized', saṃghalita 'collected', sargita 49 'flooded'.

§ 109. Plural. 1. ayitama, kiḍama, kridama, giḍama, chiṃnidama, tidama, triṭhama, nikhalidama, nitama, nivartavidama, paṭichidama, pariḥitama, prahitama, and prehidama 'we sent', leṣitama, varidama, vibhaktama, and vibhaṣitama 'we gave a (legal) decision', viṣajidama, vyochiṃnidama, śakidama 'we were able', śrutama, hutama.

There are probably no 1st plurals in -ema. Those forms which occur seem to be mistakes for the 1st singular in -emi. In 164 gatema, śrutema, apruçhitema, arogema, are mistakes for gateni, etc., as also śatosma for śatosmi. So probably prahidema 77 and śrudema 399.

2. achiṇnidetha, asidetha, ichidetha, picavidetha.

3. aitamti, agajhitamti 'carried off', agatamti, ichitamti, ukastamti 'departed', uthitamti, oḍitamti, kataṁti, kritamti and kiḍamti, khamnitamti, khayitamti 'ate', gatamti, garahitamti, giḍamti and giṇnitamti, chimnitamti, taḍitamti and daḍitamti, darṣitamti 'they packed', nikastamti, nikhalitamti, nikhastamti, nitamti, nivartavitamti, nihamñitamti, paḍichitamti, paraṣitamti 'plundered, overpowered, took possession of', pariçhinavitamti, parivaṣitamti 'exchanged', palayitamti, picavitamti, prasṛtamti 383, prahitamti, pruclitamti, bimñitamti (bhind-), maṁtritamti 'said', maritamti 'killed', mavitamti, mutamti (mukta-) 63, mṛtamti, varitamti, vavitamti, viṁñavitamti, viṣajitamti, viheḍitamti 'oppressed, worried', vutamti, vyochimñitamti, śatamti 'swore', śrutamti, śayitamti 'took hold of', sarajitamti 'agreed', stitamti, lutamti.

With d for t: gadamti, paḍicidamti 589 and paḍichidamti, sarajidamti 586.

As stated above (§ 105) the anusvāra is not usually written when d takes the place of t. Examples: ayidati, uthavidati, uthidati, garahidati, chimnidati, nidati, niyidati, parajhidati (beside paraṣitamti), vikridati. paḍicimṭati 598 = paḍichitamti.

§ 110. Passive forms in -aka.

Forms in -āga and -ae are used indiscriminately. Compare for instance 581 eṣa hasta lekha likhidaḡa, with 715 eṣa pravaṇṇaḡa hasta lekha likhidaḡa.

Forms in -ae and -āya are: kiḍae, kiḍāya 593, gadāya 133, coridaḡa, asitae, giṭae, cimṭidaḡa 'reckoned', ditae, didāya, didaḡa, 'given', dharitae, naṭhaḡa, nikasitae, nidaḡa, nidāya, patitāya 414, paraṣitae -āya 'plundered, carried off', palayitae, praviṭhaḡa 333, praṣavidae 'granted', pruclitae, bhimñitāya 633, likhitae and lihitae -tāya, varidaḡa, vithitae, viṣajidaḡa, saṁghalidaḡa, sarajidaḡa, hudaḡa.

On the ending -ae, see further, §§ 8, 74.

§ 111. Forms in -uḡa are: avyochimñidaḡa 471, asitaḡa, kṛitaḡa (kṛ and kṛī), kṛiṣitaḡa, khayidaḡa 'eaten', khoridaḡa

'shaved', gachidaḡa 388, cimḡidaḡa 'reckoned, assessed', coritaḡa -daḡa, taḡitaḡa, tiḡaḡa, thavidaḡa, thidaḡa, diḡaḡa, naḡhaḡa, nikastaḡa, nikhastaḡa, paḡichitaḡa, palayidaḡa, picavitaḡa, praṣa-vitaḡa -daḡa, prahitaḡa, baṃdhitaḡa 660 and baṃnidaḡa, biṃni-daḡa 'broken', mumṃritaḡa 'sealed' 247, myṭaḡa and myḡaḡa 'dead', yajitaḡa 'borrowed' (cf. S. yācitaka), ladhaḡa, likḡitaḡa, vavitaḡa 'sown', vikaritaḡa, viṭitaḡa 343, 544 'distributed', viṭhitaḡa 'kept back, withheld', vināḡhaḡa, viḡhaktāḡa and viḡhaṣitaḡa 'decided' (of a lawsuit), viṣajidaḡa, vismaridaḡa, vyochiṃnidaḡa, vyavasthavidāḡa, saṃgalitaḡa, stitaḡa, hodaḡa.

§ 112. A number of these forms are used substantivally, and as such may occur in the oblique cases. coridaḡa prace might mean 'about a theft' or 'about a thing stolen', but e.g. taḡitaḡade paḡa 'after a beating' is definitely an abstract noun. This is the only example of the ablative. Instrumental forms are quite common: taḡitaḡena 'through a beating', darṣidaḡena, 40 yadi ... darṣidaḡena marīṣyati 'If it shall die through being (over) loaded', davida(ḡena) 659, viḡitaḡena, 190 tena viḡitaḡena mṛyati 'dies owing to that wound', viḡhaṣitaḡena 'decision', vyochiṃnidaḡena 297, 339, yatha purva vyochiṃnidaḡena 'as formerly decided' (cf. § 90), śrutaḡena 399.

viṣajidaḡena in 732, maṃnuṣa viṣajidaḡena prace is simply the instrumental written for nominative accusative (§§ 117, 118).

§ 113. Feminines in -i. The proper feminine form in the passive is in -i. In the active no distinction is made between masculine and feminine. Compare for instance in 39 edeṣa dajhi Cimikae nama edeṣa ana aprochiti dhitu Kapḡeyaṣa dajhana uniti dita 'A slave-woman of their's called Cimikae without asking their permission gave her daughter as a foster-child to the slaves of Kapḡe' with pruchidawo bhutartha edeṣa dajhi Kapḡeyaṣa dajhana uniti diti edeṣa ana aprochiti siyati '(You) must enquire whether really their slave (i.e. the child) was given to slaves of Kapḡe without asking their permission'; cf. further 279 Yave avanaṃmi kilmeci kala Acuñiyaṣa ṣvasu Cakuṽaae nama Ajiyama avanaṃmi kilmeci Pḡenasa bharya aniti huati 'Cakuṽaae sister of kala, Acuñi of the district of Yave avana, was taken to wife by Pḡena of the district of Ajiyama avana'; 4 pruchidawo bhutartha kriti siyati 'whether she has really been bought', etc. Compare the Apabhraṃśa forms like avainnī, palittī, diṭṭhī, saṃjuttī, uppannī, etc. (Bhavisatta-kaha) and § 74.

These forms have to be distinguished by the context from indeclinable participles in -ti (§ 102).

The distinction between masculine and feminine is occasionally neglected. We find feminine forms in -ae at 45 edaṣa dajhi Cimikae dhitu Rutrayaṣa uniti giṭae 'The daughter of their slave-woman Cimikae was taken as a foster-child by Rutraya' (cf. 434). On the other hand -i instead of -ae in 473 yatha edaṣa śramana Saṃgaśira masuṣaṭa bhumañhetra baṃdhova thaviti siyati 'That the monk Saṃgaśira mortgaged a vineyard and a field of (ploughing) land with him'; 327 muli huti.

§ 114. There is one exception to the rule that the forms in -taḡa, -tae are passive, and that is the compound past tense ditae siyati 'he should have given' and ditae huati 'he has given'. Examples: 439 bhutartha eṣa eti draṃga dharidae siyati 'Whether he has really held so many offices'; 33 yadi bhudartha eva hañḥati, eṣa Suḡi giḡaḡa hañḥati 'If it is really so, (if) this Suḡi has taken (them)'; 345 bhudartha śramanna Anaṃdasena Cuḡopaṣa paride aṃna avamicae giḡaka hoati 'Really the monk A. has taken corn on loan from Cuḡopa'; 545 yati bhudartha cojhbo Kaṃci edaṣa aṣpa nidae siyati 'If really the cojhbo Kaṃci has taken his horse'.

The auxiliary verb may occasionally be omitted, e.g. 144 yati Sogaṇaṣa taḡitaḡade paṭa Kacana na karya kiṭae (for kiṭae siyati) 'If Kacana did no work after being beaten by Sogaṇa'.

§ 115. In intransitive verbs there naturally cannot be the usual difference between active and passive. Here the difference is that the forms in -taḡa have a participial, those in -ta a verbal sense, e.g. mṛtaḡa 'dead', mṛta 'died', gataḡa 'gone', gata 'went', etc. As usual the form in -taḡa, -tae is used in making the compound past tenses, e.g. 637 yam kala kāla kirteya Khotanaṃni dutiyaya gataḡa āsi 'When kāla kirteya was gone on a mission to Khotan'; 19 bhudartha Tamaṣyanae bhaḡena Yitasenaṣa khulona vaṃti thidaḡa siyati '(Whether) really T. stays with the herds of Y. in her turn'; 370 asitae huṃti.

§ 116. Gerundive. The gerundive is the most common of the verbal forms. It is practically always made with the help of the vowel i from the present: giṇnidavo, krinidavo, etc. Original forms preserved are martavya, gaṇdavo (never gachid-*), vikridavo (beside vikrinidavo), kartavo, nidavo (beside niyid-), prahatavya = pradhātavya. There is no difference as a rule between verbs in -eti and verbs in -ati: vyoṣidavo, viśajidavo, etc., but we find uthavedavo 575 besides uthavidavo.

Curious forms made from the past participle are nikhastidavo 612, śiṭhidavya 'to be punished' 482, ṣaṇḍedavo 721 (from ṣada 'pleased').

Forms in -vo and -vya alternate indiscriminately (§ 53), as do t and d (§ 19). Thus there are four spellings: -tavya, -tavo, -davya, -davo.

Of the three forms -avya, -ya and -anīya, -avya is the only one that remains as a living suffix. -ya is found in kica and uneya 'foster-child'; -anīya in karaṇnīya in the phrase yatha kama karaniya 'to be done what one likes with'.

SYNTAX

Of course these constructions correspond exactly to the ordinary Sanskrit passive constructions, but there is no doubt that they are translated as active because (1) exactly the same state of affairs is found in modern languages such as Torwali, where the construction with the agentive=instrumental is translated as active, (2) in the vast majority of cases the past participle in -ta is construed with the nominative where it must be active, (3) the instrumental is used as the subject of the present tense (§ 118), (4) in practically all definitely passive constructions, i.e. with participles in -taḡa and with gerundives, the genitive, not the instrumental, is used to express the agent.

§ 118. As a result of the development sketched above, the instrumental is confused with the nominative in all positions, and since the nominative is not distinguished from the accusative also with the accusative.

As nominative: 494 yatha Paḡinena aloṭa vilōṭade purva Moṣṭhapriyaṣa vaṃṭi suvarnaṛṇa nikhaleti 'That Paḡina has some gold lent to Mokṣapriya before the plundering (of the realm)'; 622 Maharayaṇputra kala Puṃṇabalena lihati 'The king's son kala P. writes'; 106 ṣigra Suḡitena tui uṭena iṣa viṣajidavo 'Quickly Suḡita and two camels are to be sent here'; 283 tade ahaṃ maharayaṇa sarva karya krida ṇadārtha hodemi 'From that I the king have learnt all about what has been done'; 399 Cinaṣenena mṛṭaḡa 'C. is dead'.

More rare is -ena in the 3rd singular of the preterite: 431 suveṣṭha Mareḡa paḍichitena for °ta 'The suveṣṭha Mareḡa received'.

As accusative: 69 adehi śramana Caḡuṣenena viṣarjideṣi 'You sent the monk C. from there'; 86 adehi Casminena viṣarjideṣi asmaḡena caraḡena 'You sent C. our spy from there'; 106 avi ca iṣa maṃnuṣa Saṃghadhaṃṇa Ṣaḡanaṣa vaṃṭi vikrideṣi 'And here you sold a man S. to Ṣaḡana'; 272 cojḡbo Somḡakena aṭṭhovaṇ aḡhate jaṃṇa suṭṭha abomata (= abhyavamata) karaṃṇdi 'The serviceable free-born people very much disregard the cojḡbo S.'; 540 Kacana uthita Sunaṃṭena taḍṭita 'Kacana arose and beat Sunaṃṭa'.

It is used as the stem-form in quasi-compounds like ogu Kuṣanaṣenena cojḡbo Lḡipeyaṣa ca 198.

Finally, the confusion goes so far that the genitive termination is added on to the instrumental in 345 Bugoṣenaṣa prace 'About Bu(dha)goṣa'.

The instrumental plural is rare, but the same confusion is found to occur: 297 mahatvehi vyochiṇṇitaṃti 'The magistrates made a decision'.

§ 119. The genitive is almost exclusively used for expressing the agent with passives, i.e. the participle in -taḡa and gerundives. The instrumental occurs very rarely, e.g. 436 yatha paṃthami gachamana Maṣḍhigeyena baṃnidaḡa matritaṃti 'They said that while travelling on the road they were bound by Maṣḍhige'. But this is definitely the exception. Examples of the usual genitive construction are: 45 Cimikae dhitu Rutrayaṣa uniti giṭae 'The daughter of Cimikae was taken as foster-child by Rutraya'; 24 yo edeṣa devaputraṣa padamulade bhumaṇḥitṛa ladhaḡa 'The land which was received by them from the feet of his majesty'; 157 se pirovaṃṇi goyaṃṇa na paḍichitaḡa devataṣa 'That sacrifice of a cow at the bridge was not accepted by the deity'; 735 palayaṃṇa Suḡitaṣa ladhaḡa huati 'An exile was received by Suḡita'. With gerundive: 83 Campeyaṣa isa gaṃdavo, tahi Lpivrasmaṣa piḍita osuka avajidavo 'By you Lpivrasma zeal is to be shown'; 106 yo etaṣa maṃṇuṣa paḍivati siyati tusya atra saṃghaṭidavo 'What information there is about this man is to be put together by you there'; 345 taha sarva śramaṇa Anaṃdaṣenaṣa viyoṣidavo huda 'And so everything was to be paid by the monk Anandasena', etc. etc.

sons and daughters must receive an equal portion of the inheritance'; 671 te valaḡa trina saṃvatsari pačavara giṃnidavo 'Those guards must receive provisions of three years'; 722 ahuno Svarnabala atra gaṃdavaya huati 'Now Svarnabala is going to come there' (cf. 634).

§ 121. The genitive sometimes appears instead of the nominative accusative: 120 rajadharaga mahatvana Šitḡapotḡeyade varidama nivartavidama 'We stopped and turned back the magistrates in charge of the administration of the kingdom from Šitḡapotḡe'; 370 asmahu goṡḡammi Kroraṃci maṃnušana asitae huamti 'Men of Krorayina dwelt on our farm'; 655 teša uṡḡavidati 'They arose'; 450 rotamna avi curamaša isa anidavo 'rotana and curama (two agricultural products) must be brought here'; 422 Argiceyaša bhratarana Kuwayaša vaṃte bhuma vikridati 'The brothers of Argiceya sold land to Kuvaya'; 187 avi eša kaṇiṡṡa Cimola Kuwayaša taḡita 'Also this younger (brother) Cimola beat Kuvaya'; 152 ahuno atra rayaka uṡiyana višaḡidemi 'Now I have sent royal camels there'. In some of these instances we are certainly dealing with a partitive genitive, e.g. uṡiyana 'some camels', curamaša 'a quantity of curama'. In other cases the genitive is erroneously used, e.g. 187 Kuwayaša.

§ 122. In lists of names followed by ca the genitive always appears instead of the nominative, so that for instance cojḡbo Yitaka tomḡa Vuktoša ca may mean either 'The cojḡbo Y. and the tomḡa V.' or 'of, to the cojḡbo Y. and the tomḡa Vukto'. Examples are very frequent, e.g. 9 yatha eḡaša stri Caḡḡi Parsu Alpaya Raṡparaša ca aḡasitaṃti 'That C. P. A. and R. carried off a woman of his'; 69 Larsu Tamḡakaša ca atra višaḡidemi 'I sent Larsu and Tamḡaka there'; 588 Kekeya ŷeyakarya ca. The construction is less common in nouns other than proper names, e.g. 71 eša pituša ca...gataṃti 'He and his father went'; 561 aṃklatsa putḡetsa odarasya ca (three kinds of camel); 633 koḡava tavastaḡa ghridaša ca krinidavo 'koḡava, tavastaḡa and ghee are to be bought'. The same construction is used in a similar list in the plural: 544 Šramaṃna bramana vuruḡaša ca 'Monks, brahmins and vuruḡas'.

Descriptive nouns and adjectives in agreement with lists of names like these are put in the genitive plural whether the phrase is to be taken as genitive or nominative, e.g. 157 bhaṭaragana priyadarśanana sunamaṭarikirtitana priyabhṛatuana cojhbō Tsmaya tivira Tgaca caraka Sucammasya ca 'To the masters, fair to see, renowned with good name, the brothers cojhbō Tsmaya, the scribe Tgaca and the spy Sucamma'. On the other hand as nominative: 709 eda vivada svaya devaputra śruda, oguana Purvayana Rutraya Cīnaṣena suveṭhana Aṭhama Ṣpaḥpaya Laṣa . . . cojhbōana Alpaya . . . vaṣamṇaṣa ca 'His Majesty heard this dispute himself, the ogus P. R. C. the suveṭhas A. Ṣ. L. and the cojhbōs Alpaya and . . . vaṣamṇa'; 578 cojhbōana Bimbhaṣena Somjakaṣa ca pruchitaṃti; 579 saṭhi apsuana Apṣiya Ṣamcāṣa ca 'witnesses are the apsus A. and S.', etc. etc.

§ 123. The locative has taken the place of the accusative in expressing the goal with verbs of going, sending, etc. A similar development is to be observed in Apabhraṃśa (Ludwig Alsdorf, Kumārapālāpratibodha, p. 65): 1, etc. hastagata rayadvaramṇi iṣa viṣajidavo 'He is to be sent here to the king's court under arrest'; 14 yatha eṣa Khotanammi dutiyaya gada 'That he went on a mission to Khotan'; 27 yaṃ kala Deviyae atra Caḍotaṃmi aida 'When the queen came there to Caḍota'; 506 Ṣamcāṣa daḥha Sanaca nama tena ṣadha Khemaṃmi palayita 'Ṣ.'s slave called Sanaca fled with him to Khema'; 195 uṭa yaṃṇammi . . . nitamti 'They took a camel to the sacrifice'; 621 puna iṣa sveya viṣeyeṣu aitaṃti 'Again they came themselves here into (our) territories'. Parallel with this development the locative is used with the preposition a, yava and acamta 'up to' (cf. § 92).

This rule has no exceptions except in certain stereotyped phrases like aṣamṇa gaṃdavo 'to take possession of' (āsanam gantavyam). It follows that naḥira in the phrase naḥira gachaṃti (13, 15) cannot be a place-name or even an ordinary noun indicating the goal. It is probably an Iranian word meaning hunting (B.S.O.S. VII, 513).

§ 124. The future may be used as a sort of imperfect to express what used to take place: 182 Kaṃjaka viṃṇaveti yatha eṣa rayaka uṭavala purva rayaka uṭavalana rajade va (ra) ḥhavalā deyiṣyaṃti... purva rayaka uta caturtha divaṣa vudhiṃ bhaviṣyati 'Kaṃjaka informs us that he is a keeper of the royal camels, formerly they used to give to the keepers of the royal camels a vaḥhavalā... formerly the royal camels used to be vudhiṃ on the fourth day'; 309 yo tahi purva atra rajadhara huaṃti, taṃ kala adehi koyimaṃdhina aṃna milima 1 Sa 20 20 10 (iṣā) aniṣyaṃti 'Those who were governors before you, at that time they used to bring 150 milima of koyimaṃdhina corn'; 376 caturtha karya, purva māsanumāsa lehare gachiṣyati 'A fourth matter, formerly letter-carriers used to go every month'; 435 purva rajadhaṃa yasya rayaka dhaṃaṃmi maṃmuṣa athava stora mariṣyati avaṣa rajadhaṃade cimtitaḡa huati 'Formerly it was the law of the realm that of whomsoever a man or beast died in state employment, it was reckoned (i.e. paid out) from the administration'; 621 eṣa Saḡamovi oḡu Aṣoḡa ni kilmeḡi Catoveṣa vaṃti bala simaya asiṣyāti 'This Saḡamovi when young used to dwell on the boundary next to Catove who belonged to the kilme of oḡu Aṣoka'. Slightly different is the usage in 634 tahi iṣa gaṃtavo asi, ajakra divaṣa iṣa na agachiṣatu 'You were to have come here, up till to-day you have not come'.

This usage is interesting because it is exactly what is laid down in Pāṇini 3. 2. 112 abhijñānavacane lṛt 'The future is used for the past when somebody uses a word recalling something'. The commentary gives us an example: abhijñāsi Devadatta vayaṃ Kāśmīreṣu vatsyāmaḥ 'You remember Devadatta, we used to dwell in Kāśmir'. This is obviously the same kind of thing as the examples quoted above. The usage is not found in Sanskrit literature except artificially in imitation of Pāṇini. Pāṇini was a native of the North-West, so this was probably a piece of local syntax, which was not current in the rest of India and so does not appear in literature, but turns up again in the local dialect, where the influence of the grammarians is of course quite out of the question. It is interesting that Pāṇini's statement should be confirmed in this most unliterary of dialects.

It is not quite clear how the future should take over this sense. Instances of the future used as a kind of preterite in various Indo-European languages are given by Brugmann (*Grundriss*², II, 3. 795) and Wackernagel (Vorl. über Syntax, I, 217), but there is nothing just like this.

§ 125. As stated above the imperative with the exception of hotu has ceased to be used (§ 98). The gerundive in -tavya is most frequently used for giving orders. Also both the future and the optative are employed.

Future: 153 avaśa etaśa maśasya 20 sasteyammi Kumñāga iśa agamiṣyati 'Definitely Kumñāga shall come here on the 20th day of this month'; 157 tasuca Lpimsu cavala viśajitavya ari Calamma śaca go aniṣyati 'The tasuca Lpimsu is quickly to be despatched, along with Calama he will bring the cow'. This is exactly parallel with the English use of the future in giving instructions.

Optative: 152 avaśa ede kilmeciye tava sarvabhavena jheniḡa siyaṃti 'Certainly let these people of (my) district be under your care by all means' (cf. 161, 164); 187 taha ajuvadae kaṇiṭṭha bhrata jeṭṭha bhrata taḍeyati, putra pita taḍeyati 'So from to-day let the elder brother beat the younger brother, and the father beat the son'. This is the same use of the optative as occurs in the law-books in laying down general rules. 385 teṣa piḍita anati ditae siyati 'Let very carefully a command be given to them'; 437 ajuvadae taya kuḍḍiyae prace Maṣḍhiḡeṣa eṣvarya siyati 'From to-day let there be ownership for Maṣḍhiḡe of that girl'; 696 yo atra tahi paḍivati bhaveyati emeva mahi lekha viśarjeyaṣi 'Anything that may happen to you there, you might send me a letter about it'.

ma iṃci = mā kiṃcit (§ 84) is construed with the present, the future, the optative and the gerundive in expressing prohibitions. The particle iṃci is almost always added to the ma. (Exceptions, see Kharoṣṭhi Inscriptions, Index Verb., ma.)

Present: 272 ede samṛdhae jaṃna varidae hotu, ma iṃci daramṇaḡena jaṃnasa upeḍeṃdi 'Let these rich people be stopped, let them not oppress the debtor people'; 288 ṣe Ṣamaṃnera tehi jheniḡa siyati, ma iṃci abomata kiṃci kareṃdi 'Let this Ṣamaṃnera be under your care, let them not disregard him' (or 'treat him with disrespect'); 364 ma iṃci adhaṃena

Camakaṣa paride niyati 'Let him not be taken from Camaka unlawfully'. (This may be optative = neya(m)ti; for i = e cf. § 1.) 386 avi Caḍotiye varidavya ma iṃci parvatīyana adhamā kareṃti 'Also the Caḍotans must be prevented, let them not be unjust to the mountain people'; 729 ma iṃci adhamēna rajadhama pruchaṃti 'Let them not administer (lit. "enquire") the law of the realm unjustly'. In most of these examples the ma-sentence has practically developed into a subordinate clause so that we can translate 386, for instance, 'The Caḍotans are to be prevented from committing injustice on the mountaineers'.

With Optative: 275 na vithana kartavo ma omāga siyati 'It is not to be held back, (the amount sent) must not be short' (cf. 306, 307); 519 ma iṃci vismaridaḡa siyati 'Let it not be forgotten'.

With Future: 347 ma iṃci Caule paṃtha chiṃṃsiyati 'Let not Caule cut (=stop) his pathway'; 546 ma iṃci atru Kolḡeyaṣa vithana kariṣati 'Let him not make a keeping-back (of the camel) from Kolḡeya'; 585 ma iṃci atra masuṣa viḡa kariṣyati avaṣa anavidavo deyaṃnae 'Let him not make a hindrance about the wine there, certainly he is to be told to give it'. In 310 we have examples of ma iṃci with the future (as with the present, see above) used practically as a subordinate clause. Cima Kaṣikaṣa ca picavidavya ma iṃci para raja nikasiṣyati 'They are to be put into the hands of Cima and Kaṣika lest they should get away to a foreign kingdom'; and, teṣa hastammi ede maṃmuṣa iṣa viṣajidavya ma iṃci puna paṃthade pranaṣiṣyati 'In their hand these men are to be sent here lest they should again escape from the road'.

With Gerundive: 22 ma iṃci vithana kartavo 'A holding back is not to be made'; 338 ma atra maṃtra śrunidavya.

More common than ma with gerundives is na (na iṃci), which of course originally was the only correct form: 31 na iṃci tade atikramidavo 'There must be no transgression from that'; 188 na nikhalidavo.

There are only occasional examples of na being used in prohibitions otherwise than with gerundives: 399 bahu varṣa aṃtargata uṭa na preṣeyaṃsi 'Do not send a camel many years old'.

§ 127. Subordinate clauses. yo.

Without verb: 9 yo garbha, vināṭha; 165 yo iṣa vartamana Lpimsuṣa paride nādartha bhavidavo 'What happenings (there are) here, you must learn from Lpimsu'.

With Indicative: 31 yo Lpimo Puḡoena ṣadha danagrahana hoati '(That) giving and taking which there is between Lpimo and Puḡo'.

With Optative. In relative sentences of a general nature the optative is exclusively used. When the future is used it always conveys a definite reference to the future. From this distinction it is possible to assert that the mysterious form haṭhāti is properly an optative (cf. § 100). Examples: yo aṭho-vaḡa palayaṃṇaḡa maṃnuṣa siyati ṣe...iṣa ativatidavo 'What serviceable fugitive man there is, he is to be sent here'; 187 yo eka bhitiyaṣa vaṃti ede bhratarana avarajeyaṃti, te varidavo 'What any of these brothers do wrong one against another, they are to be stopped'; 47 yeṣa vivada siyati rayadvaramṇi viṣajidavya 'Of whom there is a dispute, they must be sent to the king's court'.

With Future: yo tava kaṭi puna iṣa agamiṣyati emeva ahu teṣa tanu saṃṇa jaṇiṣyami 'Who of you shall come here in the future, so I will regard them as my own' (teṣāṃ tanū-saṃjñāṃ jñāsyāmi); 272 yo maṃnuṣa cojḥbo Soṃjakena abomata kariṣyati ṣe...iṣa... viṣajidavo 'The man who disobeys the cojḥbo Soṃjaka, is to be sent here'.

§ 128. The usual expression for 'when' is yaṃ kala with the indicative: 35 yaṃ kala Cinasthanade vantiye agamiṣyati, taṃ kala ṛna pruchidavo 'When the merchants shall come from China, then the debt is to be enquired into'; 272 yaṃ kala Khotamnade yogaṭhema bhaviṣyati, rajya sthiṣyati taṃ kala ṣodhesyaṃti 'When there shall be security from Khotan and the kingdom shall be established, they will pay'; 183 yaṃ kala Supiye Caḍo-taṃmi agataṃti 'When the Supis came to Caḍota'.

With Optative: yadi aṃṇatha siyati 'If it is otherwise'; 35 yadi vicada siyati; 45 yati na drrṭhaḡa na ṣrudhaḡa siyati 'If they have been neither seen nor heard of'; 144 yati Soḡanaṣa taḍṭita- gena Kacana mṛdaḡa siyati 'If Kacana died through Sogana's beating'; 189 yati avasiṭhe nikkhalamana siyaṃti 'If they are removing the remaining ones'.

With Future: 165 yati tade purima pācīma viṣajīsyatu paṃthammi paraṣa bhaviṣyati, tuo...vyoṣiṣasi 'If you despatch it before or after then and it is stolen on the way, you will pay'; 206 yati Ayamatu vasaṃmi bhuya vithiṣyati 'If he still keeps it back in Ayamatu vasa'; 211 yati ahuno bhuya eda palḷi na sṗora iṣa aniṣyaṃti na cirena tuo...agamiṣyasi 'If now again they do not bring this tax complete, before long you shall come (yourself)'.

yadi is not used with the present indicative.

§ 130. yatha with the indicative is regularly used in introducing quoted speech, the text of a complaint, etc.: 7 Lḷpipe viṇṇaveti yatha triti varṣa huda Arsinaṣa paride gavi savatsi 2 vyochiṇṇiti 'Lḷpipe announces that the third year has come (since) 2 cows with calf were legally awarded to him from Arsina'; 14 Ṣameka viṇṇaveti yatha eṣa Khotamnammi dutiyaya gada 'Ṣameka announces that he went on a mission to Khotan'.

yatha may be also used meaning 'as', in which case it usually takes the optative: 7 yatha rayadvarammi vyochiṇṇidaḡa siyati tena vidhanena niṇe kartavo 'As the award was made at the king's court, according to that ruling a decision is to be made' (cf. § 45).

Rarely with the future (in the sense of yahi): 84 yatha eṣa atra agamiṣyati, tatheva ṣigra... 'As (=when) this man shall come there, so quickly...'.

§ 131. yahi is used with the future in the sense of 'when, as'. The form is probably to be compared with the Avestan yezi: yahi eda kilamudra atra eṣati; 289 yahi gaṃnana pravaṃnaḡa...atra aniṣyati 'when he shall bring there a document containing the reckoning'. It sometimes means 'if', being indistinguishable from yadi with the future: 161 yahi eta karya tuo mahi kariṣyasi 'If you do this thing for me'; 634 yahi tatra cita na kariṣyatu 'If you do not pay attention to that'.

yena is used either with the future or the optative, meaning 'in order that': 272 rajade sama sama parikre dadavo yena raja karyani na inçi kisila bhaviṣyanti 'Equal pay to each is to be given from the state, so that the administration of the kingdom shall not become slack'; 320 avaṣa eṭaṣa Phūvaṣeṇaṣa prace cimedavaya oḍidavaya, yena atra mama kriṣitaḡa vavitaḡa has-taṃmi gr̥heyati 'Certainly thought must be taken about this Phūvaṣeṇa, he must be set free so that he can take in hand my ploughing and sowing'.

§ 133. Subordinate clauses without introductory particle.

(a) Conditional: atra na paribujisatu hastagata iṣa viṣajidavo 'If you do not get clear about it there, they are to be sent here under arrest'; 223 aṃṇātha siyati, yathadhamaṇa nīce kartavo 'If it is otherwise, a decision is to be made in accordance with the law'; 266 puna vivada kiṃci siyati 'If there is any dispute again'; 546 yaṃ ca Preyaṣa vivada siyati, iṣa agamiṣyati, iṣemi ugu vasu Bhimaṣeṇaṣa vaṃti garahiṣyama 'And what dispute of Preya there is, if (when) he comes here, we will complain before the ugu vasu Bhimaṣeṇa'; 714 puna ahuno bhuya palpi omaḡa viṣajisatū avaṣa tanu goṭhade puna vyoṣisatu 'If again now you send the tax short, certainly you will pay from your own farm'.

(b) Indirect questions: 3 pruchidavo bhutartha kriti siyati 'You must enquire whether she has really been bought'; 24 pruchidavo bhutartha eva haṭṭati, etc. etc.

With Indicative: 520 pruchidavo eṣa dui draṃḡa dhareti puna ṣpaṣavaṃni dhamā kareti 'You must ask whether he holds two offices and again (=in addition) is performing the duty of scout'.

§ 134. Reported speech.

As stated above (§ 130) people's words are usually quoted introduced by yatha. In addition ityartha may be appended to quoted speech, or it may be given without any special indication at all. iti is no longer used by itself. Examples of ityartha are: 124 Ṣamasena...Lṣipeyaṣa ca garahitaṃti...bhuma praceya 'saṭṭhi nasti hotaṃti' ityartha 'Ṣ. and L. complained about some land... (they said) there were no witnesses'; 272 avi paruvārṣa uvadae Supiyana paride upaśaṃgidavo huati ityārtha 'Also since last year there is cause of alarm from the Supis so it is said'.

When reported speech is given without any particle at all it is customary to append the verb 'to be' to participles and gerundives, whereas in straightforward statements this is not done. Instances are: 63 eda prace tu Apḡeyade anati gīḍeṣi, Lṑipeyaṣa stri patena stavidavya hoati 'Concerning this you have received instructions from Apḡeya that the woman is to be restored to Lṑipeya'; 144 tuo anati gīḍeṣi saḥhiyana śavatha śavidavo hoati, yati Soḡanaṣa taḍitagena Kacana mṛdaḡa siyati avimḍama maṃnuṣa vyochimṇidavya hoati 'You received a command that an oath was to be sworn by the witnesses and that if Kacana had died through Soḡana's beating a man was to be awarded as recompense'; 206 avi ca imade lekha gata tahi putra Apita Sujatena śadha masu isu anidavya aṣi 'Also a letter went from here that your son Apita along with Sujata was to bring the wine here'; 506 avi samaya kiṭaṃti, ṣe dajha Śraṣḍha goṭhaṃni na oḍidavya huati tavu Śaṃcaena kaṃurvidavo huati yava Tatiḡa Bhatraṣa ca agamanamni 'Also they made an agreement that the slave Śraṣḍha was not to be left on the farm, he was to be made work by Śaṃca until the arrival of Tatiḡa and Bhatra'; 160 mahaṃte vṛdhi-jaṃna imithu maṃtreṃti cojhbo Lṑipeyaṣa Sacamni goṭha ohara titaga uhati, udaḡa bhiṣa na titaga uhati 'The very old people speak thus, that the yield (?) of a farm in Saca was given to cojhbo Lṑipeya but water and seed were not given'.

NOMINAL COMPOSITION

§ 135. The last member of a dvandva is usually inflected in the singular. A few examples of the old type remain, e.g. pita-putre 715 'father and son', edeṣa pitaputrana 71, ede bharya pate 632.

In 450 putradhidarchi is plural because it means 'sons and daughters'. Examples of the usual singular inflection are: pitumadue 164, madupitusya 109, hasta padumi 339, Khema Khotamnade 283, Calmadana Caḍodade 246, śubhaśubhaṣa 165, danagrahana.

This development is further attested inside India in Kharoṣṭhi inscriptions, e.g. C.I.I. II, 12, matapitaram, whereas the Aśokan texts still always use the plural matapituṣu.

§ 136. There has developed in this language a principle of group-inflection, by which the last member only of a nominal group is inflected, e.g. cojhbo Yitaka tomga Vuktoṣa ca 'To the cojhbo Yitaka and the tomga Vukto' (on the use of the same form for Nom. and Gen. see § 122). With feminine last 566 Kupṣuta Tilutamae ca. It is not always easy to draw the line as to where ordinary cases of Nominal Composition end and where this loose stringing together of nouns begins. That is noticeably the case in the type quoted in the next paragraph, which corresponds in a way to the Sanskrit Karmadhāraya. In the case of ordinary dvandvas it is doubtful in the light of these facts whether e.g. Khema Khotamnade should be called a compound, especially when it is considered that in making accumulations of substantives the particle ca is not usually employed, e.g. 19 coḍaga pačevara parikraya dadavo 'Clothing, food and wages must be given'. Similarly with verbs: 9 aḡasitaṃti taḡitaṃti 'They carried off and beat'.

§ 137. Examples of Karmadhāraya are: cojhbo Tamjakaṣa, 43 stri Suḡisae, 4 kori Rutrayaṣa, 55 rayaka khulana, 133 priya nivasaga Svaneyaṣa, 248 mahaṃta rajakaryena, 24 edaṣa dajha Sarpigaṣa vaṃti, 32 Peta-avanemci Sagapeyaṣa, 152 priyabhratu soṭhaṃga Lpipeyaṣa, 245 edaṣa pitu cojhbo Šamaṣenaṣa, 575 maya rajadivira śraṃamna Dhamapriyena.

In all these cases the words hang very loosely together, and they must be regarded as group-inflection, rather than compounds in the proper sense of the term.

Examples are quite common in the Kharoṣṭhi inscriptions of N.W. India, which shows that the usage was widespread and not a peculiarity of this particular dialect. Cf. C.I.I. II, p. cxv, mahadanapati Patikasa, erjhuna Kapasa, maharaja rajatitaja Hoveṣkasa.

§ 138. Genitive Tatpuruṣas are very common: anati lekha, rayadvarammi 16, palḡi uṭa, viṇṇati lekha, padamulade, khula uṭa, parikra aṃna 25, goṭhakarya 31, Cinasthana 35, aṃna nadha 'pack of corn' 68, aṃna śeṣa 140, ghrita paṣu 141, go yaṃñā 155, gaṃnana pravaṃnaḡa 'document of accounts' 159, palṭi dhaṃā 164, raya saṭṭi 165, rajakaryami 272, bhuma muli 624, maharaya-putra 622.

Unlike later Sanskrit the Tatpuruṣa compound is practically never made with a personal name as the first member. They say Lṭpipeyaṣa haṣṭaṃmi (4) Cimḡeyaṣa ṣatade 82, Catoṣa goṭhade 621, etc. etc.

§ 139. Bahuvrihis are rare: mahanuava, ṣovarṣi '6 years old', catuvarṣaḡa (etc.), ñadārtha, maṃnuṣa ruṭa, 324 paṣuvalana stri Kroue pramuhanam.

a = ā rather than ca (?), § 92.

akas: (aḡas, aḡajh-). = ākāsayati* from kas 'to go', i.e. 'to cause to come (to oneself), take away', opposite of nikas, nikhas = niškāsayati 'eject, send away', 1 Lṣipeya garahati yatha edaṣa gavi 2 seniye Sacinuciye aḡasitaṃti, eka gavi patama aḡitaṃti, eka khayitaṃti 'L. complains that soldiers from Saca took away two of his cows: one cow they let go back, one they ate'. akasida, § 16; aḡajhidati, §§ 22, 109.

akiṣḍha: (aḡiṣḍha, aḡiṣṭa). An article of some kind, because it is numbered, not measured, e.g. 431-2 aḡiṣḍha 2... amṇa aḡiṣḍha 1. Since it is often mentioned in conjunction with kojava 'rug' (see s.v.) it will be an article of similar nature.

akri: § 36, where it is derived from agrya. But the meaning is uncertain and it may mean 'uncultivated (land)' as suggested by Prof. Thomas, Acta Or. XII, 38. There is hardly enough evidence to decide whether miṣi-land or akri-land was most valuable. In 571 miṣi-land of an area requiring 3 milima of seed is worth 60 muli (see s.v.). In 222 akri-land requiring $\frac{1}{2}$ a milima (10 khi) is worth 10 muli, i.e. the same value. On the other hand in 579 akri-land requiring 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ milima is only valued at 13 muli. But there is not enough evidence to make any generalisations about price. Cf. under miṣi.

amkr'atsa: i.e. amklatsa (agiltsa in 422 is a variant of this word). An epithet describing camels. It may be = the Toch. B. aknātsa, A. aknats 'ignorant', meaning an untrained camel. The original form of the Tocharian word was anknatsa, which might easily be dissimilated in this dialect into amklatsa. J.R.A.S. (1935), p. 673.

agiltsa: Probably = amklatsa above. Anusvāra is often omitted (§ 47) and the g instead of ḡ indicates its presence, because simple intervocalic g becomes ḡ (§ 16).

Amkvaka: (Amgoka, etc. § 7). The name may be Chinese An-chou according to Prof. Thomas, Acta Or. XIII, 49, 50.

agratu: §§ 12, 92.

aḡeta: An official repeatedly mentioned side by side with yatma (see s.v.), both of whose functions seem to have been closely connected with the collection and delivery of the tax (palḥi); cf. 57, where the aṅeta and yatma are responsible for conveying palṭi, 714; an investigation is being held into the conditions of collecting the taxes, and the vasu, aṅeta and yatma are commanded to appear. Similar functions appear in 275 and 307. Further, the aṅeta possesses judicial functions in connection with legal transactions, e.g. 640 eṣa likhitaga rayakade aṅeta Lpīpatgāsa traghade bhuma praceyā Lustuṣa anada dharidavo 'This document from the royal administration, from the department (office) of the aṅeta Lpīpatgā, concerning land, must be carefully preserved by Lustu'; 715 taha ko paṭima kaṇṭhammi vasu aṅeta raya dvaraṇṇi codeyati... 'Like-wise whoever at a later time makes a complaint before the vasu, or the aṅeta or at the king's court'; 437 yo ca koci paṭima kaṇṭhammi tāya kuṭṭiyae kridena caṇkura Kapṭeya ni bhratare bhratuputro va praputro va ṭṭati, yo aṇṇa kilmeci vasu aṅetana ṣa ca bīti vara maṇṭra nikkhaleyaṇṭi 'And whoever at a later time, (either) the brothers of Kapṭeya or his brother's son, or grandson, or any other relative, brings the matter up a second time concerning this girl before the local (kilmeci) vasus or aṅetas.

aṅga: To be read aṅga, cf. § 47. Always used in connection with muli 'price, payment'. It seems to mean something like 'additional, complementary, subsidiary' payment, e.g. 571 giṭa muli uṭa 1 dvaraṣaṅga paṇṇasa muliyena, Koṭṭiyena paṭichida aṇṇa aṅga muli giṭa masu khi 10 'He received the price, one camel two years' old worth 50 muli. Koṭṭiya received. Further he took a complementary payment of 10 khi of wine.'

aco, acovina: The meaning seems to be, as Prof. Thomas points out (Acta Or. XIII, 58), a kind of courier or messenger. Not indeed the regular monthly postal service described in 376, but a special courier to report impending attacks from enemies (cf. 133, 139). In that case aco might be some kind of outlook post on the frontier.

Against Prof. Thomas' explanation (ib.) from Sanskrit ājava or ājūh, internal j never becomes c. It became regularly y and under certain cases j (= ś), § 17. acaṣaṇṇaṇṇa 415 (= ajeṣaṇṇa), if not merely to be regarded as an error, represents jj, which might possibly have been unvoiced into cc according to § 14.

Acokisṅgiya: 371. Apparently name of a local god, cf. Bhatro.

Acomena: Place-name. Connected with aco (?), cf. the article cited above.

achinati: 'encroach on, appropriate', § 101.

aṭṭaniya: 703. Read perhaps raṭṭaniya 'to be kept'.

ajakra: §§ 36, 91.

Ajiyama: See under avāna.

aṭṭaṇṇae: § 1. ajeṣaṇṇae, §§ 41, 67 = adhyeṣanayā.

ajuvadae: § 11.

- ajhatu: Only 152. The meaning is quite uncertain, but it seems to have nothing to do with ajhate.
- ajhate: Probably = Av. āzāta, N.Pers. āzūd 'noble' or 'free', cf. B.S.O.S. VII, 509.
- ajhateyaśa: 242. The alternative reading ajhateyana is to be preferred, because otherwise it would not be inflected, cf. § 137; = 'of the free men'.
- ajhi: 563. Meaning and etymology quite obscure.
- ajho: Obscure: but there is no reason to think it is connected with aro as Prof. Thomas thinks (Acta Or. XIII, 60). The letter deals with the transportation of the state supplies of corn and wine. Apart from that the passage containing ajho is far from clear. It runs: uṣa 20 20 tre tre milima nadha kartavo dui vara Piśaliyaṃmi nihaṃnūtaya, masuṃmi uṣa 10 4 1 prathame va ajho tre nikhaliḍavo 'Forty camels are to be loaded with 3 milima each (of corn), and the two-thirds are to be stored at Piśali. For the masu fifteen camels are to be got out... (?)...'. Certainly uṣa is the subject of nikhalidavo, but is ajho another nominative parallel to it or some kind of adverb? Since we are dealing with wine it might be suggested that ajho = S. āsava (cf. §§ 7, 22), but that also fails to make the passage clear.
- aña: §§ 41, 88. Declension of, § 88.
- aṣa: = S. aṣṭa, Hindi āṣā 'flour'; Prof. Thomas, Acta Or. XIII, 67.
- aṣha: § 49.
- aṣhi: § 49.
- aṣhovaḡa: = 'ready, fit (for work), capable, available (for use)', §§ 37, 49. The meaning was first pointed out by Prof. Thomas in Acta Or. XII.
- aṣini: Some kind of grain or crop. It is grown by seed (579).
- adha: § 37.
- aṃtagi: An epithet of horses and camels. The g cannot stand for the suffixal -ka, because we never find aḡi in these forms. It must be an adjective derived by the suffix -i (§ 75) from a noun antāk, or antah. Probably Iranian, cf. B.S.O.S. VII, 779.
- ativatidavo: Means 'send, hand over, deliver, dispatch'. Probably = atipātaya—rather than ativartaya—because r is not usually assimilated to t, and, in the few instances where it is, a cerebral results, §§ 36, 37.
- atvanam: § 44.
- adehi: § 91.
- adha: § 37.
- adhamēna: § 90.
- ana, anati, etc.: § 44.
- anata, anada: § 91. Seems to mean 'carefully, well, properly'. It occurs regularly in certain stock phrases, e.g. 1, etc. eda vivada samuḡa anada pruchidavo 'This dispute is to be carefully investigated in person'; 571, etc. eṣa pravaṇṇaḡa Koṇava ni miṣivasa praceya divira Ramṣotsasa anada tharitavo 'This document concerning the miṣi-(land) of Kōfiaya is to be carefully preserved by the scribe Ramṣotsa'. In 569 and 593 suha occurs in place of anada in the same formula. suha seems to mean much the same as su 'well' in 419 sukrida suhavikrida. Also in the phrase avi sṣaṣa jivida paricaḡena anada raḡhidavva (cf. under sṣaṣa). The meaning hardly allows us to equate it with Skt. āñāptam 'ordered'. It is perhaps the same word as Saka ānata 'kept preserved' (in the Saka version of the Suvarṇaprabhāsa Sūtra, vide Konow, S.B.P.A.W. (1935), pp. 428 ff. ānatu yanda translates āraḡṣayiṣyatha). In the Maralbashi dialect the same word appears as anāḡu. This identification is strengthened by the fact that in our documents it is most frequently used with verbs like raḡṣ- and dhar-.

anahetu : either = ṛṇahetu or ana-, is the extended form of the negative prefix which appears occasionally in Prakrit (Pischel, § 77), the meaning being 'without just cause'. Although the treatment of ṛ- is irregular (§ 5), the former interpretation is supported by 719, where Saḡapeya and Pḡo carry off a woman anahetu; then the text goes on to say yo Saḡapeya Pḡoṣa ca dharanṇaḡa haḡḡati 'And whatever he (the owner of the woman) shall be owing to S. and P.', etc.

anīyanae : § 103.

anusamṡti : = anusandhi or āmusandhi 'adjoining' (cf. Prof. Thomas, Acta Or. XIII, 79).

apacira : (also written avacira, apcira). It appears as a kind of measure in the sale of vineyards (masu ṣaḡa) not of other kinds of cultivated land. Ordinary sown land was measured not by area but by the amount of seed which was sown on it (see bhiḡapayati), and from 655 this seems to have been the case with vineyards. Budha-phāmaasa vaṡti miṣi vikrida, tatra bhiḡapayati milima 1 kḡi 4 1, masu ṣaḡa, tatra masu vuta apacira 10 3 'He sold to B. some miṣi-(land), there the capacity for seed was 1 m. 5 kh., (also) a vineyard; (and) there vines are planted to the extent of 13 apacira'. It is clear that apacira is some term indicating the number or quantity of vine-plants, and not the area. According to Stein (Ruins of Ancient Khotan, p. 247) vines are trained along low fences running in parallel lines. Perhaps apacira means 'row', i.e. a row of standard length in which vines were planted.

apyarṡtara : § 14.

aprameḡo : §§ 16, 53.

apru : Only 722. Seems to be some noun of relationship belonging to

- the native language. Unfortunately no information is available on the actual relationship of the people mentioned.
- aprochiti: = apṛṣṭā, § 102.
- apsu: Title. There is practically no information as to the nature of their functions. We find them mentioned along with other officials in lists of witnesses, e.g. 571 cojhbo Kuwiñeya sañhi, vasuana Acuñiya Cadhiya Vupikaya ca, apsuana Sāmcā Pitga tomgha Karamtsa saca, sañhi Tamcgo, agetana Lpibatga Kuuna Kuwiñeya yatma Kuwiñeyasa ca sañhi. Perhaps tomgha and apsu were functions very closely connected, because the most natural translation is '... of the apsu's Sāmcā Pitga and the tomgha Karamtsa', i.e. subordinating the tomgha Karamtsa to the general conception of apsu. Otherwise we would have had sa ca after the name Pitga. Further, Karamtsa appears in 579 with the title apsu, while Sāmcā appears at the bottom of this same document with the title tomgha.
- aphiñanu: Cf. B.S.(I).S. VIII, 432. Konow (Acta Or. XIV, 238) equates it with Skt. abhiñāna.
- ambila: § 45. Possibly the same as amila 655, but the meaning of both is quite uncertain.
- Ambukaya: Seems to be a title or surname: only 251.
- abomata: = abhyavamata, §§ 41, 107 = used with ky in the sense of 'disobey', 'disrespect', e.g. 371 yo esa cojhbo Sonjaka abomata kariyati, vacanena na kariyati 'This man who shall disobey the cojhbo Sonjaka and shall not act according to his word'.
- abramo: Quite obscure. The b suggests that it does not belong to the native language (§ 14).
- abhatayutu: 399. One might suggest a reading like *asamta *abhuta yatu tusmağa anartha bhavati '(They say) things which are not, things which have not been, from which you suffer'.
- abhiñhe: 272. There is a variant reading akista which might be a proper name. abhiñhe would mean 'desirable, suitable', but it is unusual to find an attributive adjective inflected, § 137 (unless -e < -ae < -ağa, § 53).
- abhirucitağena: § 112.
- abhisamitañti: 'They came to an agreement'.
- amaramnae: § 103.
- amahu: § 78.
- ayağa: 107. Meaning uncertain.
- aya dvara: = 'revenue', as pointed out by Prof. Thomas, Acta Or. XIII, 71, quoting the Kāṣyapa Parivarta, where the same phrase is found.
- ayamnae: § 103.
- aya Ridhasena: = ārya R., § 42. The word has a purely religious sense 'reverend', as in Buddhist texts, and does not elsewhere occur. The assimilation of ry to y is not regular (§ 36, cf. karya), but religious terms common to Buddhists in general are naturally liable to irregularities.

ayidana: 676. If the correction asitana be adopted caṁa maṁsa asidana na nikkhalita might be translated 'By them having eaten the flesh, the skin was not removed'. But there is no other example of the participle in -ta being inflected in this dialect.

ayoḡena: Skt. āyoga. It is used to denote an additional payment to be made, when an old payment is long overdue, something like interest: e.g. 437, the payment of 3 muli has been deferred, consequently a ruling is made yatha paṭani muli śeṣa viṭṭadae huati taha ahuno se muli eka ayoḡena giṇṇitavo huda muli 4 1 aṇṇa varita 'Just as the rest of the price (mentioned) on the document (paṭṭa) has been retained, so now that sum is to be received with one ayoḡa, the sum is 5 muli, other payment is forbidden'. eka is obscure, but it is clear that the ayoḡa is the extra 2 muli which have been added owing to deferment of payment. 14, an envoy to Khotan had not been provided with a guard (valaḡa) at Caḡota at the expense of the state. Now an order is made that the wages of a guard be paid him ḡadha ayoḡena, i.e. complete with interest or an extra sum to make up for his own expense and trouble. 68 (two men have eaten a sack of corn belonging to somebody else) eṣa aṇṇa ṣa ayoḡena Opḡe Lḡipeṣa ca giṇṇidavva 'This corn plus interest is to be received by O. and L.' There do not seem to be any documents recording a deed of loan on interest, so if usury was practised, which it hardly can have been on a large scale, there is no means of learning what the general word for 'interest' was. ayoḡa always occurs where an additional payment has to be made by people who have neglected paying sums due for a long time. āyoga in the sense of 'something added on to, an addition, extra' is a quite natural meaning, although it does not appear to be used in Sanskrit exactly in this sense.

arabḡtidavva: § 116.

ari: = ārya (?). ārya certainly becomes aya in one place (see above), but there is a specifically monkish term. ari does not seem to be associated with any particular function, like many of the titles, so that a general meaning something like 'sir', which ārya might easily have, is the most likely. On the other hand the term is not applied to very many people.

ariḡḡi and ariḡḡaḡa: Only 109. Among a list of things sent as a present. According to Prof. Thomas, Acta Or. xiii, 78 = ārḡṛi and ārḡraha 'ginger'. The phonetics are irregular, but such a word is likely to exhibit irregularities due to borrowing.

arivaḡa: Probably means 'guide'. The arivaḡa is frequently mentioned as conducting envoys to Khotan: 135 avi arivaḡa maṇṇuṭa aḡhovaḡa 1 dadavo yasya anupurvvena ḡaṁdavo siyati etaḡa arivaḡaṣa tanu storena ḡaṁdavo 'Also a capable arivaḡa-man is to be given (to the envoys) who shall go in front of them. This arivaḡa must go on his own beast.' Similarly 22, 253. The office was hereditary:

438 Bhimaṣena viññaveti, eṣa pitara pita uvadae na arivaḡu asti Khotanṃni mata na anada janati, arivaḡa na kartavo 'Bh. informs (us): he is not an arivaḡa from his father and ancestors, he does not properly know the Khotan mata, you make him an arivaḡa, he is not to be made an arivaḡa'. matu unfortunately is obscure. Skt. mata- does not seem to give any good sense. Similarly in 10 a man complains that his paternal profession is klaseṃci not arivaḡa. Etymology uncertain. Prof. Thomas suggests Skt. arpaka-, i.e. through aripaku-* with svarabhakti.

are: 2 are khi 1. Apparently the same as ara in 176 aru khi 1. Perhaps 'half a khi' < Ir. ardaka. For r < rd, r compare nokṣari < navaka sard-.

arogī: § 9.

areṣa: (and areṣahi). Obscure.

arohaḡa: (Only 420. Uncertain; perhaps something like the saddle of a camel; = ārohaka).

Arglyoṅḡlsavae: § 69. Read Arglyoṅḡ (= tḡ)ṣaae.

artavaṣa: 431. Some object.

artha: § 55.

arnavaḡi: A kind of cloth measured in hands (hasta) 83, which may be white (ṣpeti 83, which seems to show that the word is feminine).

aryaḡa: 654. A title, presumably = āryaka, cf. ari and aya.

arṣaḡa(e): Occurs before a few proper names, namely Apeṃna (87, 147, 210, 531), Kolḡiṣa (560), Uvaṣena (543). It may be the Iranian proper name Arṣaka- (Arsaces).

alamḡila: Only 109. Some article; ṣa alamḡila 'along with an a-'.

a la va la: 499. Reading uncertain.

alena: Epithet of kajava 'rug', 'blanket' 549; = ālayana-* 'rug for lying down in (?)'.

aloṭa: § 18. = āloṭṭa* 'plundering'; single ṭ would have become ḡ.

avaḡaḡena: §§ 16, 21.

avāna: Hardly from Skt. āpaṇa 'bazaar', because the meaning is rather 'village' or 'parish'. It might first have meant a local market, then market-town including the land round it: 124 Peta avāneṃci bhūmana prae 'Concerning the lands belonging to the parish of Peta'. The word is most likely of Iranian origin: O.Pers. āvahana, Arm.L.W. avan, both meaning 'village'; Saka vāna < (a)vāna, which shows that the second a was long. The meaning is obviously nearer than that of Skt. ūpaṇa. nagara is used as a synonym for avāna in 25, peta nagaraṃmi.

The avānas, always mentioned by name (the word avāna does not occur independently), are the following:

(1) Yave avāna; at 497 it appears as deviyae yave avānaṃmi.

(2) Peta avāna; in 494 as deviyae peta avānaṃmi.

(3) Ḳatiṣa devī avāna; also Ḳatiṣa devīae a° 334, etc., and devī Ḳatiṣae a° at 295.

(4) Yirumdhina avāna, only 297.

- (5) Ajiyama avāna.
- (6) Vamtu avāna.
- (7) Traṣa avāna.
- (8) Navaḡa avāna 366.
- (9) Tomgraka maharayaṣa avanaṇmi 549.
- (10) Devīyae oḡu Anuḡaya ni avanaṇmi 629.
- (11) Paḡina avanaṇmi 750.

Note also that Armenian avan is similarly compounded with proper names, e.g. Vatāṣ-avan (Hübsehmar, Arm. Gr. p. 79).

The avānas frequently appear as administrative units for collecting taxes (cf. 42, 121, 165, 468) or other purposes (e.g. 136, 296, 439). In 16 Peta avāna is put in charge of a caṇkura. Individuals mentioned in the documents often have their avāna referred to, showing that it was an important unit of administrative classification.

avamīcae: § 55. Perhaps = apamityaka, rather than apamityāya.

avalika: § 75. Mentioned side by side with koḡava 'blanket, counterpane', and namata 'rough coat' is perhaps an object of somewhat similar nature.

avale: Only 431-2. Unknown.

avaṣa: §§ 7, 41. avaṣe, § 53.

avasama: Not = āvāsāt, because the ablative is always in -ade never -ama, § 56. The meaning seems to be something like 'unsuitable, improper': 69 mahi iṣa avasama Bhoti-nagarade amna nikhalanṇae 'It was not proper for me here to remove the corn from Bhoti-nagara', or 'It was not opportune that the corn should be removed'; 29 tatra saḡhi iṣa nasti, udiṣa avasama hoda iṣa niṣe karanṇae 'On that point there are no witnesses here. Therefore it was impossible to make a decision here', or 'It was held that we should. . .'. Compare Saka viysama 'improper' (B.S.O.S. VIII, 141) which is opposed to presama 'suitable'. The words must be Indian not Iranian. Skt. apasama* and prasama*.

aviḡida: § 17.

aviṇḡdhama: 'recompense, penalty', e.g. 144 yati Soḡanaṣa taḡitaḡena Kacana mṛdaḡa siyati aviṇḡdhama maṇmuṣa vyochiṇḡnidavya hoati 'If Kacana (a slave) died through Soḡana's beating, a man (i.e. slave) must be adjudged to the owner in recompense'. The term aviṇḡd(h)ama includes both the making good of losses caused to other people by illegal action, e.g. 676 (somebody having stolen a cow) udiṣa triḡuna aviṇḡdama chiṇḡnidama 'Therefore we have decided on a restitution of three times the amount', and also punishment, retribution in the form of beating, etc. (209, 419, etc.).

avidharṇeya: The alternative reading avisanṇmeya = abhisamaya is to be preferred.

aṣpa: = aṣca, § 49. aṣpaṇca, § 62.

asade: i.e. aḡhade (x). Internal s was voiced, so appears written for ṣ. asadhanae: = āśadanāya 'to settle' (Act.).

- asarpna: § 123. Only in the phrase asarpna gapiduva. The meaning seems to be 'take possession of'. Compare possess from sedeo. Cf. § 123.
asarpne: 373, is from āsanna (opposite to tura = dūra in the next line).
astarna: See under hastama.
asmağa: § 78.
ahati: § 96.
ahu: §§ 78, 96.
ahurpneva: = ahuno eva.
ahuno: § 91.

Ā

- āmechita: § 50.

I

- imci: § 84.
ichiyuti: §§ 1, 100.
itarica: (and idamca), § 82.
itu: §§ 12, 91.
ityartha: § 134.
imthuarpmi: § 91.
ima-: § 82.
iyō: § 82.
iša: § 91. išemi, § 91.

U

- ukas-: ut + √kas 'to go', meaning 'depart, go away'. ukasta, § 107.
učhivana: Lüders, 'Zur Geschichte des ostasiatischen Tierkreises', S.P.A.W. (1933), pp. 6, 7. ujhmayuğa: An adjective applied to manuṣya (so read instead of masuṣya) 283 and jamna 373. Perhaps an Iranian word meaning 'skilled, experienced', Pahlavi uzmāyīšn 'experience', uzmūtak 'skilled'. Cf. B.S.O.S. VII, 780.
uṭa: §§ 25, 37, 49. uṭavala, § 20; uṭi-, § 68.
uṭha: § 25.
uthaviyadi: 661. Optative, not = uthāpyate, § 100.
uthiśa: § 26.
udiśa: §§ 41, 102.
umna: § 37.
unidağa: (also uneyaga, unidi (Fem.)). The forms are used indiscriminately, compare 538 stri Ramatirae unidi giḷae huati with 542 sā kuḷi Ramatirae numa uneyaga giḷae. = 'adopted (child)'. The custom was very prevalent, since numerous documents refer to it. A payment was made by the adopters to the parents which was called kuṭhaēhira (see s.v.). In 569 it is laid down that they are not to be treated as slaves: eša Šanmamnera unidağa na dajha kaḷavo nu rikrinidavo. . . emu kaḷavo yatha uniya mamnuša 'This Š. (is an) adopted (child), he is not to be made a slave, not to be sold, he is to be treated like an adopted person'. With the permission of their masters, slaves could adopt children in the same way, cf. 39.

From un-nī in the sense of 'bring up', 'rear' (39 unida vardhida).

upagata: § 20.

Upateyu: = Upadeva, cf. Jivateyu and § 13.

upamṇa: § 107.

upari: § 91. = uppari*, cf. Panj. juppar, Hind. ūpar, and J. Bloch, L'Indo-Aryen, p. 92.

upaśamghidavo: § 46.

uyoga: (?). Apparently title of some kind.

uryaḡana: See vuryaḡa.

eka: § 16. Declension of, § 88.

ekaḡo: § 53.

ekhara: Title or surname. The kh shows that it cannot belong to the native language of Kroraina, which was quite devoid of aspirates (or spirants: kh may stand for x).

eti: § 87.

ema: § 50. emaveca, § 11.

emaṃtara: (and imaṃtara). = 'in the meanwhile, during this interval'. From ima- and antara; emaṃtara seems to be due to the influence of ema.

eśvari: § 9.

ogu: One of the commonest of the titles in the documents. The g in the middle of the word is striking. Otherwise both in the Prakrit and in native names g appears in these positions: bhaḡa, Caḡu, Oḡaca, etc. There is no other word in which g appears regularly. In this word it is invariable. This perhaps indicates that it was pronounced oggu*. Anyway the term cannot have belonged originally to the native language of Kroraina, because it was devoid of voiced consonants (§ 14).

As regards its significance, it appears to have been about the highest title that existed, since in lists of people with their titles the ogu comes first, e.g. 732 astama pruchitaṃti ogu Jeyabhatra caṃkura Cataraga cūdalaina Tiraphara cojho Sonjaka Lpīptaśa ca, 574 tatra saṃhi hutaṃti ogu Dhamāpala kori Muldeya kitsatsa Lustuaśa ca. Similarly 709 (the king—the ogus—the suvephas—cojho, etc.), 582, etc. The title guśura seems to have been connected in some way with ogu. A number of people appear both as ogu and guśura, e.g. Kuśanaśena, Cakurata, Aśoga; while in the document 584 eśa muṃtra guśura Jēbhatra caṃkura Caraga cojho Sonjakasa ca is the same formula (and the same people)

- who appear in 582 eṣa mu(dra) oḡu Jeyabhatra caṃkura Ca(taraḡa) (co)jho Soṃjakaṣa eṣa. About twenty-five oḡus are mentioned.
- oḡana: Some kind of crop measured in mīlīmas and khīs (154). Perhaps connected with Toch. oko 'fruit', okar 'plant'.
- oḡeti: § 99. = 'let go', 'send away', 'allow': 211 edaṣu miṣiyāmmi khudaṃnarthi Kake Lpīpeṣa ca vuḍaviyani oḡitaṃti 'K. and L. let mares loose in his cornfield to eat'; 18 kṛṣivatra na oḡeti karaṃmae 'He will not allow him to do cultivation'. The etymology is not clear. It may be connected with Pali oḡḍeti 'throw away, reject' (Pv. A. 256 oḡḍayāmi = chaḍḍayāmi) and oḡḍeti meaning 'to set or lay a snare' (pāsu).
- odara: Epithet of the camel. Perhaps = ulāra, cf. A. M. orāla beside urāla.
- omaḡa: § 7. = avumaka 'short' (of measure).
- oya: § 17. = ojas.
- orovaḡa: = avaropaka (?). The meaning is not clear.
- osuḡa: §§ 41, 48.
- osti: 7. Apparently a mistake for astī.
- ohara: 160. goḡha-ohara = avahāra, perhaps the 'produce of a farm', which can be removed (ava-hṛ) annually at harvest time.

K

- ka-: § 83. kaḍi, §§ 49, 84.
- kaḡaha varṇnaḡa: 583. Obscure. Lüders (Textilin, p. 21) equates it with kaḡa thuvanne (141), assuming that ha is miswritten.
- kaṃjhavallyana: Only 725 ari(k)añjhavaliyana paḡpiyaṣa anada pricha ganana kartavo; the meaning is obviously 'treasury-officials'. kañjha = Ir. ganza-, another dialectical form of gañja-, which also appears in the documents, cf. gaṃñi. The last member of the word is obscure.
- kañi draṃḡa: = gaṃñi draṃḡa, cf. § 14.
- kaḡa: 607. = kūṣṡha (?).
- kaḡavo: § 37.
- kaḡha: § 49.
- katamti: § 5.
- katari: 505. Pali kattari 'scissors, shears', Skt. kartari.
- katma: 160. = (?), katma kṛṣivatra kareṃti.
- katvetha: 470. = 'you have made'. Read kaṡethu (?).
- kamḡo: 43. Apparently something made of gold.
- kabhodha: Perhaps 'grazing-land, pasture', cf. B.S.O.S. VII, 513. Prof. Thomas (Acta Or. XIII, 70) thinks that it was communally owned. Cf. s.v. naḡira.
- kamita: § 83.
- kamuṃta: 207. Lüders (op. cit. p. 6) equates it with kamaṃta (see s.v. caṃḍrikamaṃta), but without adequate reason.
- kamāveti: §§ 29, 104.
- kayavatra: 534. (?). It looks Indian. kācapātra ('glass vessel') (?). c becomes ṣ (j) rather than y. But the signs are easily confused.

karamniya: § 116.

karitu: § 93. karemana, § 101; karišadi, § 41.

karoma: 505. Some object.

karsenava: Some kind of official. Closely connected with the śadavida. They are mentioned together 482, 590. The karsenava is comparatively rarely mentioned, only about six or seven individuals bearing that title.

kala: Title. It may mean 'prince' because Kala Puṇṇabala is called maharayaṇputra 622, 634. About ten kalas are mentioned.

Prof. Thomas has suggested (Festschrift. . . H. Jacobi, p. 51) that it is the same word as appears as kara in Kujula Kara Kadphises on the coins of that monarch, while gušura = kujula. The identifications are exceedingly probable, although the phonetics are not easy to explain. On the other hand titles like these are liable to be borrowed from kingdom to kingdom, undergoing phonetic changes en route. Cf. s.v. gušura.

kālihari: 399, and kalihari 709, 'quarrel'. Cf. Saka kalahāra 'quarreller' and Lüders, B.S.O.S. VIII, 641.

kavaḥi: Perhaps = kavacikā, which would give kavaḥi (kavaḥi) in this dialect (§§ 14, 74 ikā > i, § 17 c > t, j). From 505 it is clearly an article of dress.

kaśa: 400. Epithet of aṇma 'corn'.

kaśpiya: 534 kaśpiya 4 (in a list of objects).

kašara: 606: śramaṇna Ayila viṇṇaveti yatha eḍaṣa stri Cadiṣaame maṇṇma kašara dahita 'The monk Ayila says that the woman Cadiṣa has burnt his kašara' (eḍaṣa . . . maṇṇma, anacoluthon). Compare Toch. A. kāšār = Skt. kāṣāya (also B.). The Toch. forms perhaps find their explanation in this dialect. Beyond that the origin of the r is mysterious.

kākāni: 399. (?)

kārsenade: 86. Read probably kārsenava. The officials śadavida and karsenava are mentioned together in other places, cf. s.v. karsenava.

kāla: Cf. s.v. kala.

kica: § 41.

kicamaḡa: 'due, owing' (of tax, etc.). Etymology unknown.

kiḍa: §§ 5, 18, 107.

kiṇtra: A surname. Cf. kiṇdari.

kitsaitsa: Title. The kitsaitsa was of very high rank, often being mentioned along with kālas (581, 606, 640, etc.), also with tasuca (495, 648). The functions of the kitsaitsa were of a judicial nature (e.g. 495, 581, 606, 719, 730). Connected possibly with Toch. B. kisaisaṇe 'age'. The meaning 'elder', i.e. member of a sort of council of elders, would be quite appropriate. Cf. J.R.A.S. (1935), p. 673.

kiṇna: §§ 1, 83.

kiraṣa: Epithet of uṭi 'female-camel', 570.

kilamudra: 'wedge-seal', i.e. wedge-shaped wood on tablet with the royal seal on. Stein, Ruins of Ancient Khotan, p. 368.

kilme: = 'estate'; kilme(n)ci 'tenant' according to Prof. Thomas (Acta Or. XIII, 63).

It is not easy to be quite sure about the precise meaning of the word. It seems to be the same as the Toch. A. kälyme 'direction, district' and often a general meaning like that is suitable: Yāve a'anaṃmi kilme-ci 'belonging to the district of Yāve a'ana'. But there are certain indications that it has a more specified meaning. Notably 374 samvatsari palpi cinditaḡa yo kilmeciyana paride yam ca rajude 'The year's tax was assessed, both that from the kilmecis and that from the rāḡya'. That may mean that the rāḡya was the land directly owned by the king, while the *kilme*s were fiefs or estates granted to the nobility of the realm. The titles of people who have *kilme*s under them are those which for other reasons are known to have been the most exalted. Most frequently ogu (209, 254, 393, 621, 639, 734). Also camkura (437 and 16, where Peta arāna is handed over to the camkura Arjuna), kula (256, 367) and possibly cojho (152). No one without a high title is mentioned as having a kilme, so that it is not just a case of ordinary landed-proprietorship and tenancy but something more approaching feudalism. Cf. also J.R.A.S. (1935), p. 674. A connection may be suggested with the 'Lord's land' of the Tibetan documents (Prof. Thomas, J.R.A.S. (1934), p. 96).

kiṣaṃnae: § 5. kiṣiṃnae, § 104.

kuṭṭačhira: § 49. Technical term indicating the payment made by people adopting a child to the parents (cf. s.v. uneyaga). This usually consisted of a horse (45, etc.) or camel (569). Except in 741, the word always occurs in the genitive, e.g. 569 kuṭṭačhiraḡa uṭa aklatsa ditaḡa 'An aṃklatsa camel was given (as a return for) kuṭṭačhira', i.e. as a return for having nourished the child in its earliest infancy, a payment was due to the parents from the people who adopted the child. kuṭṭa- is obviously the participle of kuṣ- 'extract' (connected with cūṣ- (?)), meaning the milk which had been sucked by the child. The ṭhi instead of th is unexplained (§ 49). The genitive is difficult unless we understand something like kuṭṭačhiraḡa pratikura.

kuḡa: 358 = kuḡaḡa.

kuḡaḡa: Fern. kuḡi (i = ikā) 'boy' and 'girl'. The word is common in a number of the modern Indo-Aryan languages, e.g. Panjabi kuṛī fem., Lahnda kuṛā masc., kuṛī fem., etc., chiefly in the languages of the North-West. A connection with N.Pers. kūdak 'child' is not out of the question.

kuthala: Both meaning and etymology are difficult. It might appear from 327 Kolaṣiyasa vanti miṣiyammi kuthala 10 3 vikrida 'In miṣi-land he sold 13 kuthala to K.' that it was a unit of land-

- measurement. On the other hand land is not usually measured by area, but by the amount of seed it takes (see s.v. payati, bijapay), and the fact that kuthala is placed before bhuma, qualifying it (e.g. 419, 582), indicates that it was a particular form or kind of land. Since undoubtedly the kuthalas are numbered (see above) a meaning something like a 'strip of land' would be most adequate, and kuthala bhuma would mean land divided up in such a fashion. Such systems of land-tenure are of course common. The word cannot belong to the native language because of the aspirate th. Nor can it be Iranian because internal th would appear as h at this time (both in Saka and Pahlavi). As a rule (§ 27) th would become h in Indian words too, so that the word may represent kutthala*.
- kurora: Epithet of land, bhuma kurora. Perhaps = N.Pers. kurār = 'a plot of land with a raised border prepared for sowing'; B.S.O.S. VII, 780.
- kulola: § 28.
- kuṇāna: kuṇāna 430. (1) Epithet of corn (aṇṇa), collected as tax. There are three technical terms applied in this sense: kuṇāna, koyimaṇḍhina, tsaṇghina (e.g. 272), but their precise signification is not clear. (2) in 318 kuṇāna prahuni; compare Saka kuhaṇi thau = Skt. cailapaṭṭa.
- kuṣava: § 2.
- kusamṭa: Surname or title.
- kuhani: (and khvani, khuvanemci). = 'The Capital' or 'Citadel'; cf. Prof. Thomas, Acta Or. XII, 61. 530 mahanuava maharaya lihati . . . yatha . . . iṣa kuhaniyammi '... here in the kuhani', i.e. Krorayina, the capital from which the great king is writing. In 489 the Khuvanemci Bhiṣku-saṅgha lays down the ecclesiastical rules for the provincial saṅgha at Caṇḍota.
- keti: § 87.
- ko: § 83.
- kojalya: § 21.
- kojava: = Pali kojava 'a rug or cover with long hair, a fleecy counterpane'. Both words may be connected with kaucapaka, which is enumerated among the different kinds of rugs (kambala) at Arth. Śāstra, II, 11. 100.
- kotareyana: 414. Obscure.
- kopī: 198. Read ko pivaraga 'whichever is fat' instead of kopi varaga in the text.
- kobala: Surname. = komṭala (?).
- koyimaṇḍhi: (and koyimaṇḍhina; in koyimaṇ 38, -dhi has perhaps been omitted by mistake). The term is applied to a particular class of officials in charge of collecting grain, e.g. 38 Apemnaṣa pitu Opṭeya Koyimaṇ (dhi (?)) hoati; 309 taṇ kala adehi koyimaṇḍhina aṇṇa milima iṣa 1 sa 20 20 10 (iṣa) aṇiṣ . . . (ti) 'At that time the k.s used to bring from there 170 m. of corn'. Cf. tsaṇghina.
- korara: Surname or title. Applied to Suṅita (73, 181, 577), Rutraya (147, 180, 382) and Cakrāla (334).
- kori: An official whose functions seem to have been most closely - connected with the royal herds. Thus in 4 kori Rutraya is given instructions about the dispatch of camels. Further orders about camels are given to koris in 40, 64, 228, about horses in 213, 223, 228. They occasionally however appear in other functions, namely legal disputes, e.g. 32 (instructions to kori Rutraya about a marriage dispute), 49 (Rutraya: along with cojhbo Yitaka and toṃga Yukto: dispute about property).

- koro: 383. Apparently a kind of camel.
- korno: 46 striyana korno dhidare 2 (? striyana korno . . . orstriyana nakorno). Quite obscure.
- koltarṣa: Surname or title. Applied to Kuunḡe (66), Salvēta (210, 281) and Tsuḡenaṃma (266).
- koṣalga: § 16.
- koṣava: Cf. kojara.
- krataḡa: 534 krataḡa 2 (in a list of objects).
- kriṭha: 580 dhaṃḡa deyaṃti aṭpa tre na kri ṭha prahara satati (nakriṭha or na kriṭha (?); epithet of horse (?)).
- krita: § 5.
- kriṣṭaḡa: § 74.
- kriṣṭati: § 5.
- kriṣivatra: § 76.
- kriṣivaraṃnae: § 103.
- kremeru: 318, 660. Some object which has to do with cloth or clothing, as appears from 660.
- krona: 163. Epithet of uṭa 'camel' (or nikrona).
- klaseṃci: Officials whose duties were concerned with looking after horses and camels connected with the army: 562 ede Kuunḡe Oḡana ṣaca caura seni klaseṃciye, tusya puna rayaka uṭavala karetu, yo paṃca seniyade aṣi siyaṃti eda aṃṇa rajadhaṃa kareṃti, taha suṭha na laṃcaḡa karetu, mahi maharayaṣa anatiyade aṃṇatha karetu, yahi eda kilamudra atra eṣati praṭha yo atra aṭhove jaṃna siyaṃti teṣa Kuunḡeyaṣa paride (uṭa) uṭi picavidavo, uṭavale kartavo ede Kuunḡe Oḡanaṣa ca piṃḡa klaseṃna dhaṃa kartavo 'These (people) Kuunḡe and Oḡana are klaseṃcis for four armies (divisions of the army), but you are making them keepers of the royal camels. They are performing another state duty which on the top of their army-(work) (seniyade aṣi: aṣi = ajhi which occurs below tade ajhi. It = adhi, cf. aṣimatra) makes five (jobs). In this you are certainly not acting rightly, you are acting differently from the command of me, the great king. When this wedge and seal shall come there, such people as are available there, the camels must be handed over from Kuunḡe to them, and they must be made keepers of camels, (while) these people Kuunḡe and Oḡana perform their fundamental klaseṃna-duty.' It is clear from this passage that the duties of the klaseṃci were sufficiently near those of the uṭavala for them to be confused by the authorities. In 10 a man complains that he is klaseṃci at Peta aṭana and is being made an arivaḡu ('uide', see s.v.).

Ķema : § 83.

KH

khakhorna : An attempt is made in B.S.O.S. VII, 780 to show that this word should be read khakhorda and is = Av. kax^varda 'wizard', Arm.L.W. kaxard 'magician', Skt. kākhorda, kharkoṭa, etc., meaning the same. khakhorna stri would then mean 'a witch', a meaning which fits the passages well.

khaja : § 41.

khamje : § 60.

khatva : § 107.

khadarnnarthi : § 55.

khamnavataḡeṣi : Cf. s.v. vaṭaḡa.

khara : = (1) 'ass' 598, 628; (2) a surname or title, e.g. kha^o Kuṇḡeyaṣa 456. Connected with ekhara (?).

kharaḡi : 292. Perhaps means 'asses'.

kharaṡarna : 318. Some object.

khi : Measure of capacity: 20 khi = 1 milima. Since milima has been shown to be = Gk. μέδιμνος, khi is probably = χοῦς. As regards the change from ū to ī Konow says (Saka Studies, p. 20) that in Saka a dental or guttural fricative effects the change ū > ī (ttīma 'seed' = tauxma* through tūxma*, although here the x comes last).

khula : = kula 'herd (of camels, etc.)'. On kh- for k- in Prakrit, cf. Pischel, § 206. But the change does not occur elsewhere in this word. Both Pali and Prakrit have kula.

khuvānemci : Cf. kuhani.

kheni : = khani 'a pit'.

khema : Has hitherto been taken as = Skt. kṣema. But kṣ becomes čh not kh in this dialect. khoriṭaḡa 'shaven' is an exception. But this word in the compounds svastičhema and yogačhema exhibits the regular form.

Further, it suits the sense of the passages better to take it as a place-name. In 214 yava khemaṡmi means obviously 'as far as Khema', because we are dealing with the stages of the journey of an ambassador to Khotan, and the provisions to be made for them. Khema appears from this document to have been a town between Caḡota and Khotan. In 506 and 709 we hear of slaves fleeing to Khema. Apart from this khema only occurs in the stock phrase yahi Khema Khotamnade vartamana hačhati imṡihu ami mahi maharayaṣa padamulaṡmi viṡṡadi lekha prahadavya 272, etc. 'When there is news (vartamana = pravṡiti) from Khema and Khotan you must send a letter of information to the feet of me the great king'. For the construction Khema Khotamnade compare Caḡota Calmadanade, etc. and § 125.

- Khotan̄na : = Khotan. Kh no doubt stands for x to judge from Saka Hvatāna, N.Pers. xutanī, etc.
khoriṭaḡa : § 48. (= kšor-) khōṣa : Name of a man. Probably a Khotanese. B.S.O.S. VII, 516.
khvani : Cf. kuhani.
Khvarnarse : n.pr. B.S.O.S. VII, 515 and 789.

- gachamana : § 101.
gachiṣyāti : § 99.
gaṃṇavara : 'treasurer', § 45, and B.S.O.S. VII, 509.
gaṃḍa piṭaka : § 111. = 'boils and eruptions'.
gatosmi : § 106.
gademi : § 105.
gaṃḍavo : § 46.
ganusaḡa : A surname applied to Šakha, who was a Khotani (335). kanusaka, which is obviously the same, appears alone in 30 Khotani Kanasaku.
gamuṃ : = gamana, § 13.
gamiyana : Cf. Pali gamika = gamiya 'courier'.
gameṣati : § 50.
gameṣīsa : § 99.
garahati : § 10.
garbheni : § 3.
galṣiti : 162. Lüders (B.S.O.S. VIII, 641) suggests plausibly that it is a mistake for saṃgalṣiti 'having collected', with lṣ (i.e. ly) for l according to § 31.
giḡa : §§ 28, 107.
giḡya : § 41.
giṃṭa : or giṭa; 225 aṃṇa giḡa giṃṭa khi 1, something measured in khis.
Girakaṣa : § 15.
gilanaḡa : § 10.
guṭa : = gūḍha, § 18.
gumoca : 534. Some object.
guṣura : Title. It is among the highest titles like kāla and ogu. With the latter it seems to have rather close connections, because a number of people appear with both titles (see s.v. ogu). Their functions were judicial (216, 295, etc.). There were guṣuras in Khotan as well as in Shan-Shan (413).
 Prof. Thomas (Festschrift. . . H. Jacobi, p. 51 and Acta Or. XIV, p. 66) proposes to equate guṣura with the title kujula, kuyula, kosoulo, which occurs on the coins of the Kušan kings.
 Leaving aside this problem for a moment I propose to equate guṣura with N.Pers. vaxšr, Av. vičira. The N.Pers. is reborrowed from Ar. (Horn, Neupersische Etymologie, s.v.), the correct N.Pers. form would be oxšr*. The change from vi- to ox- which is characteristic of N.Pers. was also at work among the Iranians who appeared in North India in the first century A.D.

Gudap̄hara = Vindafarnā. Further, c is regularly changed to ś in this dialect (§ 17), so that the form we would expect corresponding to vax̄ir if borrowed into a North-West Prakrit would be guśira, and the assimilation of the vowels produced the form we have, guśura.

If this is true kujula of the Kušana inscriptions, if connected with this word, will have to be a corruption of guśura in the mouths of non-Iranians of some kind.

In support of this hypothesis it may be further pointed out that guśura cannot belong to the native language of Kroraina on account of the initial g (§ 14), and if kujula were the original form it is incredible that a people possessing no voiced stops would substitute guśura for it. gauśura appears as an official title in a Sanskrit document from Kuci (Lüders, 'Zur Geschichte u. Geographie Ostturkestans', S.P.A.W. 1922).

goni: S. gonī 'sack', 214 goniyaṇmi.

goma: = godhūma 'wheat'; gohomi 83 represents an intermediate stage. In 72 (*ja*²) huma (²*ga*-) read gohuma probably. Cf. § 27 and § 28.

gośato: 157. Read certainly go vito (cf. s.v. vito).

gramiye: § 60.

grahito: § 53.

grihasta: § 5.

GH

ghrida: § 5.

Ṇ

ṇgaca: Read Tḡaca as in the notes. A variant is Tagaca, cf. § 13 and § 47.

caura: 'four', § 19.

caṃkura: An official title. Peta avāna is put in charge of a caṃkura, 16. They appear from time to time as judges along with ogus, cojhbos, tasucas, cuvālayinas (318, 506, 583, etc.). Caṃkura Kapḡeya has kilmecis (see s.v.) under him. Other administrative duties are entrusted to them (64, camels, 532). Prof. Thomas compares cañ-khyir, cañkhyur of the Tibetan documents (J.R.A.S. (1927), pp. 75 n., 79; (1933), p. 550; (1934), pp. 97, 252). He has further shown that its meaning in Tibetan is 'protector' (Acta Or. XIII, 73), and proposes to equate it with the Skt. nagara-rakṣaka, i.e. guardian of the city or chief of police. The Tibetan word is presumably borrowed from some Central Asian language.

cakhorade: 320 ogu je ya ša ni ro cakhorade. Read ogu Jeyata ni rocakhorade, but the expression is quite obscure.

caḡali: § 75.

caṃṇātrena: = jaṃṇātrena, § 14.

Caḡota: It is noteworthy that there are surprisingly few native names containing cerebrals, so that the language was probably devoid of them. Caḡota is definitely exceptional. J.R.A.S. (1935), p. 669.

Caḡotiye: § 60.

Caḡodemci: § 77.

Cataroyaeṣa: § 69.

catuvarṣaḡa: § 139.

cāṃdrikamaṇṭa: 372. cāṃdrik° 714. According to Prof. Thomas 'moonlight-workings' = 'jade' (Acta Or. XII, 46), only in that case we ought to have had -kaṃaṇṭa, § 36. In 714 the word should perhaps be read cāṃdrikamaṇṭana, because the na which is printed separately seems inappropriate. It is not clear whether we are dealing with a compound expression or with two separate words (caṃdri and kamaṇṭa) which happen to be mentioned together. caṃdri might be connected with Skt. cāndrakam 'ginger'. kamaṇṭa has been compared with N.P. kamand 'noose' which is uncertain as long as its meaning is unsettled, and also with kamuṇṭa (see s.v.). A further connection with Saka kāṇmadi is suggested by H. W. Bailey, Z.D.M.G. 1936, p. 576.

capariša: = '46', §§ 43, 47.

camari: 585: camari vavala 1. Probably a mistake for camari vala, i.e. the tail of the camara or chowrie.

carapuruṣa: 'Spy' or 'intelligence agent' as in Sanskrit.

caru: Surname or title applied to Kutḡeya (103), Mutreya (277), Lustu (327), Jimoya (385), Pratḡa (576).

Calmadana Caḡodade: § 135.

cavala: = 'quickly', § 90.

caṣaḡa: = Skt. caṣaka- 'cup', used of a small measure of capacity, less than a khi.

ciṭughl: Cf. jiṭughl and § 14.

cita: = citta; cita kartarya 'attention is to be paid'.

ciṃd: = cint-, § 46. It is used in the sense of 'reckoning' or 'assessing' the amount of tax, e.g. 468 yahi purvika adehi Yave avanammi kilneciyaṇa paride saṇvatsari palḡi aṇṇa nadha piṇḡa milima 10. 4. 1. ciṃditaḡa 'Formerly from there at Yave avāna the yearly tax from the kilmecis (see s.v.) was assessed altogether at 15 milima of corn'.

ciṭiṣati: 667. Perhaps = cintiṣyati. On the omission of anuvāra see § 47.

citranae: 703. Read ciṇanae = jivanae 'to live', which makes good sense. The akṣaras tra and ṣ are quite easily confused.

C'in : Slt C'ina = 'Chinese'.

- Cinaphāra: B.S.O.S. VII, 515. Probably cina = Chinese and Iranian phāra = farnā, just as Cinaṣena is formed with the Indian -sena.
- cina veḍa: 353. Pali veṭha, veṭhana according to Prof. Rapson and cina = 'Chinese'.
- cinika: § 32.
- cimnita-da: §§ 24, 45.
- cimara: = civara (Prof. Rapson), cf. § 50.
- ciraṃṭa: 587. Epithet of bhuma 'land'. cirāyita (?) (i.e. land that has grown poor by being used for a long time). Quite doubtful.
- cilaṃḍhina: 'common, shared': 21 yatha eḍaṣa Lpīpamēna ṣadha uṣa cilaṃḍhina hoati 'That of him there is a camel owned in common with L.'; 256 (they have divided property...) sudha Patraya cilaṃḍhina hoda 'Only Patraya was (remained) common property'. On the suffix -ina, cf. § 77.
- Civamitra: § 14.
- ciśa: § 11.
- cuḍaso: 206. Obscure.
- cudiyadi: §§ 1, 2.
- cumpita: 585: ṣastrena cumpita taravacena cumpita. Apparently means something like 'cut, chopped'. Dhātu P. cumb- 'to hurt' (?).
- curoma: (croṃa, ciroma). Some kind of agricultural commodity, sent as tax (palṣi). From 264 curoma paṣu 2 'curoma sheep 2' it would seem to be something that is got from sheep or goats (cheese?).
- culaḡe: § 53.
- culo: 304. Apparently a surname.
- cuṣalayina: An official title. cuṣalayinas act as judges (582, 709, 732). In 135 cuṣalayina Pñurnageva goes on an embassy to Khotan. His name has a definitely foreign appearance (possibly Iranian, see s.v.). Judging by the position they occupy in lists of titled people, the cuṣalayinas were inferior in rank to ogus, guṣuras and camkuras, possibly superior to cājhbos (cf. 582, 584, 709, 732).
- Only a few cuṣalayinas are mentioned, namely: Malbhuta, Onuḡi, Pñurnageva, Purniavarṃta and Tiraphāra. In certain cases cu° seems to be a proper name, cf. 278, 573, 702.
- Coka: Surname of Pḡita, 103.
- cokto: Surname of Somcḡeya and Arkamṭḡa (558).
- cokho: (cokam). Surname of Suḡita (72).
- coḥṣa: (coḥḡaḡa). = Skt. cokṣa, Ardḥ.M. cokkha 'clean'.
- cājhbo: The commonest of all the local titles. About forty people are referred to with the title cājhbo. Judging from the position he regularly occupied in lists the cājhbo was inferior in rank to ogu, guṣura, kāla and camkura (478, 709, 732, etc.). On the other hand cājhbo Somjaka was certainly governor of the province of which Caḡota was the capital (272 ekisya eṭaṣa raja picavidemi), so that he at least must have been superior in power to all the ogus, etc. residing there. But again the large number of cājhbos mentioned, much larger than that of ogu or gušura or camkura, shows that they cannot as a rule have held such high positions as Somjaka.

Their functions were both judicial and administrative (tax-collecting, etc.). Also national defence in the case of Somjaka (cf. especially 272). How closely they were connected with the army it is impossible to say, because most of the documents are dealing with civil life. In 713 cojhbo Tagira reports a victory over an unspecified enemy, where it looks as if he had been commanding. In 478 apparently gušura, spetha, cuvalayina and cojhbo are all said to be military men: Iša chunammi khvaniyade seniye ayitamti gušura Kušanasena, caruveta spetha Vidhura, cuvalayinna Puṇḍa-vamta, cojhbo Nantipala Palaḡeayaśa ca.

The bulk of the wedge tablets (kilamudra) and leather documents (anadi-lekha) from the court are addressed to *cojhbo*s, so that while their rank was not so high as ogu, etc., they certainly played the most active part in the administration of the kingdom.

Since the native language of Kroraina had no voiced stops the group jhb (= sb) indicates that the title must have come from outside.

cojhbo is no doubt identical with the caśba mentioned in the Maralbashi documents edited by Konow ('Ein neuer Saka-Dialekt', S.B.P.A.W. (1935), pp. 772 ff.). Dr W. Henning points out in a communication that it is derived from Av. čaxdahvānt- (Nom. Sing. čaxdahvā) which is translated by Pehl. vičārtār.

coṭaḡa: 'clothing', § 18. = coḷaḡa.

coḷina: 489. Obscure.

cotaṃ: = cotaṃna, § 13.

codeyati: § 100.

cori: § 60.

coritaḡa prace: § 112.

corko: 641. Surname of Suḡita.

chataḡa: 505. = chadaka- or chādaka- 'clothing'. Cf. B.S.O.S. VII, 783 and Lüders, Textilien im Alten Turkistan, p. 34.

chaṃni: 231: chaṃni syati. Not a future of course, because it would be sy not sy.

charṃpita: § 14.

chirṃnati: § 45.

chotaḡa: 161. = (?).

choreti: chorayati, which occurs in Buddhist Sanskrit, = 'throw away, abandon': 134 ma imci edeśa ajhia dhamēna raja dhamā choretu 'Do not abandon the law of the kingdom for a law (emanating) from the mouths of these people'. It may perhaps sometimes mean 'to send' (265); jhorita seems to be a variant, cf. § 15.

choretu: § 93.

āhītra : § 1.

āhīraṣa : 415, 434. Both times in the technical sense of kuṭhaāhīra (see s.v.).

āhuna : = 'time, date', occurring in the formula īśa āhunammi, which comes after the year, month and day of the king's reign.

= Saka kṣuna with the same meaning. It is also borrowed into Kuchean as kṣuṇ. In the Maralbashi Saka it appears as χṣana.

āhema : § 48. Cf. s.v. khema.

jaṃṇātriyena : Cf. § 76.

jaṃḍunaṃca : 565 'worms'. Cf. Lüders, 'Zur Geschichte des ostasiatischen Tierkreises' (S.P.A.W. (1933), pp. 15-19). He prints a text from Šorcuq in debased Sanskrit, where jantuna is used parallel to ahi in the animal cycle. For the plural, cf. § 62. This renders it unnecessary to assume that sarpa or bhujaga has been omitted.

janamta : § 101.

janati : § 96.

jaṃṇīyae : 506. tanuwaḡa goṭhadare paṃca jaṃṇīyae śadha sata (= śapta) 'Collection of five people' (?).

jaṃṇma : § 44.

jamata : § 72.

jayamta- : §§ 6, 101.

jalpita : § 40.

jāna : = dhyāna, § 41.

Jiṭugha : A title of the kings of Shan-Shan, which appears first in the seventeenth year of the reign of Aṃgoka. Its meaning and origin are unknown but it must certainly be foreign, because the native language possessed no j (§ 14), with the result that the title often appears as ciṭugha, and almost certainly no ṭ either.

jīnīda : § 15.

Jīmoya : § 15. = Cimoya.

jīvamtaḡa : § 101.

jīvamtiyae : § 69.

jīvamto : § 53.

Jīvadeyu : = Jivadeva, cf. Upateyu and § 13.

Jīvaśamṇma : § 36.

jīvo : § 53.

jūṭhi : (cuṭhiye, jhuṭhi). An obscure term connected with sowing and agriculture. It is not an adjective because it is placed after bhiṣa 'seed' in 703: bhiṣa jūṭhi. The form cuṭhiye 422 looks like a plural (cf. § 60). It cannot belong to the native language (§ 14, and cf. under ṭitwaha).

Jeṭuḡha: = Jiṭuḡha, § 3.

jeṭha: = jyeṣṭha, §§ 41, 49.

Jepriya: = Jayapriya, cf. § 6.

Jeyanaṃta: = Jayānanda.

jeṃaṃta: § 6.

Jiryas̄yaṣa (?): Read as in the note Jeyaśa or Jayaśa. It is obviously the same ogu Jayaśa who is mentioned elsewhere.

JH

= jh or z. Cf. Khar. Inscr. III, 303. They are distinguished in the originals but not in the transliteration.

Jhaḡimoya: B.S.O.S. VII, 789.

jheniḡa: = 'under the care of'; Saka ysīniya, Sogd. zynyh. Konow, Acta Or. x, 80. The i must have been long to judge from the Saka, i.e. zeniḡa*. Compare also N.Pers. zīn-hār 'protection' and zindān 'prison'.

jheniya: § 16.

Ñ

ñatiyo: § 53. Perhaps to be read ñati yo, e.g. 437. . . putro va praputro va ñati yo amñā kilmeci 'Son or grandson (or) relation (or) any other kilmeci'.

ñadārtha: § 139.

ñadārthemī: § 108.

Ṭ

ṭera: = sthavira.

DH

= (1) ḍha, (2) an akṣara of quite uncertain value. Cf. Khar. Inscr. p. 305 and plate XIV.

ḍhipu: 722. Some part of a bow (dhanu) or something connected with it.

ḍhyačhiyaṣa: 685. = dryačhiyaṣa, which occurs in the following document, i.e. tryakṣi 'three-eyed'. Some god (?), Śiva (?). Also which of the two forms of ḍha (see above) is it?

ta-: Demonstr. pron. § 80 (declension and syntax).

taḡaḍo: Surname of Suḡita 137.

taḡastehi: Uncertain, since it only occurs twice, 12, 43. In taḡastehi varidavo 12 it might be either instrumental or ablative plural, 'They are to be kept away from taḡastas or by taḡastas'. Or is it possibly an adverb?

taṃcaṃ: 117 sarva piṇḍaiṃ taṃ caṃ gavi. Read perhaps sarva piṇḍaintaṃcaṃ gavi, i.e. itaṃca* (§ 82) (piṇḍāyita = 'collected together'). Or perhaps sarva piṇḍa iṇtaṃca gavi (cf. § 82 for itaṃca).

tačhaṇṇa: § 72.

taṇḍa: § 14.

taḍitaḡena: (and taḍitaḡade), § 112.

tati: 570 uṭi tati varṣi 'A female camel so many years old'. Cf. § 87.

tatiyeml: 58. Adverb derived from tati (above). Cf. § 91.

tade: § 12.

tanu, tanuṇaḡa: § 86.

tanutri: Read no doubt tanuṇi as suggested in the notes, i.e. fem. of tanuṇaḡa (§ 74). tr and ṇ are easily confused, cf. jaṇṇiatrena and jaṇṇaṇa; also citranāe (above) = civānae.

tapadaya: = 'thereupon, straightaway'. Etymology obscure.

Tamaspa: Iranian name = Taxmāspa*, B.S.O.S. VII, 515. On the sp, cf. § 49.

taṇena: Title or surname of Suḡita (118, 384) and Kuleya (174).

taravacena: Some instrument for cutting or chopping, 585. (It is used parallel with ṣastrena.)

tarvardha (?): 479. Obscure.

tavanaḡa: See thavaṇṇaḡa.

tāvastaga: = 'carpet' (Prof. Thomas comparing Gk. τάπης, a loan-word from Persian, and N.Pers. tāftan, tābam). From the same base is thavaṇṇaḡa (see s.v.). Arm.L.W. tapast and tapastak 'mat', N.Pers. tabastah = 'fringed carpet'.

taṣavita: = daṣavita, § 14.

tasuca: An official title. Nothing very definite is to be learned about their functions. Prof. Thomas (Acta Or. XIII, 78) suggests that it means interpreter, but does not quote any evidence from the documents. To judge by their position in official lists the tasuca were not amongst the highest titles (ogu, gusura, kāla) but on a lower level with cojhbo, ṣasu, ṣoṭhaṇḡa, e.g. 709, 588, 422.

In 580 sačhi divira Apḡeya, sačhi sotira tasuca Catata, sačhi kāla Karaṇṭaḡa putra Kaṇṇiya, Catata has a double title sotira tasuca. Is sotira the Greek σωτήρ used as an honorific title and is tasuca an equivalent of that?

timitavya: Only in the phrase prahuḍarthava na timitavya. The meaning is clear from comparing a variant of the same phrase: 320 prahuḍarthaya na manyu kartavya, i.e. 'You must not be angry or worried, upset about a present'. (It was customary always to send a present with a letter, and this phrase is used when an excuse is given for not doing so.) dimidavo also occurs, and it is difficult (cf. §§ 14, 15) to be sure which is the correct form. *timi*² occurs oftenest, which is in its favour. Possibly connected with tāmyati, although the phonetics are difficult. We may have a special treatment of original tīmmyeti*. Has N.Pers. tīmār 'sorrow' anything to do with it?

Tiraphāra: Iranian name. B.S.O.S. VII, 515. The deity Tīra appears on the Kušan coins (Stein, Ind. Ant. (1888), p. 95) as TEIPO.

tirša: (and tirsa, torša 39 is apparently a mistake). Epithet of horse or mare. It is only used in the existing documents about those horses or mares which are given as a payment when children are adopted (see s.v. kuphāchira). The meaning is obscure but it is interesting to note that the form tirša is always masculine (used with aṣpa) while tirsa is feminine (used with vaḍavi 39. 771), thus giving a glimpse of the morphology of the native language.

tu (tu): § 53.

tuḡuḡa: Title of Cimola (306, 360), Sudarśana (374). In 187 read probably tuḡuḡa for vuḡaḡa (as in the notes).

tumbhičña: §§ 37, 47.

tumahu: §§ 27, 79.

te: = tasmīn, § 80.

teyaṃgadhi: 271 (or teyaṃgami). Read perhaps te yaṃgami nidavya.

torṃga: An official. He comes among the list of officials who are qualified as ajhade 'noble' or 'free' (436). His functions were closely connected with those of the cojhbo. The cojhbo Yitaka and the torṃga Vukto repeatedly have letters addressed to them in common (11, 23, 28, 37, 42). These functions seem to have been most closely connected with camels and horses, and the conveying of things from one part of the kingdom to another (see, for instance, 387, 622). No. 96 consists of a list of torṃgas and a statement of the number of people belonging to each of them. These are perhaps the vaṭhayaḡa (= upasthāyaka), who are referred to in 387, 622, i.e. the staff of subordinates employed by the torṃgas. From that document it appears that torṃgas were pretty numerous. Perhaps it was a military rank, 'captain'.

Prof. Thomas, Acta Or. XIII, 53; J.R.A.S. (1934), p. 255, suggests a connection with stom-gyan and ston-dpon of the Tibetan documents. The latter seems, however, to have been a much more - important official (J.R.A.S. (1934), pp. 96-7). Possibly = an Iranian tuwānaka*-.

torni: = twayā according to Prof. Thomas, Acta Or. XIII, 52. The form can be explained as to = tava and mi, which is frequently appended to pronominal forms (§ 91). On the genitive as agent see § 119. It seems to mean tasmin at 123.
torpmihi: 165 torpmihi śadha iśa viśajidavo 'Is to be sent here along with the torpmis (?)'; if torpmi here is instrumental plural, it is the only one of its kind. We expect -iyehi (§ 70). Also a noun torpmi appears nowhere else. No doubt it is written for tomi, for which see s.v.
toṣu: § 53.
trakhma: §§ 14, 44.
traghade: §§ 14, 47.
Traṣa Avānarpmi: See s.v. avāna. tričha: § 50. Perhaps = tirikṣa* dissimilated out of titikṣā (cf. diličha): 565 nāga nāḥatrami tričha, sarva karya sahidavya 'In the nāga-nakṣatra forbearance: everything is to be endured'.
triti: §§ 5, 89.
trina: § 89.
triśa: §§ 47, 89.
trubhičha: § 39.
truṣṣa: 581 truṣṣa kalaṣmi 'in a time of drought'. Cf. B.S.O.S. VII, 511 (= dur and huṣka). Alternatively we might read vuṣṣa. The akṣaras tra and va are very much alike, cf. s.v. citranāe, tanutri aṣṣiṭavēna and Khar. Inscr. Plate XIV. The h- might easily be omitted leaving uṣka, § 28. On ṣk becoming ṣg, cf. § 49. On initial vu- (vu-) out of u-, § 30.
truso: 631. Title or surname of Kuṇaṣena. trepe: Surname of Jivamitra (5 times).
tvaca: 702. In a list of spices. Skt. tvac and tvaca = 'cinnamon' and 'cassia-bark'.
tsamṣ(h)ina: or tsamṣghinava (for the -va as a suffix cf. karsenava). A particular class of official engaged in providing corn to the state, usually mentioned side by side with the koyimaṃḍhina. Possibly tsamṣ(h)ina is an epithet describing a particular class of grain collected as tax, and tsamṣ(h)inava the official connected with it, in which case koyimaṃḍhina would have to have both senses, e.g. 164 yo puna adehi rajade tsamṣghina kvemaṃḍhina palṣi dhamā iśa mama pruchaṃti, either 'What arrangement about tax from that kingdom (province) the ts.s and ks ask me' or 'What arrangement about tsamṣghina and koyimaṃḍhina tax they ask'. The first seems most probable.

TH

- thamavarṇte: § 60.
tharitavo: § 14.
thavarṇaṣa: (thavarṇmae, thavarṇna-mae, also tavanaga). = Saka

- thauna* 'cloth' (B.S.O.S. VII, 512). Cf. also for the form N.Pers. tafnah 'web'.
thavitaḡa: 416: tha^a 1. Participial form from the same base as thavaṃṇaḡa (?).
thaviti: § 112.
thiyamti: § 96.
thiyanae: § 103.
thubada: 378: thu ba da u na. Obscure.

D

- dajavita*: Cf. daśavita. Only we would have expected dajavita.
Dajapala: n.pr. = Dhvajapāla; cf. daśa in Saka (loan-word) = dhvaja.
dajha: § 22. dajhaṃca, § 62.
daṃḡa praptam ca: Possibly plural in -amca, § 62.
dadavo: (and dadavya), §§ 9, 116.
daditva: § 102.
danagrahana: (dvandva), § 135; danagrana, § 28.
darśaveti: § 20. = 'show'. Used when somebody tries to prove that some property belongs to him: 734 yo atra oḡu Bhimasenaḡa tanu kilmeciyaṇa bhumaḡhetra Rutraya Paṇcama ḡa ca tanu darśaveti 'The land that there belongs to oḡu Bh.'s own kilmecis. R. and P. are attempting to prove it is their own property'.
darḡ-: 'to pack', = Av. darəz. B.S.O.S. VII, 510.
daśarpmi: § 89.
daśavita: Occurs associated with lists of names beside which are placed amounts of grain, etc. which they have either paid or received. Construed with the name of the official in charge of the transaction, e.g. 627 daśavita Caneya ima 10. 2. It is not quite clear whether the people receive or give the things mentioned, since the object of daśavita is always the people mentioned in the list. On the first alternative we might regard daśavita as a denominative from daśa '10', i.e. 'He collected the tithe from'. Or secondly, if the meaning is to 'distribute' (i.e. wages in the form of corn, animals, etc. to people employed in the royal service), it may be causative from $\sqrt{dāś}$, Skt. dāśayati 'give, grant, bestow'. For the latter alternative speaks the fact that people with official titles (apsu, vasu, tomgha, etc.) are frequently mentioned in the lists. On the other hand, lists of names are frequently headed by śadade (an administrative unit, see s.v.), where the ablative would seem to imply that something was taken from śada. Alternatively the word might be taken as a title parallel to śadavida (O. Stein, B.S.O.S. VIII, 770).
daśutara: § 89.
dasya: § 15 (and daha, dahi, etc.).
dasyāti: § 99.
dahita: = dugdha (passage explained under kaḡara).
dāsyatu: = dāsyasi, § 93.

- diṭhi: Measure of length. Skt. diṣṭi. There is no need to compare directly Av. diṣṭay- (see Khar. Inscr. Index Verb.).
- dita: May be either dita* or ditta*. The first would correspond with Indo-Eur. dotó-, Skt. -dita (in compounds). Torwali dit 'gave', preserving the t speaks for original ditta*; dita would give dī in Torwali. Cf. further, B.S.O.S. VIII, 431, where it is shown that the form dhitu in 661 must represent dittam*.
- ditae: (and ditaḡa), §§ 8, 16, 53.
- Dirpara: Native corruption of the Iranian name Tiraphara. On elision of vowels, § 13. The d- is curious but of no significance for pronunciation in this language, cf. §§ 14, 15.
- diličā: § 50.
- divira: 'scribe, writer'. Iranian loan-word. M.Pers. diptir, N.Pers. dabir. The Iranian forms show a long ī, so that we may have divira*. On the other hand, the word is borrowed into Sanskrit with a short i, divira.
- dláita: 295. Read probably yaśita as in note 6 (i.e. yācita, which goes well with the ablative goṭhade).
- du: § 89 (dui, due).
- dutaḡa: 722. = dutaka- 'burnt' (not dūta).
- dutiyaē: § 67.
- dura: § 90.
- durbhale: § 53.
- durlāpa: § 14.
- dṛṭṭhati: 3rd plural, dṛṭṭhati = dṛṭṭhamti 'they saw'.
- denati: § 96.
- denuḡa: Title, 418. Cf. B.S.O.S. VII, 5. Possibly from Av. daēnā 'religion'.
- deyarnae: § 103.
- deyāṁti: § 100.
- devaputra: A title introduced into India by the Kuṣān kings, and by them adopted from the Chinese 'son of heaven'. That it is used by the kings of Kroraina indicates some connection between the two dynasties.
- draṅga: Cf. B.S.O.S. VII, 510. The question is put there as to whether the meaning is not 'office, department' in general rather than 'Frontier-watch station' as Stein suggested, or even 'toll-house', and this seems to be rendered quite clear by 520 Suḡiya garāhati yaitha eša ṣoṭhamga, avi rajammi divira eša puna ṣpaṣavaṇmi dhamā Salveyena ṣadha saṇma kareti Salve aṇiṇa draṅga na dhareti. . . pruchidavo eša dui draṅga dhareti, puna ṣpaṣavaṇmi dhamā kareti 'Suḡiya complains that he is ṣoṭhamga, also scribe in the royal administration, and that again he is performing the duty of ṣpaṣavaṇna along with Salve. Salve does not hold any other offices. . . you must ask whether he (Suḡi) holds two offices and on top of that is performing the duty of ṣpaṣavaṇna'. It is quite clear that the office of divira, etc. is here referred to as a draṅga. Similarly draṅgadhare (tr°, etc.) means people employed in the government administration. Cf., for instance, 554 sarva tramghadhare goṣṭha bhaṭāra jaṇna tramajña bramajña vuruṇa sa ca. List of the different classes of subjects: Officials—householders—tramajñas and brahmanas—vuruṇas (= ?).

It must be the same word as draṅga of the Rājatarāṅgiṇī, but the development of meaning is not quite clear. The same word appears as udraṅga in Kuṭṭanīmatam 936. For the etymology, cf. (rather than drang-, B.S.O.S. VII, 510) Av. braxta 'zusammenge-drängt', N.Pers. taraṅjīdan 'to be compressed', turang 'a prison'. This suits well if the original meaning was 'a fortified place'. The initial dr- would be the Saka development of θr-. If we take udraṅga as the original form we might explain the word out of Skt., i.e. ud + raṅga 'an elevated structure'.

driju: 661. = triṃśat (?). The passage is not clear. Read probably aṃghi tadriju and cf. Konow, Acta Or. XIV (1936), 238.

driṃpura: § 50.

dvadaśa: § 43.

dvarapāmi: § 43.

dvi: §§ 43, 89.

DH

dhamnuena: § 72.

dhane: A small weight, 702. It cannot be dhānya, because that would give dhaña*. It is no doubt a loan-word along with trakhma. N.Pers. dāng 'fourth part of a dram' (Steingass, Pers. Engl. Dict.). The earlier forms, quoted by Horn (Neupersische Etymologie, s.v. dāng), are: ḍavakī (O.Pers. Heracleides in Et. Magn.), Arabian loan-word dānaq, Pehl. dāng as in N.Pers. Originally therefore dānaka-*. For -e in the Kharoṣṭhi corresponding to -aka, cf. ajhade = āzādaka*, N.Pers. āzādah, and saste = sastaka-* 'day'.

Dhameca: § 15.

dhamā: § 36. Note the idiomatic sense of 'employment in the royal administration', e.g. 567 eṣa Suṣṭiya ṣoṭhaṃga dhamāde nikhali-davya 'This S. is to be removed from the post of ṣoṭhaṃga'; 10 arivaḡa dhamēna, etc.

dharapnaga: = dhāraṇaka 'owing (a debt)'.

dharmaṣa: § 36.

dhalavaḡu: 661. Perhaps means 'document': maya dhalavaḡu Bahudhivā likhidu Khvarnarsasya ajiṣanayi 'By me Bahudhiva this document was written at the request of Khvarnarse'.

dhitu: Declension of, § 68.

dheṣati: § 99.

N

na iṃci: § 126.

nagara: § 16.

naga: § 64.

načira: B.S.O.S. VII, 513. 'hunting' = N.Pers. naxčir, Pehl. naxčir, T.Phl. naxčir, Arm.L.W. naxčir-k, Sogd. n'yčyr = naxčir*.

nadi: 368. Fragmentary. Probably (a)nadi.

nadha : = Skt. naddha-. Used as a substantive = 'parcel', e.g. 59 sā aṇṇa teṣa jaṇṇaṣa tana tanu nadha iṣa amidavo 'That corn of those people is to be brought here in separate parcels for each of them'; 291 tre tre milima nadha kartavo 'The parcels are to be made each of 3 milima'. Much the same as darṣa.

namakero : § 53.

namatae : (and namataḡa), § 53. = N.Pers. namad 'felt: a garment of coarse cloth' (Steingass), Pahl. namat 'rug' (Tavadia, Śāyast-nē-Śāyast, Index, s.v.), Anglo-Indian numdah (Stein, Ruins of Ancient Khotan, I, 367).

Borrowed probably from Iranian, also Pali namataka, and nantaka = namtaka* = some kind of coarse garment.

namaṇṇiya : (also namaṇaḡa). Only in the phrase namaṇṇiya deyaṇṇae 'to exchange' (?). Four methods of disposing of property are mentioned in deeds of sale (cf. 571, 580, 581, 587, etc.): (1) 'sell' (vikriṇanae), (2) 'give as a present' (prahūḍa deyaṇṇae), (3) 'mortgage' (baṇḍho(vā) ihavaṇṇae), (4) 'exchange' (?) (namaṇṇiya deyaṇṇae). Both forms must be derived from a word namana. This may be < an Iranian nimāna (for na < nī, cf. namata < nimata), cf. Arm.L.W. nman 'instar', 'similis', N.Pers. namūnah 'similar, like', 'pattern', etc. The meaning 'exchange', i.e. give something for something like it, might easily develop from this.

Namarajhma : Iranian name (nāma 'fame' as first member of names, Justi, Iranisches Namenbuch, p. 220, and razma, ib. p. 507).

namena : § 72.

Narasaka : 500 n.pr. Iranian, adopted from Narsēs (M.Pers. nerseh) with the suffix -ka (?).

naṣati : § 41.

nasti : § 95.

ni : § 17. = nija 'own': used as a suffix in place of the genitive after proper names, e.g. 593 Šarsena ni putra Balasena; 437 Kaṇḡeya ni kilmeči Kompala; 582 Yipiya ni bhuma praceya 'Concerning Y.'s land'.

Often a word like putra or dajha is omitted without it being possible to tell the exact relationship of the people, e.g. 129 Kuṇḡeya ni Lamḡa, 210 Jeyaka ni Tanjakasa, etc. In 318 Samgila ni Kacanoṣa coridaḡa 'A theft by Kacano of Samgila' it appears from the document that Kacano was slave of Samgila.

Compare the similar use of hīvī 'own' in Saka, just to strengthen a genitive, without any particular force of its own; cf. B.S.O.S. VII, 790.

nikaliṣyati : § 24.

nikasati : (and nikhasati). = niṣ + kas 'go' (cf. a-kas, ukas) 'depart, go away'. Sanskrit only causative niṣkāśayati 'to expel': 436 Masḡhiḡe taṣa prace savatha sata, tade coḡha nikasta 'M. swore on oath concerning him, then went away cleared'. 'To come out' of witnesses: 326 avi tatra bahu Caḡotiye vrdhe nikastanti 'And there, many old men of Caḡota came forth as witnesses'. 'To be expended, used up' of corn, etc.: 140 yo tade aṇṇade nikhastaḡa amñeṣa ditaya 'So much of that corn as has been expended, given to others'. The prevalence of the form without the aspirate (nikas- more frequently than nikhas-) is noticeable compared with nikhal-, where it is usually preserved; cf. § 24.

nikraṃta : = niṣkrāntā; absence of aspiration as in nikas.

nikrona : 146. Epithet of uṭa 'camel'. Perhaps krona (see s.v.).

nikhaleti : = S. niṣkālayati 'expel, remove, eject, take out, bring out': 69 na naḡarade jaṃṇa nikhaliḡaro 'The people is not to be removed from the city'. With ṇa to 'lend' on, 'have out' on loan: 495 Moḡhapriyaṣa vaṃṭi suṽarna ṇa nikhaleti 'He lends or has on loan gold with Moḡhapriya'. (More likely than 'recovers a debt', because then we would expect the preposition pariḡe 'from' rather than vaṃṭi 'with'.) Without ṇa: 160 vaṃ kalu Sarpiḡa iṣa asitaḡa uhaṭi bhuma ṣe nikhaleti, uḡaḡa bhīṣa Saciṃeiyē nikhaleṃṭi katma kriṣiratra kareṃṭi 'When S. was living here, he used to let the land, the people of Saca lent, (provided) water and seed and katmas (= ?) did the cultivation'.

nikhalyati : § 94.

nigata : An adverb twice used with verbs of going somewhere: 83 yaṃ kala tuo nigata rayadraramṃi ukasidavo añḡaṭi 'When you are going to travel away to the king's court'; 119 iṣa śruyati Supiye Calma-taneṣu ima caturtha masaṃṃi nigata aḡañṭavayu 'Here it is heard, the Supiyas are going to come to Calmadana on the fourth month of this year'. 'Down to', adverbial use of nigatam 'gone down'.

nigraha : 'punishment'.

ničiri : 677. Epithet of harga 'tax'. Prof. Thomas takes it as an adjective from načira (B.S.O.S. VIII, 792).

ničhatra : = nakṣatra. ni^o also appears in Toch. loan-word nikṣāṃtrā. The first part was taken as the prefix ni-.

nitya : Never nica*, § 41.

niyati : § 94.

niravaśiṣo : § 1.

niryoḡa : 'relaxation', § 42.

nivasaga : 'neighbour'.

nivarakaya : 320. Read probably as in note 4 nirāvakāṣa.

nisaḡa : Epithet of aṇṇa 'corn', which is paid to people in the king's service. The meaning seems to be something like the corn required for their current subsistence.

nisaṃḡana : 8. nisaṃḡa aṇṇa is intended. The aṇṇ perhaps indicates ā (Khar. Inscr. III, 300).

nihañ : § 27. = nikhan, also nihañanae. The -ñ- perhaps due to native phonetic tendencies mentioned in § 32.

nuava : Apparently short for mahanuava = mahānuhāva (royal title). Less likely an independent (non-Indian) title.

nokṣari : The month of the new year. Arm. navasurd. Konow, Acta Or. II, 121; cf. also B.S.O.S. VII, 512.

noñi: Epithet of uṣa 'camel'.

novati: § 89.

P

paḥe: = 'package, parcel' (of rations, allowance paid to state employees), = Tibetan pha-tsa in documents from the same region. See Prof. Thomas, Acta Or. XIII, 54 ff. Compare perhaps Kuchean pāke 'portion'.

paḥeyu: § 62.

paṃcara: (and paṃcarayina aṃṃa). Perhaps = 'fodder' and 'grain for feeding': 146 aṃṃa mṛga uṣa paṃcaraina aṃṃa huda milima 4 khi 10 'Also for a mṛga-camel the corn for fodder (?) was m. 4, kh. 10'. But the sense cannot be established with certainty. It might be something more definite, such as the food to be consumed on a journey, etc.

paceya: 79. = (?).

pačadara: Comparative of pača 'later'.

pačevara: = 'food, provisions', as is clear especially from 505 Tsuḡenaṃma satu milima 2 khi 10 4 1 maka khi 4 1, kavati 1; pačevara piṇḍa milima 3 chataḡa 1, tena Tsuḡenaṃma giḡa 'Tsuḡenaṃma-meal, 2 milima, 15 khi, maka khi 5; one tunic: the sum of provisions 3 milima, clothing—1 (article), that Tsuḡenaṃma received'. Here clearly pačevara is the general term 'food' in opposition to the particular kinds of food enumerated, just as chataḡa (= chādaka) 'clothing' is in opposition to the particular garment mentioned. Cf. also 19 coḡaḡa pačevara parikraya dadavo 'Clothing, food, wages must be given'.

Etymology uncertain, but a connection may be suggested with the Sogd. pš''βr 'food, provisions'. Original paḥya^o = 'food for a journey', cf. Skt. pāṭhaya-.

pacharṃḡayina: 65. Read paṃcarayina probably.

paḡeka: 349. Read probably paḡeka, which is the regular form in this dialect corresponding to pratyeka.

paṭa: = paṭṭa 'roll of silk'. The word is discussed at length by Lüders, Textilien, p. 24 ff.

paṭaṃca: § 62.

paṭanaḡa: 223, 383. Read probably paḡuvaḡa (see s.v.).

paṭami: 437. Probably locative of paṭa in the sense of 'tablet'.

paṭayaḡa: Read Patrayaḡa, which is the same name. Since the akṣaras ṭa and tra are very much alike, cases like this are obviously a question of confusion of writing, not of a phonetic ṭ = tra (cf. § 36). Similarly paḡaya.

paṭi: 437 eṣa paṭi. = Skt. paṭṭikā in the sense of 'tablet' (ikhā = i, §§ 74, 75).

paḡiḡa: 140. = paḡeḡa (pratyeka).

paḡicimṭati: § 109.

paḡuvaḡa: Skt. pratibhū- and the suffix -aka 'security, surety', §§ 28, 41: 446 Katīyasa paḡe, Cama Sumati paḡuvaḡa 'Kati's

- parcel. Cama Sumati is security'; 703 śarira huḍiyama osuḡa avajidavo ciṛanae, ko jivitasya paḍuvaḡa amaraṇnae 'Care is to be taken in the maintenance of your body to live, (and) as far as there is a security for life, not to die'. Read paḍuvaḡa in 546 for patruvaḡa and in 223, 762 for paṭanaḡa. In 223 hasta paḍuvaḡa the hasta is reminiscent of Iranian idiom. Cf. forms like N.Pers. dast yār.
- paḍoḡa: § 41.
- patama: Adverb. = 'back', § 91. Cf. Torwali pat out of patta*:- 64 imade aṇtaḡi uṭa 4 Samarsade patama nikhalidavo, Samarsade uṭa 4 daduvo, Śunade patama nikhalidavo, Śunade uṭa 4 dadavo, Piṣaliyade patama nikhalidavo '4 aṇtaḡi camels from here are to be turned back from Samarsa, from Samarsa 4 camels are to be given; they are to be turned back from Snuna and 4 (fresh) camels are to be provided from Snuna; these are to be sent back from Piṣali'; 1 eka gari patamu oḍitaṇti, eka khayituṇti 'They let one cow go back, one they ate'.
- patena: § 91.
- pateyo: § 66.
- paṇṭhaci: § 77.
- patsa poṇa: 303. = (?).
- padebhyam: § 66.
- payati: Cf. bhija payati.
- payita: 703 bhuma payita. Causative from pī 'drink'. 'The ground has been watered.'
- paraṇṇulammi: 586. No doubt the same as is written parabulade (415). Obscure, but not a place-name because it is used immediately after Caḍota in 586 iṣa Caḍota paraṇṇulammi. Prof. Thomas thinks it is the Gk. παρεμβόλη 'camp'.
- paraṣa: In the phrases (1) paraṣa bhav:- 165 yati... paṇṭhanṇmi paraṣa bhaviṣyati, tuo ṣoṭhaṇḡa Lpīpeya tanu goṭhade vyoṣiṣaṣi 'If it disappears (is plundered) on the route, you, ṣoṭhaṇḡa Lpīpeya, shall pay from your own farm'; (2) paraṣa kar:- 324 se kuḍaḡa Lpimiṇṇaṣa goṭhade Khotaniye paraṣa kritaṇti 'The Khotanese carried off (kidnapped) that boy from Lpimiṇṇa's farm'.
- From paraṣa there further occurs a denominative verb paraṣita, paraṣitaṇti 'plundered': 324 Supiya Calmadanaṇṇmi aḡataṇti, raja paraṣitaṇti, maṇṇuṣa ruṇa paraṣa kiḷaṇti 'The Supis came to Calmadana, plundered the kingdom and carried off the inhabitants'. Perhaps Iranian purā + āza.
- pariḷhinavitaṇti: § 104.
- paride: § 92.
- pariniyaṇti: § 94.
- paribuḷiṣatu: 2nd Sing. (§ 93) Fut. of pari-budhya-te 'understand'.
- paribhuchanae: §§ 2, 26.
- parimargiṣya: § 99.
- pariyaṭitaṇti: 130 (text pari iṭitaṇti). Read perhaps pariyaṭitaṇti 'they exchanged'.

- pariyanamti: 373. = (?).
- parivaṭṭa: § 37. Skt. parivartayati 'exchange'.
- parivanae: 214. = The stock of provisions carried by a horse. Skt. paribhāṇḍaka §§ 20, 45; or paribandhaka*- (?).
- parisamīśati: 130. = (?).
- pariharṣa: Obscure. Only in the phrase pariharṣa ajhati 216 = paridharṣa 'assault' (?).
- parihaṣa: (and verb parihaṣati). Skt. paribhāṣā and paribhāṣate (= 'revile, abuse'). The meaning is obviously something like 'complains'. It is construed with vaṃti and the genitive: 212 ede vaḍaṇi praceya eḍaṣa vaṃti parihaṣamti 'Concerning these mares he makes complaint against him' (or perhaps more specifically as in Skt. 'abuses').
- paru: Perhaps paraḥi (rather than param) with -u for -aḥ as in itu, yatu, § 12.
- paruvārṣa: = parudvārṣa- 'last year'.
- paropīṭṭsamānā: §§ 28, 48.
- parospāra: §§ 49, 88.
- Parvata: 'The Mountain'. Name of a mountainous district near Caḍota, presumably the hills to the south. Whence Parvatiye 'the people of the mountains'.
- palāga varṇa: 660. Some object. It appears in a list of kinds of cloth or cloth articles.
- palayanaḡa: 'fugitive'.
- palayaṃne: § 53.
- palayiti: § 102.
- paliyarnaḡa: 318. = (?).
- palpi: 'tax'. = Skt. bali, modified by the phonetic system of the native language of Shan-Shan. Cf. § 31, and J.R.A.S. (1935), p. 675. Lüders (B.S.O.S. VIII, 647) has come to the same conclusion.
- pavanaḡa: 234. = pravaṃṇaḡa (?).
- paśaṃnae: 721 (and paśidavo 159). Probably from paśyati, although in Sanskrit it is not used outside the present tense.
- paśu: Declension of, § 71.
- paśḡha: 345. = (?).
- paśaṃnamno: or paśaṃnamta. Something made of cloth (ihavaṃnamae), 534.
- paśaṃnakara: 627. p° Suḡita 'A maker of paśaṃnas (= ?)'. Alternatively the reading may be paśaṃna or pachana.
- pāganātsa: 320 eta puna pāganātsa lihitavya. = (?).
- pādayo: § 66.
- pādemī: 320. = (?).
- piṃḡa: 416 p° 4 = Skt. piṃḡa (?) (something yellow-coloured); piṃḡha 264.
- picara: = pratyarha according to Prof. Thomas, Acta Or. XII, 66, and B.S.O.S. VIII, 792. 288 lekha prahuḡa preṣisama yo tehi picara syati 'We will send a letter and present which will be worthy of you'; 107, etc. picaradiyavarśatayupramanaśa 'Whose span of life is a hundred divine years worthy of him'.

There are considerable phonetic difficulties in the way of this etymology. prati- in this dialect is represented by paṭi- or prati- but never by pai-. Nor is there any reason why the a of the first syllable should be changed to i. picavaṇṇue may be a parallel (see below, s.v.).

picav-: (picavaṇṇue, picarita). The same difficulties are against identifying it with pratyarp- as in the case of picara-, pratyarha. Further, ṛp would probably be preserved in this dialect (§ 36) and even if assimilated pp would not become v.

The meaning, too, does not correspond exactly. Skt. pratyarp- always means 'give back, restore' not simply 'hand over to', which is arpayati.

picavaṇṇue means 'to hand over to, entrust': 16 maya mahurayenna Pita-arāna caṃkura Arjunasa picarida 'By me the great king, Peta a'āna, has been put in charge of caṃkura Arjuna'; 439 ahuno rayuka gari picavetu 'Now you are putting the royal cows into his hands'.

If picav- is really = pratyarp- its irregularity may be due to its being a loan-word from another dialect. Likewise picara. Alternatively it might be referred to an original pi-cyārayati* 'to cause to go to, send, hand over'.

piḍita- = piḍita-. Used as an adverb, § 90, 'expressly'.

piḍhiyāva: 532: Ya'e a'ānaṃmi kilmeciya Tusmekā nama madu dhamēna ya'e a'ānaṃmi nikastaḡa, se Caḡotaṃmi piḍhiyāva huati, sa Caḡodade palayida atra kaṃaveṃti, Ya'e a'ānaṃci piḍhiyāva Ya'e a'ānaṃmi kaṃavidaraya. From the general sense of the passage, it seems that piḍhiyāva must have something to do with pitṛ 'father'. 'A (man) called Vusmekā who is kilmeci in Ya'e a'āna has gone out to Ya'e a'āna by mother right (because his mother was native there). On his father's side he is of Caḡota. He fled from Caḡota (and) they have him working there (i.e. in Ya'e a'āna). People who belong to Ya'e a'āna on their father's side are to be made to work in Ya'e a'āna.' Then instructions are given for him to be sent back. It appears that labourers or serfs were more or less tied to the soil and not allowed to migrate from place to place. The actual form, piḍhiyāva, is quite obscure.

pita(-u): § 72 (declension).

pitupitamaga: = pitṛpaitāmaha with the suffix -ga substituted for -ha, and loss of vṛddhi as commonly.

Pitoe: § 69.

pidarana: 648. = (?).

piro: (and pirova, piravala 'keeper of the piro'). Probably = 'bridge', since it is something closely connected with roads which can be seized to prevent people passing: 639 yam kula imade unati lekha atra eṣati paṇṭha varidavya piro ṣayidavya siyati tam kalammi varidavya, avi piro ṣayidavya 'When there comes a letter from here (saying that) the road is to be stopped and the bridge to be seized, then it is to be stopped and the bridge is to be seized'; 120 pirova ṣarva jaṇṇa kamākare aitaṇṭi. . . praṇaṇṇa bahu kha. . . ṣa utaḡa 'All the workmen went to the bridge. . . the water was very disturbed (reading kha(lu)ṣa = kaluṣa)'. The passage has not been fully read, but the sense is clear. The work on the bridge had caused the water in some drinking place (praṇaṇṇa) to become impure. Further corroboration can be drawn from 310, where it is feared some men will escape from the country—praṭha ede maṇṇuṣa anada parimargidavya, piroṣa Cima Kaṣikaṣa ca picavidavya 'Forthwith these men are to be carefully sought for, the bridge is to be put in charge of Cima and Kaṣika' (if this is a proper name)—and 333, where we hear of fugitives from Khotan getting on to the bridge. In 122 a large cow is destroyed on the Parcona bridge (i.e. by falling over): Parcona pirovaṇṇi go mahaṇṭa 1 naṭha.

As to the etymology it may be connected with N.Pers. pul, Pahl. puhl, Av. poratu and pōku. The original form would be prōwaka, giving pirhwaka*, piroḡa*, piroṣa and piro. For the final ḡ disappearing compare aganduvā and § 16. For va, o, cf. ṣvaṭhaṇṇa and ṣoṭhaṇṇa, etc., § 7.

piṇaṇṇaṇṇae: § 20. = pi-bandhanāya* 'to bind on'.

piṇarāe: piṇaraka- 'fat'. In 198 read ko piṇaraḡa for kopi varaḡa.

Piṣalpiyaṇṇi: § 31.

Puḡohaṣa: § 28.

puṇḡebha: Read putḡetsa, § 47. Epithet of uṭa 'camel'. For the suffix -tsa, cf. aṇklatsa. Exact meaning uncertain.

puṇḡama: 534. Some object.

puṇḡa: § 41.

puṇḡārthi: § 55.

putradhīdarehi: § 62.

Puṇṇiyade: § 14. Cf. Buṇṇi.

punu: §§ 12, 91.

purāṭha: § 92. = purastāt 'in the presence of'.

purāṭhida: = purāṭha (purāṭsthita-).

purata: = purataḡ. Same meaning as purāṭha.

puradu: 661. = purataḡ in the dialect of Khotan.

purta: 78. The variant reading pursa is to be preferred (cf. s.v.).

pursa: Epithet of uṭa 74, paṣu 157. The n.pr. Pursavara will mean a person who rides on a pursa (horse or camel). Perhaps a castrated animal from pursa (purta) biṇṇita (bhind-) 78, though of course biṇṇita may just as well refer to some other operation, such as making a hole in the nose or ear, etc.

pursaka: 383. = pursa.

Pulaya: Surname of Sunaṇṭa (8), Suḡiya (384), Kuuta (613).

puṣḡa: 383. = (?).

Puṣṣāriyade: § 49.

puṣpa: § 49.

Pusmavika: n.pr. 472. = Bujhimoyika, cf. § 14.

peḍa: 207. Skt. peṭa, petaku 'basket', Pali peṭa, Buddh. S. peḍā 'id.'

Peta avamṇa: See avuna.

peta varṇnidaḡa: 318. = (?).

petri: 399. = patrika.

potḡa: 225. The same as potḡoñe(na). Perhaps the latter part of the word has been accidentally omitted.

potḡe: (poñḡe). Connected with water (347, 397). 397 is fragmentary, but the subject seems to be that soldiers had been going into a potḡe for water. In 347 a potḡe is said to be without water, and a letter is sent about the affair of the potḡe (potḡeṭi karayani praveya): 120 viḡa-potḡe (viḡa may be a proper name). With regard to this potḡe water is said to have become turbid because workmen went to mend a bridge (cf. s.v. piro). No. 701 is a list of people sent to keep guard over a potḡe (potḡe raḡhamna janna). The meaning 'tank, reservoir' seems most suitable.

potḡoña: 207. Usually potḡoñena; always used in conjunction with masu, e.g. 637 masu prahuḡa presidariya khi 3 potḡoñena. Apparently some particular form of wine: distinguished from ṣamiyena (cf. s.v.). The suffix, as Lüders (B.S.O.S. VIII, 641 n.) remarks, would seem to be connected with Saka -auñu and Toch. -oñe. [Read in 207 potḡoñena instead of potḡaña 1.]

potage: § 60.

pothi: 17 (caña pothi), 534. Compare N.Pers. pōst 'skin' (?).

pośarsa: § 14. Same as Bośarsa.

posara: 382. Some object.

praḡaṭa: § 5. praḡaṭa nikhalitaṇṭi 17 'They fetched out into the open'.

pracukamaṇ: 392 pracukamaṇ naḡara. = (?).

prace: 'concerning', §§ 6, 92. Borrowed into Saka as pracai, Skt. pratyaya-.

praṭha: § 91. 'forthwith', from pra and 1 sthā.

pratu: § 12.

prathade: 152 prathade eda lekha atra prahidemi 'from a journey, from on a journey'. Skt. pru-sthā-.

pramuha: § 27.

pravamṇaḡa: = prapannaka 'deed, document'. The rectangular double tablets are headed viyo pravamṇaḡa.

praśura: = pracura, § 17.

praṣavita: (and prasavitaṇṭu). - 'granted, allowed', and as a noun, 'a grant'. It differs from the ordinary word for 'present', prahuḡa, by being used chiefly of royal grants to individuals, especially of fugitives (pulayamṇaḡa). The idea is relinquishing one's claim to something and letting somebody else have it: 403 iṣa Jeyakaṇa palayaṃnaḡa praṣavitaḡa asi 'Here a fugitive was given as a special grant to Jeyaka', cf. 161, 355. Also of corn: 637 aṃna Yitayaṣa milima 1 kala praṣavida 'Another (thing), the kala made Yitaya a grant of 1 mi'; of a farm: 375 suveṭṭha Cinaṣena ni goṭṭha maya maharayena eḡaṣa Dmusvaṃtaṣa praṣavita dita 'The farm of the suveṭṭha was given as a special grant by me the great king to Dmusvaṃta'; 504 prasavidavo = 'They are to have a grant made them' (ahuno ede prasavidavo, the subject of the (passive) verb being the people to whom the grant is made, instead of (as usually) the thing granted).

Skt. pra + $\sqrt{su}$ = 'to allow, give up, to deliver'.

prasta: 721. Skt. prastha (a measure).

prastami: 225. Locative of prasta = Skt. prastha-, in the sense of elevated land.

prahatavo: = pradhātavya 'to be sent' from prahita 'sent', § 116.

prahita: 'sent' might be either prahita from prahinoti or prahita from pradadhāti. The gerundive prahatavo points to the latter, the meaning to the former. The two verbs have probably become confused.

prahuḡa: §§ 5, 27.

prahuḡartha: § 55.

prahuni: 318. = Saka prahona 'garment' (?). B.S.O.S. VII, 514.

It might also be read prahoni, cf. § 4.

prigha: 316, 318. Lüders (Textilien, p. 30) identifies it with prīga of the Mahāvvyutpatti, which means a kind of silk material.

pricha: § 5.

pritiyena: §§ 67, 70.

priyaśpasuae: § 50.

prihitosmi: § 28.

pruch -: § 5.

preṣi: S. preṣya- 'servant'.

preṣeyati: § 97.

preṣeyiṣyasi: § 99.

PH

phaḡitaḡa: 760. = (?).

phalitaḡa: 214. Some kind of horse's food.

phalophala: 524. Cf. Pali phalāphala 'all kinds of fruit'.

PH

Pñuṃṡeva: Probably an Iranian name. The latter half of the word seems to be = O.Iran. zaiba-, N.Pers. zēb (cf. Aurangzebe) 'beautiful, or beautifying'. The first half is not clear.

Pñuvasena: Not a native name on account of the initial pñ.

badaṣa: § 43.

badho: (also baṃdhava, baṃdh(o)va and baṃthova). In 331 na ba vo thavidavo is miswritten for this. It occurs always in a list of

- phrases stating the various ways of disposing of property, e.g. 591 śvarya huda vikrinanae badho thavaṇṇae, namani deyaṇṇae, aṇṇeṣa prahuḍa deyaṇṇae. In distinction to the other phrases the verb used is thavaṇṇae 'to place' not deyaṇṇae 'to give'. The meaning may be 'pledge, mortgage' like the Skt. bandhakaṃ dā- (Kullūka on Manu 8. 143, explaining ādha by bhūmigodhanādau bhogārthaṃ bandhake dāte). The form is difficult to explain. From the various spellings it might seem that bandhova is the best form, and this would correspond to Skt. bāndharaka-. But against this Skt. bandhu- and its derivatives never had any meaning except that of 'relation, kinsmen'. If we take baddho as the original form = baddha- the meaning would be all right, but a final -o corresponding to the nominative or accusative is irregular. However, there are examples, § 53. In that case the ṃ may have been inserted from other derivatives of bandh-. As for the alternation of final -o and -oma, compare piro, pirova.
- baṇṇanae: § 45.
- Baladeyu: = Baladeva, cf. Upateyu, Jirateyu.
- bahī: § 91.
- bahiyade: § 91.

- biṇṇaṇṇti: § 45.
- buo: § 91.
- Bujhimoyika: Iranian name. B.S.O.S. VII, 789.
- Butsena: § 13.
- Budhapāṇṇa: 655. Written thus for Budhavarāṇa (?).
- Buṇṇi: Place-name (?). Cf. Puṇṇiyade and § 14.
- bedhana: 288. Miswritten for vedana or vidhāna (Prof. Thomas) (?).
- boyaṇṇa: § 17.
- Bośarsa: Cf. Posarsa and § 14.
- bramaṇṇa: 554 śramaṇṇa braṇṇana. Perhaps taken as an indefinite phrase out of Buddhist literary usage, rather than indicating the presence of Brahmins in Central Asia.
- brahmacariṭa: §§ 36, 76.

BH

- bhāgena: = 'on behalf of, in place of', § 92. For the development of meaning compare N.Pers. zi-bahr-i 'on behalf of'. The idiom may be due to Iranian influence.
- bhaja: 566. = (?).
- bhaṭaraṇṇa: § 37.
- bhaṭarīae: § 68.
- bhaṭare: § 63.
- Bhatro: 157. Name of a deity.
- bhana: 149. = bhāṇḍa (?), cf. § 45.

bharya pate: § 135.

bhaviṣya: § 99.

bhīja payati: = Skt. bīja-paryāpti- 'capacity for seed'. Land is not measured by area but by the amount of seed it will take to cultivate it, e.g. 549 Samghabudhiyaṣa vaṃti buma vikrida bhīja payati milima 1 khi 10 'He sold to Samghabudhi land (of which) the capacity for seed was mi. 1 khi 10'. The treatment of ry is not usual (§§ 36-7) as compared with niryoga karya. But another example is aya 409, which certainly = ārya-.

bhīmṇita: § 47.

bhiyo: 579. = Skt. bhūyaḥ, Pali bhiyyo.

bhudva: § 102.

bhumāṇca: § 62.

maimci: § 126.

Mairi: § 28.

maḥa: A commodity appearing among a list of items sent as tax (palḥi) 714-15, and taken along with satu 'meal' as a man's provisions 505. One might think of a connection with Toch. malke 'milk', except that in 715 it seems to be sent a long distance (to the capital as tax). The value of the sign ḥ is uncertain.

maghalartaya: § 55.

Mañḡeya: § 13.

matavo: 278. The meaning required is 'should be measured'. Perhaps it is miswritten for matavo.

mata: = mṛta (?), § 5.

matu: Declension of, § 68.

marṇtsa: § 48.

madu pitusya: § 135.

madhya: § 41.

manasikaro: § 53.

maṇṇasiyaṇṇmi: § 72.

maṇṇuṣa: § 41. maṇṇuṣe, § 60.

mama: § 78.

maravara: B.S.O.S. VII, 510 and 785.

marganae: § 103.

maṣe: § 58.

masu: §§ 22, 50, 71. = 'wine', Lüders, 'Zur Geschichte des ostasiatischen Tierkreises', S.P.A.W. (1933), p. 3. For the treatment of dh, cf. aṣimatra = adhimatra. A similar change appears in Palestinian Gypsy (gesū = godhuma), though since it occurs in only one dialect it must have taken place after they left India and can have no direct connection with this. masu (i.e. muzu), § 22, itself might be an attempt to pronounce an Iranian maḍu, but that leaves aṣmatra unexplained. Cf. further under śuka masu.

masuvi: § 75.

masu ṣaḍa: 'vineyard'. = Skt. śāla 'enclosure, fence' (Lüders, loc. cit.).

masuṣya: 283. Read manuṣya.

mahatva: §§ 44, 72.

mahatveya: § 60.

mahanuava: § 28. Cf. nuva.

mahaṃta: § 72.

mahi: § 78.

mahuraḡa: 355. Something measured in khi. In Skt. mahuraḡa is given by the dictionaries as the root of a certain plant.

mahuli: Lüders (B.S.O.S. VIII, 640) denies that this Skt. mahilā. It may mean 'grandmother', because Ramotiae, who is said to be the mahuli of Sunaṃda (528), is mother of Suṅnuta (538) and a Suṅnuta is father of a Sunaṃda in the same series of documents (524). More likely however it = 'aunt' (< mātulī) with t, as very rarely, omitted and h as hiatus-filler (§ 28).

millma: = μέλιμας (Prof. Thomas). Cf. khi. 'There is a confusion between l and d (ð) in Sogdian (Gauthiot, Grammaire Sogdienne, vol. I, 12-13), but the evidence seems to be against Sogdian influence in these documents. Cf. also B.S.O.S. VII, 785.

miši: § 38, where it is explained as mišrya, but that is uncertain, cf. under akri. Prof. Thomas (Acta Or. XII, 38), quoting 582 (pura-nāga) mišiya bhuma huati, tade paru eša bhuma akri patida 'Formerly it was miši-land, after that it fell akri', regards miši as = 'cultivated' and akri as uncultivated. In that case one might suggest a connection with Saka ttumāšā 'seed-field' (as representing tauxmamiši*-).

mukeši: See under lote.

muḡeša: Can hardly be the same as mukeši because the sibilants are never confused, § 33. It is some legal expression, probably with the same meaning as aviṃdama (cf. s.v.): 591 ko... aṃṇatha icheyati karaṃnae muḡeša giḡamti šaṃda ašpa 1 prahara 20 20 10 'Whoever tries to make it different they have taken upon themselves a penalty (fine) of one šaṃda horse and 50 blows'.

muti lata: Skt. muktā latā: mukti for muktā in Suv. pr. S. IV, 84.

mull: § 9. = mulya. It is used to mean both 'price' in general and also a particular unit of value: (1) 422 niyida muli Kuṛ'ayoša paride uša aḡiltsa 1 'The price was taken from Kuṛ'aya, 1 untrained (?) camel'; (2) 345 taha sar'u piṃda gaṃnanena muli huda 1 Sa 'So the whole sum being reckoned comes to 100 muli'. The locative or instrumental of muli is used alongside the name of the object serving as payment to indicate how many muli it is worth, e.g. 437 Kompala Suḡiyaṣa ca du capariṣa muliyami viyala uṭa 1 paḍichitaṃti 'Kompala and Suḡiya received 1 wild camel worth 42 muli'. The following table, collected from the documents, illustrates the value of various articles in muli:

571	1 uṭa dūvarṣaḡa	= 50 muli
571	masu khi 10	= 10 muli
579	tavastaḡa hasta 13	= 12 muli
580	aṣṭa 1 catuvarṣaḡa	= 40 muli
589	uṭa 1 ekavarṣaḡa	= 40 muli
590	eka uṭa viyala	= 40 muli
590	uṭa amklatsa	= 30 muli

From 431 it appears that 13 hasta of tapestry (tavastaḡa) is worth one golden stater. The same is said in 579 to be worth 12 muli. So provisionally we may regard the muli as being equal in value to $\frac{1}{12}$ of the golden stater (suṭarna ṣadera).

muṣaya: An adverb used with 'give, sell, present', meaning 'without reservation', i.e. so that the previous owner has no further claims: 621 yo puna eḍaṣa Saḡamovi bharya putra dhidara yaṃ ca daṣi sarva eḍaṣa Saḡamovi muṣaya praṣavita 'Again what wife, sons and daughters and what slave-girl of him Saḡamovi (had) Saḡamovi presented all to him without reservation'; 39 uniti teṣemi muṣaya tamvṭi hotu 'The adopted girl belongs to them without reservation'. The etymology is obscure.

muṣka: = mūṣika, § 13.

muṣḡeṣu: § 49.

mṛḡa: § 5.

mṛda: § 5.

mṛdhena: 385 uparyaṃ mṛdhena pratiḡhami = 'I await with the greatest impatience (?)', i.e. aṃmṛdhena = a + Pali middha (Vedic mṛdh-, mṛdhra). But upari is not usually used to make a kind of superlative.

meta: Only 179 meta paḍichitaṃti 'They received meta'. Quite obscure.

Moṃḡeya: Read Motḡeya, § 47. Obviously the same as Motaḡe (§ 13).

yamña : § 44.

yafita : 376. Read yajita.

yatu : § 12.

yatma : An official connected with the collection and conveyance of taxes, especially of corn. His functions are to some extent connected with those of the ageta (cf. s.v.). In 305 the yatma has to pack parcels of corn (nadha). In 374 the yatma Aco, along with the tuḡuḡa Sudaršana, assesses the annual tax at Masina. yatma is construed with the genitive of aṃna 'corn', e.g. 349 eda aṃnaṣa aṃña pajeka (read paḍeka) yatmi kartaro 'Of this corn other yatmas are to be made severally'; 430 kvaṽana aṃnaṣa yatma 'yatma of the kvaṽana corn'. We also hear of them in connection with conducting camels, 23, 546.

racana : 225. = (?).

raja : § 41.

rajakaryani : § 61.

rajiye : § 60.

raṭhl : 574. Some part of the equipment of a vineyard raṭhi vṛṭha paṇni giṃmidavo, possibly an epithet of vṛṭha.

raḍi : or saḍi; 431-2. = (?).

ratu : B.S.O.S. VII, 514. = Av. ratu. Pahl. rat 'authority, judge', used of the elders in an order of the bhikṣus. If it is really the Iranian word it is noteworthy that the final -u is preserved at so late a date.

ratrlae : § 67.

Ramṣoṅka : Read Ramṣotsa and compare Ramaṣto, which is apparently a different form from the same base.

rayadvari : § 58.

rayana : See šamuḍa rayana.

- rasaṃna: 345 rasaṃna 2. If=Skt. raśanā it should have had the palatal ś: perhaps Iranian N.Pers. rasan 'rope', cf. B.S.O.S. VII, 786.
- rasvata: 80. rasoṃta 137, 211; rāsuvaṃta 209. Surname or title.
- rucate: §§ 2, 94.
- rutriyāṃna: 600. Epithet of vaḍavī 'mare' (?).
- rupya: Skt. rūpya 'silver'.
- rete: 690 rete uṭaṃ ca. Obscure.
- rotaṃna: (rotaṃ). Some commodity which had to be sent as tax, 295, 385, etc. ciroma, another commodity equally obscure, is often mentioned beside it, 272, 357, 430. In 272 caṃḍrikamaṃta is mentioned along with it.
- There is an Iranian raudana* which means 'madder' (N.Pers. rōyan, rōyang, North Balōči rōdin). It might possibly be that, but unless the meaning in the Kharoṣṭhi documents can be fixed, it naturally remains uncertain. Cf. B.S.O.S. VII, 787.

L

- lautgaṃci: 272 lautgaṃci jaṃna. Quite obscure. May or may not be a proper name.
- laḡeṣati: Only 166, which is fragmentary. Skt. lag- 'follow' (?).
- laṃgho: § 53.
- laṃcaḡa: Seems to mean 'rightly, properly, adequately'. Cf. 562 taha suṭha na laṃcaḡa karetu, mahi maharayaṣa anatiyade aṃṇatha karetu '(In behaving) thus, you certainly do not act rightly, you act differently from the command of me the great king', where the second clause more or less paraphrases the first (cf. 272, 399); 283 khajabhajena laṃcaḡa paripalitavya 'They are to be adequately looked after (nourished) with food'. (Very frequent in this phrase, cf. 358, 362, 475; parival- has the sense of N.Pers. parvaridan, i.e. 'nourish, feed up, fatten'.) When used in connection with paying taxes, etc. it means 'the full amount due': 622 avi ciromaṣa laṃce iṣa anidavo 'Also the amount of ciroma due is to be brought here' (laṃce here may be the noun from which laṃcaḡa is derived, or it may= laṃcaḡa by § 53); 586 loteya na laṃcaḡa tita 'He has not given an adequate ransom'.
- Prof. Thomas (Acta Or. XIII, 66) regards the word as derived from Skt. lañcā 'gift', and that it means as an adverb 'gratis', and sometimes just a gift. But the meaning does not seem so suitable in a survey of all the passages in which it occurs.
- laṭhanami: 392. Obscure, but probably not a proper name. Rather (like kabhoḍhami) some particular kind of land. A connection with Pers. dašt 'plain, desert' is suggested in B.S.O.S. VII, 786.
- laṭhaya: 298. Epithet of kriṣivatra 'cultivation', opposed to apyam-tara (= abhy). So apparently land lying outside a particular boundary round the village. Read laṭhani, taking it as an adjective from laṭhana (?).

- laṣī: i.e. laṣni*, § 44, means 'a gift', as is shown by 678 eṣvārya bhavayati. . . baṇḍhova thavaṇṇae vikrinanāe aṇṇeṣa laṣi deyaṇṇae. In this formula, which occurs frequently (cf. 582, 591, etc.), aṇṇeṣa prahuḍa deyaṇṇae is usually used in place of aṇṇeṣa laṣi d° here. Cf. N.Pers. dāšan 'gift', and for the change d > l B.S.(.)S. vii, 786.
- lasta: 358 na ba lastu bhaviṣyati. It may be one word balasta. In the Index Verb. ba is taken as = vā, but that does not occur elsewhere. In 331 (which is given) na ba vothavidavo there is certainly a miswriting, na baṇḍhova th° is intended. Anyway the meaning is obscure.
- lastana: 'quarrel, dispute'. = Saka lāstana, as Konow points out.
- lastuḡa: Some article of dress because it is made of cloth: 566 citra paṭa mae lastuḡa 'a l° made of many coloured cloth'. It is, frequently sent as a present. It was not of great value (184 lahu manasiḡura matra). Cf. B.S.(.)S. vii, 786.
- lahamṇti: § 27.
- laho: §§ 4, 27.
- liṽṣa: Only 109. Some object sent as a present.
- liṣṭa: Cf. leṣita and § 1.
- liḥati: § 27.
- leṅga: i.e. leṭga. Only 419. Epithet of bhuma 'land'; aṇṇa leṭga kuthala bhuma.
- levistarena: § 3.
- leṣpa: Some object sent as a present (140).
- leṣ-: Means something like 'to conduct': 376 edaṣa Sacade uṭa 2 valaḡaṇ ca dadavya, simaṇṇi leṣiṇṇti tade Caḡodade stora aṣhova valaḡaṇca dadavya 'To him from Saca 2 horses and a guard are to be given, they will conduct him as far as the boundary; then from Caḡota a horse fit for its work and a guard must be given'. Skt. śleṣayati 'bring near to, in contact with', § 49. (Cf. Prof. Thomas, Acta Or. xii, 51.)
- lote: In 585 lote is the ransom paid by a slave for his freedom: tanu pranaṣa lote tiṭa maṇṇuṣa Cimḡeya nama paṣavi 4. 2. 'He gave as a ransom for his own person a man called Cimḡeya and 6 sheep'. In all other passages lote is used in connection with wedding contracts. No. 32 illustrates what happened: yatha Opaṽe Peta-āvanemṇi Saḡapeyasa dhitu Ciṅga Opaṽe Peta-āṽana kilmeyamṇi anida taya lode ṣvasu Ciṅga Saḡapeyasa ichida deyaṇṇae eda ṣvasu aṇṇeṣa diṭa, na kiṇci Saḡapeyasa diṭa 'That Ciṅga took as his wife in the district of Opaṽa Peta āvanu the daughter of Saḡapeya (a native) of Opaṽe Peta āvana. As her lode Ciṅga was going to give his sister to Saḡapeya; this sister he gave to others: he gave nothing to Saḡapeya'. The lote is something given in exchange for a wife. Here Ciṅga gives his own sister in exchange. Usually it is not mentioned what the lote was. It may always have been a question of exchange of women, or there may have been payments for a wife in cattle, etc. (such are actually never mentioned). The custom of exchanging women is illustrated also by 279 Yāve avānaṇṇi kilmeci kala Acufiīyaśa śvasu Cakuṽaae nama Ajiyama avānaṇṇi kilmeci Pgenaśa bharya aniti huati. taya striyae Yāve avānaṇṇi (lo)te—śina nidaya, tatra taya putra dhidara jataṇṇi, Yāve avānaṇṇi kilmeciye Caṃcā Pgenaśa dhitu bharya anida tade avaśiṭhe sarvi Ajiyama avānaṇṇi tanuṽae hutāṇṇi, matuae bhaḡena Yāve avānaṇṇi Caṃcāśa bharya Sarpina huda 'Cakuṽaae sister of kala Acufiīya a native of Yāve avāna was taken to wife by Pgena of the kilme of Ajiyama avāna. Of that woman lote (and mukeṣi) were not taken to Yāve avāna. There (in Aj° a°) sons and daughters were born to her. Caṃcā kilmeci of Yāve avāna, took to wife the daughter of Pgena. All the rest (of Pgena's children by Cakuṽaae) have remained belonging to Ajiyama avāna. On behalf of her mother Sarpina is in Yāve avāna as wife of Caṃcā'. Here it is clear that no lote (and mukeṣi) having been given for Cakuṽaae, her daughter Sarpina, when grown up, is married by a man in Yāve avāna, and this serves instead of a lote. The interesting thing is that, as far as one can judge, the dealings are not between families but between avānas (parishes or townships). It was necessary that one woman having gone from Yāve avāna to Ajiyama avāna in marriage, another should come from Aj° to Ya° in exchange. Further information on the regulations prevailing between avānas is supplied by 481 Yapḡu viṃṇaveti yatha eḡaśa śvasu Suḡnumae nama Dhaṃapri Sumadataśa ca matu, na loti mukeṣi diti. . . pruchidavo yo Suḡnumae veḡa kilme dhaṃa hoati taha Suḡnumae putranāṇṇi eda palḡi Yāve Avānaṇṇi kartavo 'Yapḡu informs us that his sister called Suḡnumae is mother of Dhaṃapri and Sumadata; lote and mukeṣi has not been given. . . . You must enquire, and whatever Suḡnumae's veḡa kilme dhaṃa was, according to this, tax is to be provided by her sons in Yāve avāna'. It appears from 474 that Suḡnumae had been married by the monk Saṃgapala, who belonged to Catiśa deva avāna. The meaning of veḡa kilme (usually applied to stri) is unfortunately obscure, but it emerges from this document that until the lote (and mukeṣi) had been paid by the husband for her, or by his children on his behalf, they were under liability to pay the tax in the avāna from which the wife came, which was assessed on her head. lote usually occurs side by side with mukeṣi (474, 481, 585) without it being possible to distinguish exactly between the two terms. Occasionally they occur by themselves: lode 32, mukeṣi 338, 555. It may indicate different ways in which a substitute for a wife taken was made, e.g. if lote as suggested by 32 (see above) meant providing a wife for the people from among whom a wife was taken, mukeṣi might mean making some kind of payment. But this is uncertain. Another term which seems to have some connection with this custom is muṣḡhasi in 573 Aral- piyaṣa matu Ajiyama aṅanade aniti huati, taha matuae muṣḍhaṣi ta kuḍiya atra nidati 'Aralpi's mother was taken as wife from Ajiyama aṅana, and so they took that girl there as muṣḍhaṣi (something like 'as a return for') her mother'. It appears that the girl was adopted by Cateya and Cataraḡa (presumably of Ajiyama aṅana) as a kind of return because her mother came from there. All the same the usual payment for an adopted child was made for her.

Prof. Thomas (B.S.O.S. VI, 522 ff.) wants to regard the mukeṣi as some individual by whom lote was paid, but it necessitates forcing the grammar and syntax of certain passages, e.g. by regarding mukeṣina as instrumental of mukeṣi (instead of mukeṣi na), although the instrumental of nouns in -i is invariably -iyena, § 70.

lomaṭi: 17. = 'foxes'. Skt. lomaṭaka.

vaka: (at 574 vaḡa). = 'rent' paid for the use of land: 498 mahi atra bhumacḥetra na kasya ditaḡa kṛṣaṇnae, tasmartha ahuno iṣa Lṛipeyaṣa paṛide vaka giḍemi, taha bhumacḥetra eḍaḡa Lṛipeyaṣa kṛṣaṇnaye, tasya kṛṣidavo 'I have a field there, which has not been given to anyone to plough. Therefore I have here received rent from Lṛipeya, so (I have given) the field to this Lṛipeya to plough, it is to be ploughed by him'. Similarly in 496 the vaka paid by Lṛipeya for a piece of land is two khi of ghee. In 559, 574 vaka amna 'vaka corn' is that part of the produce which is paid to the owner of the land.

vakufha: = apakruṣṭha (?). If so it is irregular, § 37. It is the participle of vakoṣaṇti (see below).

vakoṣaṇti: Meaning and etymology uncertain. It occurs only rarely: 298 Caku Moḡi Aṣena ṣaca lastana kṛitaṇti, Caku vakoṣida goṭhi kaṇa karaṇnae Aṣena Moḡiya ṣaca rayadraraṇmi vakoṣaṇti gahaṇnae 'Caku, Moḡi and Aṣena made a law-suit. Caku was assigned the duty of doing the work at home while Aṣena and Moḡi take upon themselves the part of presenting the complaint at the king's court'. Such is obviously the general meaning of the sentence. Similarly 750 na cojhbo Lṛipeyaṣa vivataṇmi vakufha nevi garahida may mean something like 'He did not take part in Lṛipeya's law-suit and did not present a complaint'; 107 puna ṣṛiyati suḍe draṇghadare atra punar eva (tu le) ṣena vakoṣaṇti ayaḡa karyeṣu 'Further it is heard that the suḍe (= ?) officials are again interfering in the affairs of your worship ((tu le) ṣena = ?)'. vaghu: Only 383 uḡa vaghu. A kind of camel.

vacari: Some kind of vessel used for holding ghee (159), corn (266), meal (ṣatu 214), pomegranates (dhaḡima, taḡimu 617, 295). They were of various sizes. A tucari of 1 khi is mentioned (295) and one of 4 khi. There is no indication as to what they were made of, whether wood, earthenware, etc.

vacitu: § 102.

vačhāvala: 182. Another reading is ra°, which is perhaps to be preferred: eṣa rayaka uṭavala purva rayaka uṭavalana rajade račhāvala deyiṣyamti 'He is a keeper of the royal camels; formerly they would give to the royal camel-keepers a guard (or guards) from the realm (administration)', i.e. in case of attacks by bandits, etc.

vačhu: 630 vačhu jamna and 338 nave avaṣa vačhu prasavetu 'You are certainly sending new vačhus'. They were supplied by the uryaḡas. There is no clue to the nature of their functions.

vajo. (1) A mistake for vara: 419 bhiti vajo. bhiti vara 'a second time' regularly occurs in this phrase. (2) bhiṣa vajo appears in 580 and 587 as a substitute for the usual bhiṣa payati. An attempt to explain payati is made under bhiṣapayati. The etymology of vajo is quite obscure.

vajita: § 102.

vaṭaḡa: (1) 357. Written by mistake for vaṭayaḡa (see below) unless it is another form of the word = Pali upaṭṭhāka-. (2) khamnavata-geṣi = 'you are a procrastinator' from kṣanavartaka*- according to Prof. Thomas (Acta Or. XIII, 67). The treatment of the kṣ (usually = ḥ, § 48) is irregular.

vaṭayaḡa: (and vaṭhayaḡa). = Skt. upasthāyaka 'attendant'. The same form is borrowed into Khotanese vaṭhāyaa- (Konow, Saka Studies, Vocab.), e.g. 579 kori Ṣpalṭayaṣa vaṭayaḡa Śīrāsa sachi, 'Śīrāsa, servant of the kori Ṣpalṭaya is a witness'; 622 ede uṭehi tomḡha vaṭhayaḡana ṣadha tahi puraṭhita iṣa anidavo 'These camels are to be brought here along with the tomḡhas and their assistants, under your supervision'.

vaḍavi: 'mare', § 68.

vaḍaviyani: § 61.

varṇade: § 94.

varṇti: = upāṇte 'in the presence of, near, with'. Khotanese bendi.

Illustrations of its use are 546 ogu Bhimaṣenaṣa vaṇti garahiṣyama 'We will make a complaint before the ogu Bhimaṣena'; 579 tivira Raṃṣotsaṣa vaṇti bhuma vikrida 'He sold land to the scribe Raṃṣotsa'; 24 yatha eḍaṣa dajha Sarpiḡaṣa vaṇti Caule aṣpa ṛna nikhalati 'That Caule has a horse out on loan with his slave Sarpiḡa'. Cf. § 92.

valu: 140. Something sent as a present to a woman.

vaṇṇaṇṇte: 517. Surname or title of Balasena.

vayaṇṇ: § 78.

vara: For paḍe vara, see s.v. paḍevara.

- varaḡa: (1) 198 kopi varaḡa. Read ko pivaraḡa 'which(ever) is tat'.
(2) 667 udhisa varaḡa na oḡita. Obscure because the text is fragmentary.
- varaya: (1) 291. = 'part'; cf. B.S.O.S. vii, 787. (2) 371 eka varaya bhuya iṣa gameṣiṣama 'Once again we will examine them here' = vāra 'time' (and -ka > ya).
- varayaṃ: 206 ma iṃci varayaṃ bhaviṣyati, ma mahi toṣa kariṣyutu 'Don't blame me in case there is nothing to stop it' (taking it as = vāraḡa-, but the construction is exceedingly difficult and obscure).
- vartaḡe: = vartaḡaka. (Lokaprukāṣa, ed. Weber, p. 98, quoted by Prof. Rapson, Khar. Inscr. Index Verb.) 'There ought not to be an intervocalic ḡ. It becomes ḡ. The reading is doubtful. varuṃḡe is a possible alternative.
- vartamana: Is used as a substantive meaning 'what is happening, events, news' in the phrase e.g. 272 yahi Khema Khotamudc vartamana haḡḡati iṃthu ami mahi maharajasa padamulaṃmi viṃṇādi lekha prahadaṃya 'If there is any news from Khema and Khotan verily a letter of information should be sent to the feet of me the great king'. Cf. also 165 yo iṣa vartamana Lḡimsurajasa paride ṇadartha bhavidavo 'What the news is here, you must learn from Lḡimsu'.
- vartamano: § 53.
- vardhi: 565. = vrddhi- 'growth' with guyā taken from the verb vardha-.
- varmi: or sarmi; 163. Something to do with a camel, but the reading of the whole passage is uncertain.
- varṣaḡa: 311 hastavarṣaḡa, something sent as a present; 318 varṣaḡa 1, among a list of objects stolen; 243 hastavarṣe 3.
- varṣaḡana: 530 uḡa varṣaḡana ciṃtidavo; 'grana possibly to be read (i.e. varṣagra(ha)na, cf. danagrana). Possibly also varṣaḡana(na), the meaning in any case being 'The age of the camel is to be reckoned'.
- valaḡa: = pālaka-. The v- is due to compounds like paṣuvala, uḡaḡala, etc.
- valaḡḡidavo: 569 emu kaḡavo yatha uṃniya mamnuṣa valaḡḡidavo 'He is to be done to as an adopted person... (?)...'. Obscure. Read perhaps yatha uṃniya mamnuṣa va luḡḡidavo (= manuṣya iva) 'He is to be characterised as an adopted person'.
- vala matra: 573 Yimila laṣiya pruchama ṛala matra na kuṃci 'We do not ask of Yimila any gift, not even a hair (ṛala-)'.
vali = vali.
- vallyana: 725 avi kaṃṣiḡha valiṃana paḡṣiyasa anada ganana priḡha kartavo 'Also a careful inquiry into the accounts of the tax is to be made by the (kaṃṣiḡha vali)'. The first member seems to be a variant of gaṃṇa, kaṃṇa (= Ir. gaṃṇa), i.e. Ir. ganza- (?).
- vavala: 585 camari vavala 1. Probably dittography for camari vala 'chowrie'.

vaśiderni: 'I read', § 17.

vaṣe: 534 vaṣe 4, in a list of objects deposited.

vaṣḍhiḡa: Obscure. 622 eṣa masu parvataṇṇi giṇṇidavo vaṣḍhiḡa kartavo 'This wine must be taken to the mountain, and a vaṣḍhiḡa must be made'; 634 tuṃ masu milima 4 2 nikkhalidavo, Cgito Cakuṭala tahi ṣadha parvataṇṇi gaṇṭavo vaṣḍhiḡa karaṇṇae 'By you 6 milima of wine is to be brought out (provided) and Cgito Cakuṭala has to go with you to the mountain to make a vaṣḍhiḡa'; 637 kala Kirtaya iṣa agata Caḍotaṇṇi parvataṇṇi vaṣḍhiḡa kṛta 'kala Kirtaya came here to Caḍota and made a vaṣḍhiḡa on the mountain'. It may have been some kind of regular festival held on the mountain, at which wine was consumed.

vasaṇṇmi: In the phrase ima vaṣavaṣaṇṇmi = 'Rainy season'. Compare Saka vaṣavāyasa (B.S.O.S. VIII, 932).

vasu: An official title. The vasu is mentioned in close connection with the aḡeta in the formula (571, 715, etc.) ko paṭima kalaṇṇi vasu aḡeta rayadoṇaṇṇi codeyati vedeyati. . . 'Whoever at a later time shall find fault or bring the matter up either before the vasus and aḡetas (i.e. the local judicial authorities) or at the king's court. . .'. In 714 the vasus, aḡetas and yatmas are summoned to the king's court, on account of an inquiry into the conditions of taxation. Vasus were common; about twenty-five are mentioned.

vastarna: Is perhaps = upastaraṇa rather than avastaraṇa. It is doubtful if ava- could ever appear as va-. Either it remains as ava- or it is contracted into o-.

vastaraṇṇena: Only in the obscure phrase 431-2 eṣa masu ṣarva astaraṇa vastaraṇṇena vikrinidavo. It is also possible to read astaraṇṇena (432, note 1).

vastava: (and vastavya). = vāstavya 'residing in, an inhabitant of'.

vikraṇaṇṇae: § 103. = vikrinanae (which also occurs). Since it occurs a number of times (586-7, 590, 592) it must be a genuine form and not simply a mistake for vikrinanae.

vikrinita: 'sold', § 107.

vikriṣaṇṇtu: 'you will sell', § 93. For vikriṣatu*; on the insertion of anusvāra where it does not belong, cf. § 47.

viṭṭaḡena: § 112.

viṇṇavatu: § 93.

viṇṇavayaṇṇmi: § 104.

viṇṇaveti: (and other forms with v). § 29.

vito: An epithet connected with aṣpa 'horse' (209, 415, 574, 648), paṣu 'sheep' (609) and go 'cow' (157, so read instead of ṣato). It may be placed either before or after the noun with which it is used, e.g. 609 vito paṣu 1; 648 aṣpa 1 vito. The meaning is quite uncertain.

viṭṭha: (viṭṭhiyati, causative viṭṭhaviḍesi, etc., verbal noun viṭṭhana). = Skt. vi-ṣṭhā-. It is remarkable that the dental th always

- appears. It must have been reintroduced from the simple verb thiyati. The meaning is always active in the sense of 'keep away from, hold back from', not only in the causative vithav-, but also regularly in the simple verb vithi-, e.g. 165 ma imci tomgana paride uṭa viithiṣyatu 'Do not keep the camel back from the tomgas'. The assumption of an active sense on the part of this verb was probably associated with the change of the past participle passive to an active past tense (see § 105), so that vithita meaning 'stood aside, set aside, kept back' developed in a manner parallel to the ordinary transitive verb the meaning of 'he put aside, kept back'. Similarly the verbal noun vithana has the active sense of 'keeping back', 57 ma vithana kartavo 'There must be no keeping back, putting aside', with reference to the tax that is demanded in the letter.
- vidapana?: or vidapa 1; 318. Separation of words uncertain. Some object among a list of things stolen.
- vināṣiṣyaṃti: The sense of the passage seems to demand that it is = vināṣiṣyaṃti: 368 athava kala... atikramiṣaṃti, yo Sacanṃmi karyani vināṣiṣyaṃti sarva ahu maharaya tahi paride purimargiṣya 'On the other hand if they... overstep their time, whatever affairs in Saca are ruined, I the great king will seek everything from you'. Read probably vināṣiṣyaṃti with j for ś (§ 21). The akṣaras representing j and ś are not very different (Khar. Inscr. Plate XIV).
- vinila: 292 avi bhija dadavya yena kṣivadra vi ni la vistirna kariṣyati. No doubt a mistake for vipula, compare 216 vistirna vipula ciptidavo. That is obviously what the sense demands: 'And also seed is to be given so that they can make full and extensive cultivation'.
- vibhaṣita-: = vibhāṣita-* for vibhākta (which also occurs), § 17. The alternative reading vibhayita is probably to be preferred because j seems always to have become y (while c becomes ś, j (ṣ)). The meaning is 'made a legal decision'.
- viyala: = vyāla-. Epithet of uṭa 'camel' meaning 'wild, bad to manage'. Lüders (B.S.O.S. VIII, 647 ff.) wants to separate it from this and regards it as a native word. But the group vy is unfamiliar in the native language.
- viyalitavo: (viyalidavo, vyalidavo). Always in the formula addressing letters, e.g. 140 bhaṭaraganāṃ ṣoṭhaṃga Lpīpeya Sarpinae ca padamulanṃmi viyalidavo. According to Prof. Thomas (Acta Or. XII, 15) = vijālitavya-* 'to be untied'.
- viyoṣita: (viyoṣidavo, etc., also vyoṣ-), §§ 37, 42. = 'hand over (a payment that is due)': 434 eda Kutreyasa viyoṣidavo, Budhasenaṣa niyidavo 'This (horse) is to be delivered by Kutre and taken by Budhasena'; 142 Lpīpeya pācevara avamīcae dita milima 1 khi 1 yahi purvika śa giṃṇaṃti atra diguna viyoṣeṃti tena vidhanena atra ṣoṭhaṃga Lpīpeyaṣa pācevara viyoṣitavo 'Lpīpeya gave some food as a loan, mi 1, khi 1; the traditional rule is that people pay back twice as much as they receive; according to that rule the food is to be repaid to the ṣoṭhamga Lpīpeya'.

The verb is no doubt = Pkt. vosira, which the grammarians derive from vy-ava-sj-. That would not account for this form, which seems to represent vy-ava-ṣrayati*. This is further supported by the forms which occur (without vi-) in the Mahāvastu, cf. Senart's note on I. 13. 6. There are three forms: osarati, osirati and oṣirati. The difference of the vowel (a and i) would be understandable, if it were a svarabhakti vowel out of an original group śr, and the i in the third form may be original.

viraga: § 16.

viḷoṭa: 'plundering', usually in conjunction with aloṭa, e.g. 494 Khotamniyana aloṭa viḷoṭade purva 'Before the ravaging and plundering by the Khotanese'. The ṭ (not ḍ) indicates a double consonant -ṭṭ-. The corresponding Sanskrit word appears as luṇṭh- or luṇṭ-, with a nasal inserted.

vilomaya: 510. Probably to be read vilomani.

viṣati: '20', § 46.

viṃśpade: Only 82 Suḡutaṣa viṃśpade Cimgeyaṣa śatade 'From Suḡuta's viṃśpa and Cimge's śata', śata, literally 'hundred', is an administrative division: viṃśpa being used parallel to it must be something the same, but the form is obscure. Phonetically it must represent viśva-, which does not fit the sense.

viṣaj-: 'to send'. The two forms viṣaj- and viṣarj- are used indiscriminately, § 37.

vismaridaḡa: 'forgotten'. The group sm is preserved in this word though usually s is omitted. Cf. § 49.

viheṭa: § 18. Usually viheḍ-.

viheḍeti: = viheṭhayati 'trouble, molest, harass': 164 avi ca ahono iṣa Peta aḇanemciye palḇi dhaṃa prace suṭha viheḍemti 'And now here the people of Peta aḇana are causing trouble about the conditions of taxation'; 206 Sujata iṣa suṭha viheḍitanṭi 'They harassed Sujata a great deal here'.

vucati: § 94.

vuta: 655. = uṭa 'sown'.

vurcuḡa: Denotes a particular class of people: 554 sarva traṃghadhare goṭha bhaṭara jaṇṇa śramaṇṇa braṃaṇṇa vurcuḡa śaca ede jaṇṇa . . . iṣa anitavo 'All the state officials, the people who are heads of houses, monks, brahmins and vurcuḡas . . .' vurcuḡa is a title of Luṭhu in 277; vurcuḡa luṭhuṣa pradeḡade 'From the district of the vurcuḡa Luṭhu'. We also have the phrase vurcuḡana pradeḡade 'From the district of the vurcuḡas' twice (277, 304), both times heading lists of camels and the individuals connected with the transaction.

vuryaḡa: Some kind of official. Four or five people are given this title: Opḡeya (290, 384), Vuru (569), Ratḡe (586, 715), Pḡita (579). In 215 vuryaḡa is given as a possible alternative reading to the one given in the text. The vuryaḡa Opḡeya is head of a pradeḡa 'district': 762 aṇṇa muli vuryaḡa Opḡeyaḡa prateḡade lihtaḡa 'The price of the corn from the district of Opḡe was written'. A variant of the word is uryaḡa (cf. § 30) in 630 treya uryaḡana paride jaṇṇa 10 4 1 kala Puṇṇabalasa dadavo 'From the three uryaḡa 15 people are to be given to kala Puṇṇabala'.

vṛtaḡa: = vṛddhaka-, § 24.

vṛdhe: Plural, § 60.

veḡa: (also vēḡa). In the phrase veḡa kilme striyana the term indicates some class of women: 211 veḡa (so read instead of draḡa) kilme striyana palḡi na aniyamṭi 'They will not bring the tax of the veḡa kilme women'; 714 avi vēḡa kilme striyana palḡi sṡura pruchidavo 'Also the tax of the veḡa kilme women is to be demanded (or enquired into) in full'. After general instructions about palḡi 'tax', the palḡi of the veḡa kilme women is mentioned by itself as a special class. 165 veḡa kilme striyana palḡi bhuma na va ka aṇṇa sṡura viṡajitavo admits of two readings, either bhuma navaka aṇṇa as in the text or bhumana vaka aṇṇa. Translated according to the latter reading it runs: 'The tax of the veḡa kilme women (and) the corn paid as rent (see under vaka) for the lands is to be sent in full.' 481 Yapḡu viṇṇaveti yatha eḡasa svasu Suḡnumae nama Dhamapri Sumadatasā ca matu, na loti muḡesi diti . . . pruchidavo, yo Suḡnumae vēḡa kilme dhamā hoati taha Suḡnumae putranam eḡa palḡi Yaḡe avanammi kartavo 'Yapḡu says that his sister called Suḡnumae is the mother of Dhamapri and Sumadata loti and muḡesi have not been given . . . you must enquire into it, what obligations Suḡnumae has concerning veḡa kilme, this tax is to be paid by the sons of Suḡnumae in Yaḡe avāna'. There is obviously not enough material here for deciding the meaning of the word, but it is possible that it represents vēka* out of Iranian vidavak (Pahl. vēvak, N.Pers. bēvah), meaning 'widow'. Certainly Suḡnumae in 481 was a widow, because the dealings are with her sons, not her husband. Even then the phrase veḡa kilme is difficult; kilme usually means something like 'district'. The veḡa kilme might mean something like the 'widows' department', 'widows' state'.

veda: (or reda). A particular object (655).

vera saṃśaya: 283 yo teḡa vamtī purimaḡa vera-saṃśaya taṃ viṡmuri-tavya 'They must forget their old hatred and suspicion'.

vevatuḡa: § 75.

vothavidavo: 331. It is not equal to vyavasthūpayitavya-. Initial vy- is not assimilated to v (§ 42). The passage runs: na vikrimidavo na ba vo thavidavo nevi gothade dura nikhalidavo. By comparison with similar formulas (see s.v. baṁdhova) there is little doubt that ba vo has been miswritten for badho or baṁdhova.

vyalidavo : See vyalitavo.

vyarivala : vihāra pāla-, cf. § 28.

vyaḷpī : Fem. of vyaḷa 'wild', § 31.

vyavasthavidaga : 229 'arranged, settled'.

vyochimna : 506. = vyavachinna- used as an active past tense (§ 107).

The form vyochinnida- is the usual one; 'decided'.

vyoṣeti : See vyoṣeti.

vraçhi : 586 vraçhi chinnaṇṇae obviously represents vrkṣa 'to cut down the trees'. Probably miswritten for vriçha (i.e. the vowel stroke attached to the wrong akṣara). That would regularly = Skt. vrkṣa, § 5.

Ÿ

veṣl : 719. Cannot = veṣyā on account of the ṣ. The palatal ṣ is always kept distinct.

Ś

śakoma : § 95.

śagrī : Epithet of masu 'wine' (or 'grapes') 349, opposed to ṣuki masu (see s.v. ṣuka). It seems to be equivalent to śaḍi, which occurs twice (169 and 221), and perhaps should be read so. śaḍi would mean 'wine or grapes fresh from the vineyard' (śaḍa).

śaçhami : (śaçhe, śaçhyami), §§ 41, 99.

śaṁḍa : Epithet of aṣpa 'horse'. No doubt = Skt. śaṇḍha, meaning 'a castrated horse'. The confusion of sibilants is noticeable, but the writing wavers in Sanskrit between śaṇḍa and śaṇḍha (Monier-Williams, Skt. Dict.). We find initial ś- for instance in the Bower MS. (see the Index, s.v. śaṇḍya).

śaḍa tammi : § 18.

śata : An administrative division meaning something like 'a hundred (households)'. Frequently at the head of lists containing accounts of taxes, etc., e.g. 168 Svayaṣa śadammi masu ṣeṣa khi 10 4 'In the śada of Svaya, arrears of wine 14 khi'.

śata racana : Something among a list of objects stolen (225).

śato go : Read vito, as suggested alternatively.

śadani : Plural, § 61.

śadavida : An official title. They were closely connected with the karsenavās. They are mentioned together, e.g. 482 edaṣa kilme-yaṇṇi Molpina bhuma ladhaye, śadavida karsenavā achimnaṇṇi, na oḍṇṇi kriṣaṇṇae 'In his kilme Molpina has received some land, the śadavidas and karsenavās take it from him and will not let him plough'. Also in 86. They are mentioned as transporting the commodities paid as tax to the king (159, 247); Ricikga is called a śadavida at 715, a karsenava at 590.

One might regard it as a denominative from śada meaning 'a person put in charge of a śada' (see above s.v.). Of the people given the title of śadavida, most are mentioned as being in charge of śada's, namely Suḡita (76; 247), Yapgu (76; 656), Maṣdhiḡe (41; 436), Kapḡeya (41; 569). The title is comparatively not very frequent, about nine being mentioned by name.

śamuḡa raya(na): Occurs twice: 252 śamuḡa rayana khayana māṃṣa dadavo 'śamuḡa rayana and meat to eat shall be given'; 387 ahuno śamu(ḡa) rayana ṃci viṣajidavo sudha namata 2 viṣajidavo. In the latter passage it is obvious that 'raya na ṃci should be read, because ṃci does not occur by itself but only with the negatives na and ma. Translate: 'Now the śamuḡa raya are (or is) not to be sent, only (sudha) the two felt garments are to be sent.'

The significance of the term is quite obscure. In 387 śamuṃta is given as a more probable reading in the corrections (Khar. Inscr. p. 292). If so it may be the same as śamuta in 15, which is equally obscure.

śamuta: 15. Possibly the same as śamuṃta (śamuḡa) (see above).

Śamṣena: § 13.

śaratammi: § 72.

śavāvitavya: Causative of śap-, § 104.

śiṃgavera: 'ginger', § 5.

śiḡra: 'quickly', § 90.

śiṭha: śiṣṭa- (śās) 'punishment, chastising': 248 śiṭha nigrāha kartavya 'Chastising and punishment is to be made'; 248 ahuno Cimolaṣa śiṭha kiḡa prahara dita 'Now chastisement was performed on Cimola, blows were given'. Similarly 371, 517.

śiṭhidavya: 482 go aviṃdama śiṭhidavya 'They are to be punished by paying a cow as damages'. On double formations like this see § 116.

śiṭhe: 'remaining, left over', 305, 519. = śiṣṭaka (śiṣ-). On -e < aka, see § 53.

śitiyaṃmi: Seems obviously from 678 to mean 'side': Kroraiṃṇaṃmi mahamṭa nagaraṣa daḡhina śitiyaṃmi bhuma 'Land in Kroraina on the right-hand side of the great city'. The only other passage where it occurs is 604 yaṃ kālāṃ Ramakaṣa śitiyaṃmi Caṣḡeya songha anita 'At the time when Caṣḡeya brought songha (= ?) to the side of Ramaka'. The reading yiti- is also possible (Khar. Inscr. p. 308).

Śilaprava: § 20.

śiśila: = śiṭhila- 'slack', § 50.

śuka: Epithet of masu 'wine' or 'grapes' (see s.v.). Not = śulka 'tax' as Lüdgers ('Zur Geschichte des ostasiatischen Tierkreises', S.P.A.W. (1933), p. 6) takes it, because it is used exclusively of masu and never of other commodities, while the usual word for 'tax' is palpi.

masu undoubtedly means wine, because it is referred to as a liquid (cf. s.v. masu and 633, 175). Possibly however it may have had the meaning of 'grapes'. At any rate suka is easiest to explain on that supposition, i.e. śuśka- 'dried grapes'. The aspirated form sukha occurs once (387). On the omission of aspiration see § 24. More difficult is the fact that the regular treatment of śk is ṣḡ (see § 49).

Dried grapes also figure in Tibetan documents from the same region. Prof. Thomas, J.R.A.S. (1934), p. 475.

If masu means wine, suka might be regarded as connected with the Skt. sukta- meaning 'fermented'. The relationship of the two forms would be something like that between Pkt. mukha- and Skt. mukta-. A further possibility is sukla, referring to the colour of the wine.

śuḡa bhava: (°Bava) 252. Quite obscure.

śudha: 'cleared off; clearing off' (of payments, debts, obligations).

Usually in the phrase śudha upagata. Cf. śodheti in the sense of 'pays off'.

śune lomaṭi: 'dogs and foxes' (see s.v. lomaṭi).

śeṣa: 'arrears' of tax.

śodhitavo: (śodheyiṣyasi, etc.). = 'pays off' of śudha.

śpeta: = śveta, § 49.

śramap: = śramana, § 13.

śrutaḡena: § 112.

śruti: Indecl. part., § 102.

śruiyati: 'it is heard', § 94.

śvasu: 'sister', §§ 22, 49, (decl.) 68.

śvasti: § 49.

śada: See B.S.O.S. VII, § 14. There are two alternatives: (1) that it = N.Pers. šād, etc. 'pleased'. If so it is interesting, because the Khotanese Saka is excluded as the dialect from which it was borrowed. They have tsāta-; (2) that it is Indian Pali sāta 'pleasant', assāta- 'unpleasant', out of śrāta-, 'cooked', hence 'sweet'. In view of the prevalence of Iranian influence in the language, the first alternative is probably to be preferred, as being less complicated.

śampdedavo: § 116.

śadosmi: § 106.

śaṃṇa: 'hemp', Skt. śāṇa, with palatal. Cf. N.Pers. šan (š=ś).

śamana: = śramana, § 68.

śamirṇa: 318. Some article.

śamiyena: A completely obscure term used in connection with masu

- 'wine' (637) and aṇṇa 'corn' (103). Also ṣamiyo (225), e.g. 703 se amna saṃgalidavya Saṃgoṣasya picavidavya milima 4 1 du kḥi ṣamiyena 'That corn is to be collected and delivered to Saṃgaṣa, five milima and 2 kḥi, ṣamiyena'; 637 Cikrnto, vasu Saḡamoya Turppala Cakola ṣaca masu parvateṣu ṣamiyena milima 4 2 giḡati 'Cikrnto, the vasu Saḡamoya Turppala and Cakola took wine into the hills ṣamiyena 6 milima'.
- ṣayati*: 'seizes'. = ṣrayati -te §§ 6, 38: 324 vasu Yomuṣa dajha maṃnuṣa Saṃrpina nama Supiya ṣayitaṃti, Cinaṣḡaṣiyasa prahuḡa prahitaṃti 'The Supis seized a slave man of the vasu Yonu called Saṃrpina and sent him as a present to Cinaṣḡaṣi'; 713 yaṃ ca yudhaṃmi maritaṃti, yaṃ ca jivaṃtaḡa ṣayitaṃti 'Both those which they slew in battle and those they took alive'.
- ṣiṅga poṅge*: i.e. ṣiṅga poṅge, cf. § 47. See s.v. poṅge.
- ṣilpoḡa*: 'document' or 'tablet'. Some of the documents refer to themselves as eda ṣilpoḡa (470). They are regularly mentioned as being written ṣilpoḡa lihiṭaḡa (312, 470). Lüders (B.S.O.S. VIII, 652) compares Toch. A. ṣlyok = Skt. śloka. It is there perhaps a native Tocharian word identified with the Sanskrit rather than a borrowing. Otherwise such irregularity would be difficult to explain. Perhaps too with an originally more general meaning as seen here.
- ṣulḡa*: 582 eta ṣulḡa lihiṭaḡa. Obviously the same as ṣilpoḡa. A phonetic variant (ṣilpoḡa = ṣilyoḡa, § 31), or merely an error of spelling (?).
- ṣulpaḡaṃdha*: Some article that has to be sent.
- ṣeyita*: § 6.
- ṣeraka*: 289 and 431-2. A proper name (?).
- ṣo*: '6', § 89.
- ṣoṭhaṃga* (and ṣoṭhaṃgha): An official in the royal administration charged with keeping the accounts of taxation and royal property (camels, etc.), 'tax-collector'. Such in general seems to have been the nature of their functions to judge from the allusions which occur. We find individual ṣoṭhaṃghas charged with peculation: 272 eda masu masuwi ṣoṭhaṃga draṃghadhare ṣarve pariḡchinavitaṃti 'This wine the ṣoṭhaṃgas belonging to the wine department and the officials have consumed entirely'; 567 suḡiya viṃṡaveti yatha edaḡa caturtha varṣa huda ṣoṭhaṃgha huda, goṭhaṃmi suṭha vinaṭhaḡa, iṣa masuwi draṃgaṃmi gaṃnana kiḡae huda, Suḡiya Pḡṣa ṣaca dharanaḡa hutaṃti masu ṣada paṃcaṣa milima pramana . . . yati eṣa Suḡiya goṭhami vinaṭhaḡa siyati, eṣa Suḡiya ṣoṭhaṃga dhaṃade nikhalidavya, aṃṡla ṣoṭhaṃga kartaṃva, yo masu rayaka masu masuwi draṃgaṃmi dharanaḡa hutaṃti, taha se masu Suḡiya Pḡṣa ṣaca viyoṣidavya, puranaḡa masu saṃgalidavo, yo navaḡa masu-vaṃmi Suḡiyaṣa nasti karya, aṃṡeṣa ṣoṭhaṃgana saṃgalidavya 'Suḡiya says that this is the fourth year that he has been a ṣoṭhaṃga; he has lost a lot on the farm. Here in the wine office a reckoning has been made. Suḡiya and Pḡisa owe 150 milima of wine. . . . If this Suḡiya has lost it on the farm, he must be removed from the duty of šoḥamga. Another person must be made šoḥamga. The wine, royal wine that they owe to the wine department, this wine Suḡiya and Pḡisa must pay: the old wine is to be collected, as regards the new wine Suḡiya has nothing to do with it, it is to be collected by the other šoḥamgas. From this it is quite clear that the šoḥamghas were engaged in collecting commodities, wine, etc., paid as tax: also that they were appointed by the local cojhbo, the letter being addressed to cojhbo Somjaka.

The office was nearly related to that of divira 'scribe'. The divira Ramṣotsa is also referred to as šoḥamgha Ramṣotsa. In 520 Suḡiya is said to hold two offices, that of šoḥamgha, and that of scribe. The divira Moḡiya (598) is son of the šoḥamgha Moteḡa. The divira Vuḡaca (507) is son of the šoḥamgha Luṭhu. The šoḥamgha Karjaka (182) is said to be in charge of the royal camels. šoḥamghas are charged with conducting camels to the king (341). They were charged with making payments from the royal treasury. Letters are addressed to the šoḥamgha Lṗipeya to make provision for envoys to Khotan (14, 135), to pay a woman's wages (19), in connection with the appointing of officials (435), etc. The word occurs in Toch. A. as šoṣtāñkāñ 'tax-collectors' (cf. H. W. Bailey, B.S.O.S. VIII, 905).

švaṭhamga: § 7.

saṃgalitaḡa: (saṃgalitavo, saṃgh-, etc.). = 'collect'; Skt. saṃkalayati, § 46.

saḡaḡi: § 1.

sa ca: (1) § 122. Meaning 'and'. Possibly = Vedic sacā 'with', although the writers seem to have regarded it as the genitive termination with -ca. At any rate they occasionally wrote -asya ca instead: 561 aṃklatsa puṭḡetsa odarasya ca (three different kinds of camel: subject of the sentence).

(2) An introductory particle appearing at the head of messages in letters, e.g. 1 (and passim) mahanuava maharaya lihati, cojhbo Taṃjakaša matra deti, sa ca . . . 'The great king writes, he gives instruction to the cojhbo Taṃjaka, namely . . .'. In private letters after the introductory formulas the contents of the message are introduced by evaṃ ca viṃati, sa ca . . . (288) 'And thus is the message, namely . . .' or more often evaṃ ca, sa ca . . .

saṃcaya: = saṃśaya 'doubt', § 48.

Sacyami: Miswritten for Sacammi, § 41.

sačhi: 'witness'; declension of, §§ 60, 70.

sajeyati: Optative, § 100. Only used in the phrase ko pačima kalaṇṇmi vedeyati codeyati sajeyati, a formula referring to bringing a question before the law and finding fault with an agreement already made. In its place we find in 661 yo pacema kali...cudiyadi vidiyadi vivadu uthaviyadi. It is not clear how the meaning can be connected with Skt. sajyati 'cling'.

samña: = sañña-, § 44. Usually in the phrase tanu samña janidavo, e.g. 585 asmabhi kilmeci avaśa jheniḡa hotu tanu samña janidavo 'The people belonging to our kilme must certainly be under your care, they are to be recognised as your own'. Either the phrase is to be regarded as a Bv. compound tanusañña-, something like 'characterised as one's own', or more probably talpuruṣa = tanu-sañña jñātavyā 'an idea that they are your own is to be recognised', because in 331 tanu and samña are separated: yatha tanu dita samña janidavo.

satriśa: 209, may be sadṛśa 'a penalty equal for both parties'.

samdena: 475 sarva saṇḍena aroḡemi 'I am well with all that belongs to me'.

sadha: 'with', §§ 22, 37, 92.

sapimḡa: 71. = 'owned in common'.

samprajaya: 399 samprajaya kartavya kujala kartavya brahmacariḡa. The letter closes with formulas from the Buddhist religion, naturally in a different style and language from that of the ordinary documents. Obviously samprajānya- is meant, Pali sampajāñña 'care, attention, circumspection'. The treatment of ny is unexpected.

sampreṣeyati: § 6.

samḡamḡhamma: mitra samḡamḡhamma. Written for sambadhama 'We have formed a friendship'. On the insertion of anuvāra where it does not belong, cf. § 47.

samao: 'with', §§ 22, 92.

samaya: 'agreement, contract'.

samarena: 164. An official designation parallel with tsamghina and kvemaḡḡhina. In 387 samarenammi is given as an alternative reading for samasenanammi in the text. There, likewise, the term is used in connection with taxation.

samaho: = samao, §§ 28, 92.

samḡdhae: § 5.

samme: 149, 617. An abbreviation for samvatsare.

samovada: 'agreement'.

ṣarvaṣaṃ: 326 Kamāya ni goṭha gṛhavaṣa bhumačhetra ṣarvaṣaṃ tena samao. Read ṣarvasaṃtena as one word. 'K.'s farm, house, land along with everything that is his'; cf. s.v. saṃdena. For sarvasanta- in the sense of 'all one's belongings', cf. Divyāvadāna, p. 439, l. 30.

sarva śpara: See s.v. śpara.

sarvina: Gen. Plural, § 88.

saṃvatsare: § 58.

saṃśaya: See vera saṃśaya.

sasteyanmi: = 'divasayanmi', cf. sasteḥi below.

sasteḥi: Same as sasteyanmi. It occurs also in three Kharoṣṭhi inscriptions from N.W. India (C.I.I. vol. II, Index). Konow (ib. p. 152) explains it as a participle sasta- from Iranian sad- 'to shine'. The word is not known to occur in this sense in any Iranian dialect that is preserved, but the development of meaning is quite natural; cf. N.Pers. rōz from ruč- 'to shine'. More difficult to explain is the termination -hi. It is less common than -eyanmi. Since it is the only form that occurs in the (older) inscriptions from India, it is no doubt the original form, while sasteyanmi represents the analogical introduction of the usual termination of the locative singular. Konow (loc. cit.) explains it as instrumental plural, but the syntax is by no means clear.

sahini: Epithet of bhija 'seed', differentiating it from juṭhi, which is equally obscure (see s.v.): 291 sā aṇṇa cavala saṃgalitavo, dui bhaga juṭhi, eka bhaga sahini, uta 20 20 tre tre milima nadha kartavo 'That corn is to be quickly collected, two parts juṭhi, one part sahini. Forty camels are to be loaded with 3 milima each'; 387 bhuma vikrida bhija sahini vajo khi 4 3 'He sold land with a capacity for 7 khi of sahini seed'.

sānapru: 660 (also sanapru). Some article consisting of cloth.

śikhi: Epithet of aṇṇa 'corn', 532. Meaning unknown.

siddhalavaṇṇa: 109. Apparently siddhalavaṇa-, meaning some kind of salt. Something corresponding to sindhu- or saindhava- would be more familiar. Saka has sidaluṃ translating saindhova which is obviously derived from our word.

śimici: § 77.

siyati: § 42.

sira: Only 140 śi 3. Some article.

sukri: Only 74. Epithet of uṣa 'camel'.

suṭha: = suṣṭhu 'very'. The form must correspond to something like suṣṭham*.

suḍa: or sutra; reading uncertain. Epithet of muli 'price', e.g. 590 aṃṇa sutra muli giḍa 4 4; 480 aṃṇa atga suḍa muli giḍa aṃṇa milima 1 khi 10 (see also atga). In 714 without muli in a list of things sent as tax: . . . croma, aṃṇa suḍa ekamaṃta. . . The meaning is quite obscure.

suḍi: = (?) 566. suḍi karna baṃdhana.

suḍe: 107. Epithet of draṃgadhare 'officials'.

sudha: = 'only', § 91. The etymology is not clear.

Supiye: Name of a hostile people always mentioned as engaged in marauding activities, carrying off animals (212) and men (324, 491). They are mentioned as attacking Calmadana (= Cercen) 119, 324, 722, Caḍota 183. There was a garrison at Sāca (Endere) to watch out for them, 133, 578. The cojho Samjaka at Caḍota was not strong enough to oppose them in the field, and locked himself and the inhabitants within the city walls, until they went away. The desert on the north and Khotan in the west being excluded, they must have been tribes in the Kun-Lun mountains to the south-east of that strip of the Shan-Shan kingdom which ran up through Cercen to Niya. In the Saka text published by Leumann (E xvi. 9) they are mentioned as Supiya (which shows that the i was long), along with Huns and other invaders who attacked the Kingdom of Khotan. Cf. further Prof. Thomas in Acta Or. XII, 54 ff. and Tib. Texts and Docs. pp. 78 and 156.

sumlṃṇa: 'dream', 151.

Suliga: Either 'inhabitant of Kashghar' as Prof. Thomas suggests, or possibly 'Sogdian'. On the form, cf. Gauthiot, Grammaire Sogdienne, I, p. vi.

suṣeṭha: (also suṣeṣṭa). A title. Nothing very definite about their sphere of activity is to be learned. The suṣeṭha Khosa goes on an embassy to Khotan (362). Suṣeṭhas act as judges along with ogus, cojhos, etc. (506, 709). About nine are mentioned.

suśaga: 215. Some class of individuals: treya suśaga eka eka potaga giḍaṃti 'The three s's took one young animal each'. Another possible reading is vuryaga (see s.v.). The word appears as sujaga in 387 sujaga rajadhama kareṃti. 'Informer' (sūcaka-)?

suṣmela: = Skt. sūkṣmela, a particular kind of spice ('cardamom').

On the treatment of h, cf. § 48.

suha: = 'well', §§ 27, 91.

se: = sa, §§ 12, 22, 80.

seniye: 'soldiers', § 60.

sokhalīga: 665 sokhalīga sarthaṣa 'The sokhalīga caravan'. Name of a place (?).

soṃgha: Occurs twice. 637 aṃṭha, kāḷaṣa padamulāde varṣa varṣi rajadhareyana soṃgha prasaviṭaḡa 'Another thing, soṃgha was granted year by year from the feet of the kala to the employees of the state'; 604 yaṃ kala Ramakaṣa śitiyaṃmi Caṣgeya soṃgha anita 'When Caṣgeya brought soṃgha to the side of (? cf. śitiyaṃmi) Ramaka'.

sotira: Apparently a title. 580 sačhi divira Apgeya sačhi sotira tasuca Catata 'The scribe Apgeya was a witness, the sotira tasuca Catata was a witness'. Possibly an adaptation of the Gk. σωτήρ.

soṃstarṇni: 149. Some article. Probably some piece of apparel because it is mentioned between kaṃculi 'girdle' and kayabaṃdhana.

stasyati: §§ 41, 99.

stora: = Av. staora-, Pahl. stōr, N.Pers. sutūr 'a large animal' (camel or horse) or simply 'horse'. In 13 vaḡavi storam ca, it obviously means 'horse'. In 164 sada storena, jaṃna samaho, it means 'animals' as opposed to jaṃna 'people'.

storavara: 'riding on a stora'. Iranian -bāra as in O.Pers. asabāra-, etc. Formed with the same suffix are also aṣpavara, utavara, and possibly Pursavara (a proper name). In Skt. aśvavāra (Epic.).

stovaṃna: Only 399 tasmārtha eta stovaṃna atra viṣajita uṭa prichamnaye, yaḥi eṣa stovaṃna atra eṣati, lekha vacitu, tomi stovaṃnaṣa haste uṭa iṣa prahadavya 'Therefore this stovaṃna has been sent there to demand a camel, when this stovaṃna comes there, having read the letter, a camel is to be dispatched in the hand of the stovaṃna'. It is either a proper name, or the name of a particular kind of official that might be used for the purpose.

stri: Declension of, § 68.

Spaniyakā: 661. Iranian name (?), cf. B.S.O.S. VII, 515. (Av. spanyah- 'more holy', Pahl. spēnāk.)

spāra: (also spura). = 'completely'. More often in the phrase sarva spāra (spura) 'all complete': 272 praṭha cavala paruvārṣi suka masu, ima varṣi masu sarva spāra saṃgalidavya 'Forthwith last year's dry grapes (?) and this year's grapes are to be quickly collected all completely'. An Iranian word. Saka uṣpurra-, Arm.L.W. spaṛ, Pahl. (u)spurr, (u)spurrik, N.Pers. sipari, cf. B.S.O.S. VII, 787.

spārna: = suṭarna, § 49.

spāṣa: 'watch, watching, guard'. Whence spāṣavaṃna 'guard, watchman'. Iranian spāsa* and spāsapāna* (cf. Sogd. sp's 'service', N.Pers. sipās 'thanks', both of which have lost the original meaning). The word is discussed in B.S.O.S. VII, 512. Cf. § 49. Cf. further Saka spasoṭha (H. W. Bailey, Z.D.M.G. 1936, p. 576).

spura: Cf. spara.

svachimna: 211. = (?).

svasavarniye: 471. Cf. spasavarnna.

sveta: 72. . . . priya sveta Kamcaḡa . . . seems to indicate some kind of relationship. The same document contains apru (see s.v.), which also apparently is a noun of relationship. Neither word appears anywhere else.

H

hačhati: Is used both for siyati and bhaviṣyati, cf. §§ 4, 99, 100. The optative sense is the more usual. The word = Pkt. acchai. The h-no doubt is from huda, hodi, hotu, etc. Cf. Prof. R. L. Turner in B.S.O.S. VIII, 795 ff.

hargā: = 'tax', or some particular kind of tax. The most usual word for tax is palpi. The word is Iranian. The Arm.L.W. hark corresponds most closely to it. A different form of the same base is represented by Ar. and N.Pers. xarāḡ. For a full discussion, cf. B.S.O.S. VII, 788.

hali: Obscure; only 83 ma imci eda hali kariṣyasi.

haṣḡa: Word of uncertain meaning; occurs in the phrase haṣḡa nikhaleti (297, 751) 'to remove, take out, a haṣḡa'; 297 haṣḡa nikhaleti, yatha purva dhamā haṣḡa iṣa rayadvarammi ativahidavo 'He takes out the haṣḡa . . . according to the former land the haṣḡa is to be sent over here to the king's court'.

In 542 we have haṣḡadana in the sentence: yatha stri Kaciyaē prace, haṣḡadana prace edeṣa vamtī parihaṣamti, eda siri hastagada karemti . . . that concerning a woman Kaci, concerning the giving of the haṣḡa, they make a claim against (?) him, and take hold of this woman'.

hastama: § 45. = 'dispute'. Same as vivada. Iranian word ha(m)-stamba-. Cf. B.S.O.S. VII, 788.

hiḡiteya: 399. The reading is not certain, but the context demands something corresponding to Skt. hṛdaya; a form hiḡeya would perhaps be all right.

hinajhasya: Title of Avijita Siṃha king of Khotan, 661. Iranian hinaṣa* = σιναρήςος, cf. B.S.O.S. VII, 514, and Konow, Acta Or. XIV, 231 ff. The word appears as hināysā in Saka (B.S.O.S. VIII, 701).
